THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL-DRESSED FOLK

IN THE ORCHARD

MY DEAR MADGE:

As I sit here at my desk the perfume of the apple-blossoms drifts in from the orchard and the music of girlish voices makes the day more sweet. I am entertaining a cousin of my better half and, believe me, she is a wonder for making friends. I have no need to fear about her having a dull time.

She has a pretty little gingham dress today. It is pink-and-blue plaid trimmed with plain pink. The bodice has a square pink collar edged with white batiste. Long sleeves are edged with a fringe, and a girdle of pink encircles the waist. The skirt has an applied hem that extends up one side in a large square piece outlined with linen-covered buttons. A batiste chemisette is worn with this frock.

Adele Thomas came over to join the blossom-gatherers. She is wearing a lavender linen dress with heavy string lace revers and collar. Lace tabs are inset at the side seams and fabric buttons and simulated buttonholes trim the bodice, sleeves and skirt. A collarless gumpo is tucked and trimmed with a black satin tie.

Little Anne De Farge adds the golden note to my color symphony. She has a buff-colored lawn, with a figured yellow bodice. This has a peplum and gives the coatee effect so popular in the new styles. White embroidery edges the crossed line and forms a fringe around the top of the bodice. Insertion edges the peplum.

They are doing more chattering than gathering, and I hear phrases of "only 8 cents a yard" and "made it myself." These put the pretty creatures quite in my "set."

Farewell, sister mine; I shall expect some help from you about kiddies' styles next week. With love, ELEANOR.

Elizabeth Brown Paul

OBJECT NECESSARY. If Germany, Dr. Peters declares, is seeking for an entente with England, she must have some definite object in view without this it is foolishness. Her friendship with France and Russia will remain unchaned. England will lose on her maritime and overseas supremacy and her traditional position as the power of a monopoly. What concession therefore, can be made to Germany? British sentiment is turned to Germany. It is a question of life and death. It is a question of life and death. Only fear will make a world.

FAIR RUNAWAY RETURNS TO PARIS

May Pension Off Husband; Scheme Was Once Successful.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, May 4.—The sensation of the city is the arrival here of the elopers, Gladys Ashé Gouraud Hooper of San Francisco and a Swiss dentist named Osterlog, who until last fall plied his useful trade in the Avenue MacMahon.

In this affair the heroine is the daughter of Mrs. Amy Crocker Gouraud by her former husband, R. Porter Ashé of San Francisco. The hero of the idyllic romance is a penniless dentist, who passed more of his time in an anaesthetic bar on the heights of Mont Martre than in studying painless dentistry.

Osterlog is one of the two young men whom Mrs. Amy Crocker Gouraud took with her from Paris to New York last fall in the capacity of court jester. She said she wanted them to enhance the artistic atmosphere of her entertainments. The second jester at the court of Mrs. Gouraud was a Russian singer from the Palmira bar in Mont Martre. This bar is as well known as even the "Rat Mort," and is popular with many Americans, such as Robert Corwin Hill, Theodore Gerard, Mrs. Dorothy Kehoe, Mrs. "Tommy" Pierce and many other lovers of Bohemia from New York.

When Mrs. Gouraud first took over the two jesters the Swiss dentist stood no higher in favor than the Russian singer, but in the course of the cold winter her daughter, Mrs. Gladys Ashé Powers Gouraud Hooper, ceased to see any amusement in the song and dance of the Russian, although her admiration for the society accomplishments of the dentist became boundless. The climax came one fine morning when they eloped to Egypt, leaving the Russian singer and the mother to bemoan their departure.

After finishing a season in the land of the Pharaohs they are now back in Paris, the scene of Osterlog's earlier triumphs, driving a touring car and in a motor car. They seem very happy while awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Jackson Gouraud, who was delayed in sailing from New York by a sprained ankle, but who is now on the sea on her way to Paris.

The question of forgiveness for the elopers is one that does not seem to worry the sprightly Mrs. Gladys Gouraud Hooper, who has the advantage over most children of not only being a daughter but a sister-in-law to her own mother.

Mrs. Jackson Gouraud's first marriage was with Porter Ashé, and after they had been divorced the mother was given custody of their only child, a little daughter, who has been christened Grace Gladys. Mrs. Gouraud's second marriage was to Henry Gill, commander of the Larchmont Yacht Club. Mr. Gill was divorced, as had been Mr. Ashé. The little girl, growing up in this mixed matrimonial atmosphere, adopted her mother's name and was known as Gladys Crocker.

MARRIES GOURAUD.
After the end of the divorce, the mother, who had inherited between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 from the estate of her father, came to Paris, where she met and married Jackson Gouraud, a son of Colonel Gouraud, a French-American citizen who had a spectacular career in finance.

The daughter and the self-styled Gladys Crocker were married, the daughter thus becoming her mother's sister-in-law.

But her first venture in matrimony was as profitless as that of her mother. After a few years spent in England, where Powers Gouraud hunted and golfed, Lewis Hooper, whom young Mrs. Gouraud had known in New York, appeared on the scene and was a guest at week-end parties given by the young Gourauds.

Gladys Gouraud fell in love with Hooper and sent Powers Gouraud to Sioux Falls to get a divorce, for, she said, "it is too much of a bore to stay out there six months myself."

Powers Gouraud was very popular in the divorce colony in Sioux Falls, where he was called "Chappie." His edited paper called "Chappie's Weekly" was so popular that a divorce was said to have received a settlement of $500,000 as a bribe for losing his wife.

HOOPER COMES ALONG.
Having pensioned off Powers Gouraud, Gladys married Hooper, whose real name was Walter Russell Hooper and was a dancer in the original Flodora next to her. Their life seemed quite happy, although Mrs. Hooper had said when quitting that she intended to be married at least three times, like her mother. It now seems certain she will carry out this design of her earlier years.

It was Reggie de Velle who gained a reputation dancing at the theaters of New York and who became a friend of Mrs. Jackson Gouraud and her daughter, who introduced the Swiss dentist to their good graces.

Osterlog is a small, dapper man, who seems to be easily managed and who probably would be tractable as a husband.

CRISIS PENDING IN GREAT BRITAIN'S SHIPPING

(By JOHN L. EDDY.)
(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, May 4.—Even the Titanic disaster is no exception to the rule that troubles never come singly. The whole shipping world, and especially that part of it which is allied with the White Star line and Morgan's steamship trust, is seething with labor discontent and getting ready for unparalleled disturbances. The tying up of the Olympic was a direct sequence of the Titanic sinking. The White Star's action in having strikers who objected to the lack of proper lifeboats imprisoned on criminal charges has not tended to soften the attitude of the men, hundreds of whose fellow workers had just given up their lives because the Titanic was not adequately equipped with lifeboats.

"Prepare for an early strike" is the word that is now being sent abroad, both among the big steamship companies and among the seamen's unions.

MANN IS BUSY.
Tom Mann, who was recently arrested for urging soldiers not to shoot striking miners, is employing the few days of liberty that remain to him before surrendering to his bail, is visiting British ports and urging seamen to unite for common action. His report is that the men are rapidly responding to the call. Efforts are being made to enlist the sympathy of American, colonial and continental organizations, among whom British seamen have been working for the past two months.

Besides demanding adequate provisions for safety the men will demand a revised manning scale, under which each seagoing vessel will be expected to increase the total of her crew by ten to twenty-five per cent. The object of the new agitation, as set forth by the leaders, is to lighten the burden of duty of the present crews and at the same time to absorb the rapidly increasing horde of unemployed.

SHOCK IS FELT.
The shock of that accident is being felt in every industrial nerve connected with shipping affairs. One of its first effects will be drastic changes in the British Board of Trade's antiquated system which keeps in its membership holders of offices that have been out of existence for a hundred years, and an ecclesiastical dignitary who until the Titanic sank was probably unaware of the board's existence. Its methods will have to be brought up to date if Britain is to hold her place against Germany as commercial mistress of the sea.

The plan under consideration by the government is the creation of a new department to deal with merchant shipping exclusively. More stringent regulations regarding the equipment of British ships with wireless telegraphy as well as lifeboats are likely to result.

Britain has not followed the example of the United States and Canada and Italy in making wireless equipment compulsory on every ocean going steamship. France is taking action and in Spain it has just been decided that after August 1 all Spanish merchant vessels which carry passengers or mail must have wireless installation.

Legislation is being prepared in England which will provide not only that all ships have wireless apparatus, but that each ship shall have at least two operators. Another change due to the Titanic accident is an increase in rates of insurance on vessels of the liner class. Both Lloyd's and the insurance companies are taking steps to bring about substantial advances in premiums. The rates in specie have already increased 50 per cent and on registered letters 25 per cent.

Alterations are being made in the plans of the White Star line's new $5,000,000 liner, the Gigantic, the keel of which has just been laid at Belfast. Under the revised plans the Gigantic will have a double cellular bottom and sides like the Cunard Company's Mauretania and Lusitania.

About Those Whose Portraits Appear Here

Mrs. Bertram Brooke is the wife of the Rajah of Sarawak's second son, whose native title is the Tuan Muda of Sarawak. She is the only daughter of the late Sir Walter Palmer, Bart. Tall and very beautiful, the Dayang Muda is well known in London society for her charming manner and her never-failing charity in the cause of the poor. The Tuan Muda's brother, the Rajah Muda, is heir to the "throne" of Sarawak, but until a son is born to him his brother, the Tuan Muda, is heir-presumptive.

Lady Desborough and her daughter, the Hon. Monica Grenell, snapped at the Garth Hunt point-to-point races, which attracted the usual large number of visitors. Lady Desborough takes the greatest interest in all sports like her husband, who of course is one of the most notable figures in the world of sport, and is and has been president of innumerable athletic gatherings.

Lady Marjorie Cochrane, the youngest daughter of Lord Dundonald, the twelfth earl, who has done much splendid work for his country in Egypt and South Africa, and who invented a new gun carriage which proved invaluable on the veldt.

Miss Viola Tree in a new portrait. Her engagement to Alan Parsons, son of the Viscount of Darnley, was announced a few weeks ago. Miss Tree is at present doing what is indicated in the portrait—resting.

Miss May Etheridge, the charming young actress, appeared successfully in "The Arcadians." Miss Etheridge is a talented actress whose beauty and cleverness should carry her far.

Miss Kathleen Tennant is the daughter of Mr. Francis Tennant and a niece of Lord Glenconner and Mrs. Asquith.

Eastern was built on this "double-skin" plan and although she had the unfortunate experience of running on a dock and was torn open to about one-seventh of her length, she got safely into port.

Lord Pirrie recently declared that he never saw a ship launched without feeling that if he had to commence the work again he could build a better one. He is having a chance now.

EXHIBIT FAMOUS IVORIES.

PARIS, May 4.—On May 1 was opened a unique exposition in what was once the house of Beau Brummel of Paris, the late Prince de Sagan, father-in-law of the Duchess Anna Gould de Talleyrand and of the Duchess Helen Morton de Valenay. It is an exhibition of the famous ivories which J. Pierpont Morgan purchased at a great price not long ago from M. George Hoenhals.

IRELAND AROUSED OVER EMIGRATION ARGUMENT

(By AUSTIN F. MAGUIRE.)
(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

DUBLIN, May 4.—In the loss of the Titanic the Irish Anti-Emigration league

finds new, if sad, argument against the continued desertion of their country by the young men and women of Ireland. When the great ship lurged under the waves, a large proportion of the third class passengers who were lost were sturdy young men and women, mostly of the farming class, who joined the Titanic at Queenstown.

Though there is evidence of a downward tendency in emigration statistics, still the fact remains that several years must pass before Irish emigration will be reduced to proportions that will be more in accord with the normal, or natural, overplus of the population of any well regulated nation.

Emigration has been one of Ireland's most acute afflictions for more than 60 years. The great exodus of the people from their native land came first in the fearful years of 1847-8 when a landlord-made famine decimated the land, while plenty reigned within her borders.

That a people did suffer famine while the landlords, backed by British bayonets, seized and sent out of the country to be sold in English markets, so that the landlords might have their rents, enough cattle, eggs, butter, poultry and farm produce to support every man, woman and child who died for want of food, is known now and cannot be denied by all the statisticians the landlord class has ever hired.

LADY MARJORIE COCHRANE

RUSSIA EXPECTS A BIG WAR WITH TURKEY

PARIS, May 4.—In St. Petersburg the general opinion seems to incline more and more to the belief that before long Russia will be implicated in another war, not against Japan, but against her old arch-enemy, Turkey; a war which is to realize the ambitions of Russia for decades, of extending the boundaries of Russia toward the south and to constitute the first step toward the foundation of a great Pan-Slavic empire under the Czar.

Rumors are heard that Russia and Italy have formed a secret alliance and are about to take joint action in the Balkan peninsula.

The real facts are that Russia and Italy are not allies, but friends. The Slav and the Latin nations are not allies. They, too, are friends. The imperial family and the Queen of Italy are connected by marriage. The Czar himself cherishes a strong friendly feeling for King Victor Emmanuel. But more than all else is the fact that the political interests of Russia and Italy are in close harmony on the globe. Against the annexation of Tripoli by Italy, therefore, Russia alone of all the European states has never raised an objection. Both the Italian and Russian governments are anxious to better the lot of the Christians of the Turkish empire—Italy in Albania and Russia in Macedonia. But no conversations have been carried on in either capital for the purpose of arranging a joint line of action now or later.

Italy was interested in launching these reports and getting them accepted as facts. She wanted to divert public attention from her navy. For her marine ministry was about to withdraw for a while a group of a ship's crew action in order to leave them repaired. The fact is that the boliers and engines of the Italian war vessels have suffered seriously from the wear and tear of six months active service and a long spell of firing practice which preceded that.

BRING CHARGE AGAINST KAISER

Secret Book Expected to Lash Germany to Highest Curiosity.

Prominent Men Hear of Move That May Be on Socialist Order.

(By COUNT VON ELPHBERG.)
(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, May 4.—The avowed purpose of a remarkable book to be published shortly at Zurich, Switzerland, is to show up the weak side of the Kaiser's character.

This work, which is believed to be a socialistic maneuver to discredit Emperor William II., is announced in a circular mailed to many men prominent in Berlin society.

But even the circular is anonymous. Neither the author of the book nor the author of the circular is indicated, and the names of the printer and publisher of either the circular or the book are omitted in this printed foreword.

HERE ARE POINTERS.
The circular states that the book is to be issued at Zurich, because the German law makes its publication in Germany impossible. After this introduction the circular gives an outline of what the book proposes to reveal concerning the Kaiser, as follows:
The Kaiser is an overrated and over-advertised man.

He is now an heroic figure, but a weak, irresolute and essentially timid man, who is always ready to quit and always does quit at every critical moment.

His reign is a long record of personal blunders.
His widely vaunted versatile knowledge is purely superficial.
His alleged military genius is not-existent.

His reputed ability as an administrator and ruler is pure humbug.
He is a faithless friend, whose disloyalty is proverbial.

He is a man of colossal deceit, fed on flattery and surrounded by sycophantic courtiers, who exploit to the uttermost his follies and failings.

But even though the emperor may be weak, covertly or openly, the emperor, who has been obliged to go to Bad Nauheim for the cure, has the sympathy of all loyal Germans, who regard her as an ideal house frau and a model for mothers in the Fatherland.

POPULAR VIEW.
That is the popular view of the Kaiser, but few know that the Imperial lady takes an active interest in public affairs. Although she prefers to remain in the background, she is good by stealth—she has for a long time sought to improve the conditions of theatrical life in Germany. And it is largely due to her influence that the government is preparing a bill which it expects to introduce in the Reichstag next session, to further the interest of actors and actresses.

There is urgent need for government intervention in the almost incredible conditions obtaining in German theaters. The managers here are engaged for the season of six or eight months. They usually join stock companies, each actor having to play several roles during the week, involving many rehearsals and are obliged to provide their own costumes. At some Berlin theaters actors who play small parts and dancers receive only $15 or $20 a week. In the provinces the matter is far worse. A ballet girl in the Hof theater, in Hanover, may be paid as little as $2.50 a week. The managers appear to have no conscience in the matter and expect the persons they employ to get money from other sources. And actresses with a monthly salary of $20 are expected to dress well and to wear different and expensive costumes they have, as a rule, to pay for all of them.

The Kaiserin is determined to remedy this state of affairs. As a preliminary step, the Minister of Interior has been in communication with different branches of the theatrical profession with a view of legislation in the interest of actors and actresses.

LITERARY HONORS FOR AMERICAN TRINITY

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, May 4.—A group of Americans have scored here in the literary world this week. Dr. David J. Hill, the former American ambassador to Berlin, has been honored by one of his books being "crowned" at the academy. The book is called "World Organization as Affected by the Nature of Modern States." It is in French dress, into which it has been put by Madame Bouteux.

That Dr. Hill's book receives academic honors is because of the nature of the work. These honors congruously come from the academy of moral and political sciences. The ceremony of coronation is simple consisting merely of the academy putting its stamp of approval on the book.

The preface of Dr. Hill's book is by Professor Louis Renault, of Paris faculty of law.

Not the academy but an academical, Emile Fauriol, pays a high tribute to the American poet, Francis Vielé-Griffin, in the Review de Paris.

The academical puts the American poet in the same class with the French poets.

The trinity of American literary accomplishment of the week appears in the publication by the famous Rodley Head library of "Footprints of Famous Americans in Paris." Mrs. John Lane, wife of the eminent London publisher, originally a Boston woman and who maintains the best traditions of the Athens of America, writes an anecdotal introduction which goes back to the days of the patriot Robert Morris, who financed the war of independence.

SHOT AT KING AIDS ITALY'S TREASURY

Boon to Finance Fired Through Barrel of Would-be Regi-cide's Pistol.

People Still Buying Tickets
Based on "Attentat Hunches."

ROME, May 4.—Perhaps the only branch of the civil government of Italy which has benefited by the attempt on King Victor's life is the "lottery department" of the ministry of finance.

One of the established institutions of Italian life is the lotto, or weekly lottery, drawn every Saturday in the eight large cities—Rome, Milan, Florence, Venice, Naples, Bari, Palermo and Genoa. Like the tobacco and salt monopolies, the weekly lotto is one of the government's ready money-making machines, for every week at least 20 per cent of the population invest their pence on the possibilities of extracting a fortune.

Such an opportunity as an attempt on the king's life was not to be lost by this nation of gamblers and millions of lire were risked on the possibility of fortunes being returned. Up to date no great win has been recorded, but thousands of tickets are still being issued on combinations drawn from the attack.

Every person has the chance to win a fortune in Italy on the last day of the week. In order to win this fortune he develops a superstition and a "canniness" which is almost incredible. Yesterday my dog, a tame "lup-etto," escaped from the house and getting into the street, had a fight with an animal much bigger than himself. About 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon she returned with a wound on her head, and as she walked upstairs she left little trails of blood. When I returned home the porter's wife greeted me most cheerfully and recounted the fight the dog had been in.

Gets "Gig" from Dog Fight.
I was not at all anxious to hear the history, but the portress added, with a childlike naïveté:

"Ma, signore mio, on Saturday we shall play 17, 28, 82."

Seventeen is the numerical cipher for "dog," twenty-eight was the number of the spots of blood left by my dog on the stairs, and eighty-two is the numerical cipher for "lupetto."
Gambling on the lottery is child's play to an Italian. There is a special book which educates him.

The "Libro di Sogno" is a volume of several hundred pages which can be purchased for one lira. In this book every event of life is tabulated and has a numerical significance. It includes a dictionary of thousands of words, against each of which is a number, 1 to 90. It gives "sympathetic" combinations, cabalistic possibilities, and dream interpretations.

EFFECT OF SHOT AT KING.
It is, therefore, easy to understand that such an extraordinary event as that which occurred on the king's life whetted the appetite of the lotto players.

Hardly had the news spread throughout the town before the "libri" were taken down and the respective numbers for "king," "house," "lupetto," "revolver," "revolver," "anarchist," were searched out, and man, woman and child were racing to the lotto shops to play their sold (half-pence).

But although this time fortune was fickle and the public did not win, on other occasions the treasury has had to pay heavily for a public accident.

I remember three years ago there was a small disturbance near the Via Ripetta, and a policeman arresting a man, in order to help, picked out his revolver and, as he thought, fired in the air. The bullet, however, went through the head of a girl looking out of a third story window, and she was killed on the spot. The girl's father appealed to the gambling instincts of the public. The lotto shops were crowded with people playing "accident," "policeman," "revolver." The three numbers came out, and the treasury had to pay out over $200,000 to the winners.

WIN ON MESSINA QUAKE.

At the time of the Messina earthquake people played "earthquake," "Messina" and "Reggio," and the amounts played were so great that the government had to close down on these particular numbers, not allowing anybody to play more than 50 times on them. The numbers came out and the government had to pay tremendously.

But the lotto does not always bring luck, even if you win. Rosina, a girl from Milan, found this out two years ago. She had been disappointed in love, and therefore went to bed and prayed that she might dream a cinquo—five numbers. She dreamed her numbers, and the next day she scraped together all the money she could and went to the lotto shop and played it. The numbers came out.

But to win a cinquo is extremely rare, therefore she had to go to the chief office and sign many papers.
Gradually the tale of her winning got into the newspapers. The police also read it, and recognized her as a young woman who was wanted for stealing her husband's jewelry three years ago.
Rosina is now "doing time," but when she comes out she has a fortune awaiting her.

The lotto in Rome is almost as old as the city itself. Rosina, a woman, left many books dealing with Roman and their interpretation, good and bad.

SKULL OF SCHILLER FOUND IN GERMANY

BERLIN, May 4.—The skull of Johann Schiller, the great German dramatist and poet, which has been missing for nearly 30 years, has been discovered. Professor August von Fries, of Tubingen University, a year ago opened an old vault at Weimar, which was known to contain Schiller's remains. He made a careful examination of seventy skulls which he found in the vault and established indisputably which was the skull of Schiller. He laid the skull and his conclusions before the anatomical congress at Munich, which has unanimously accepted the report. Professor Fries in 1880, proved that a skull which was supposed to be Schiller's was spurious.

MISS ALEXANDRA CARLISLE AS MAISIE
IN MR HEMMERDE'S PLAY "PROUD MAISIE."

THEIR TITLES AND WORK

Miss Alexandra Carlisle as "Maisie" in Hemmerde's romantic '45 play, "Proud Maisie," at the Aldwych Theatre, London. Cast in a romantic and singularly picturesque period Hemmerde's play in blank verse is full of stirring incidents, gorgeous costumes, charming music, and Highland kilts. It concerns the tragic love affair of Maisie, a supporter of the Stuart cause, and that of the man her brother believed to be a traitor to the king. In order to take her brother's place in a disguised, and dies at the hand of the man she loves. Then he, not recognizing the mistake in the darkness, commits suicide; the play thus ending on a tragic note.

Here is a new portrait of Lady Craven, who gave a reception to meet the Prime Minister and Mrs. Asquith. The photograph was taken at Lady Craven's town house in Grosvenor Gardens, where the reception was held. Lady Craven was before her marriage, Miss Cornelia Bradley Martin, and she is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, the well-known Americans, who are equally well known in England.
Her marriage to Lord Craven took place in 1893, and it created a great sensation, for her parents are enormously rich, and she herself was only sixteen at the time. The marriage has been a very happy one.
In 1897 Lady Craven presented her husband with a son and heir, Lord Uffington, who is their only child. She and her husband are great "first-nighters" and are to be seen at nearly all the productions of new plays.

A new portrait of Lady Glenconner, whose book, "The White Walet," has just been published by Mr. F. B. Rothemann. It is a charming and singularly picturesque period Hemmerde's play in blank

PARISIAN BEAUTY VICTIM OF BOLD ACID-THROWERS

PARIS, May 4.—The police have a mystery on their hands more puzzling than even the series of taxi-cab hold-ups.

chine in the Boulevard Saint Michel a fashionably dressed young couple who looked to him to take them to an address

With the burial of the famed battleship Maine outside the harbor of Havana, Cuba, on March 18, one of the most tragic episodes in modern history was brought to an end. From the first cry of "Remember the Maine," following the sinking of the vessel in the waters before Havana on February 15, 1898, to the final interment of the sailors' bodies found aboard, a period of over fourteen years, the Maine has been one of the foremost objects of interest to every American. With its final passing the wonderful engineering feat accomplished in its raising at last assumes its true importance.

For years the sunken warrior, with its cargo of thirty-four bodies, reposed in the harbor of the chief city of Cuba, not far from Morro Castle, the historic fortress of the Spanish. There it remained a menace to the shipping interests of the city and a blot on the patriotism of the country until public sentiment was aroused for its removal. At the same time a desire to understand more thoroughly the cause of the explosion of the Maine, whether from an external mine or internal explosion, grew, and the final decision of the United States government to undertake its raising and removal was received with interest and approval.

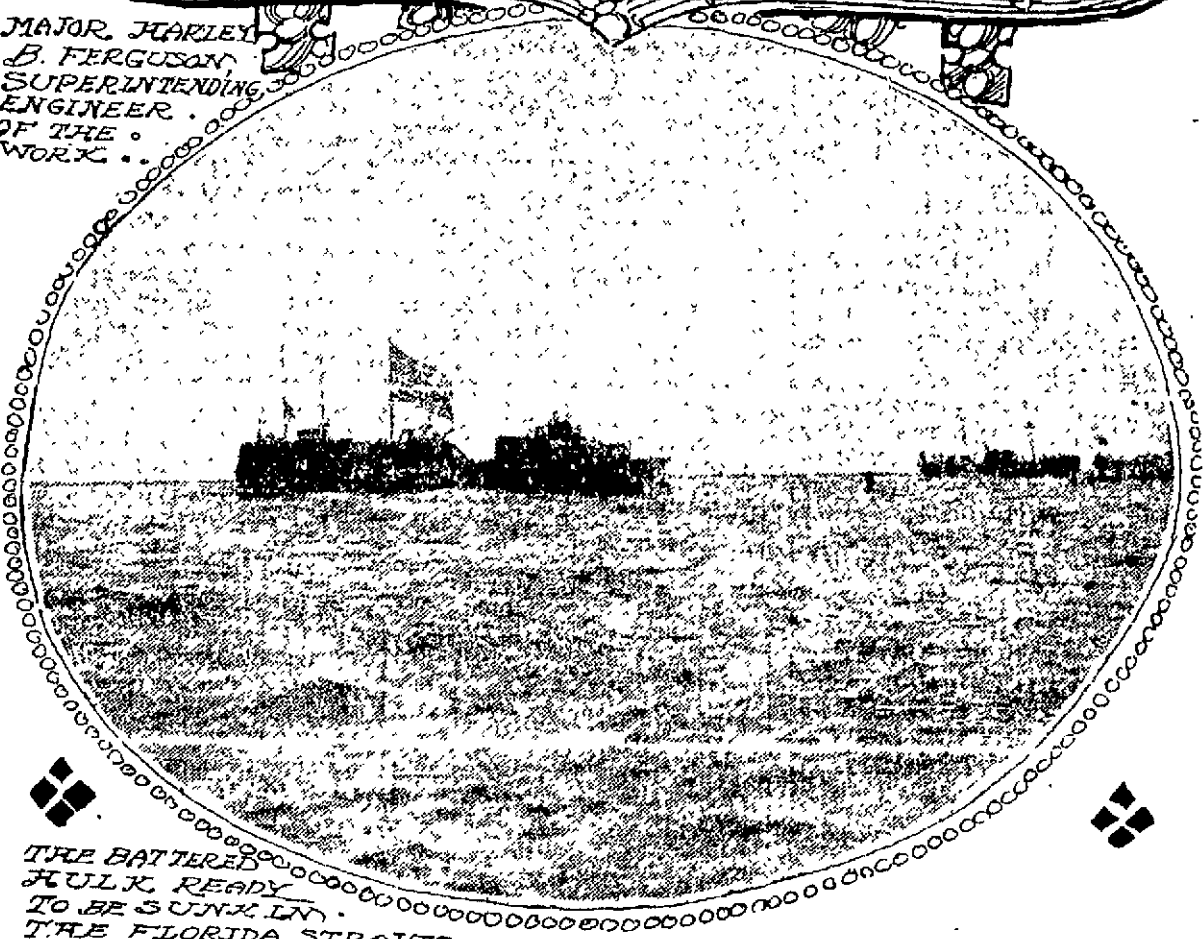

The engineering feat was declared by experts an impossible one, and the position of the battleship impregnable. But with the creation of the Maine Board of three army officers of the engineer corps several years ago to study the possibilities of the task, work was undertaken that has resulted in one of the greatest and most skillful feats in marine science.

The task set for the engineers was the construction of a caisson about the frame of the fallen leviathan. This had to be undertaken with the vessel sunk in twenty feet of mud, and required a labor of years. It resulted in what was recently declared by a writer in the "Outlook" of the issue of March 30, to be "an extraordinary and difficult piece of work," for which "our army engineers, under the direction of General Bixby and the supervision of Major H. B. Ferguson, must be awarded the highest praise."

ENGINEERING OFFICIALS RECEIVE PRAISE.

It is that praise which is now being given to the officers concerned in the work. While it was under the direction of William H. Bixby, brigadier-general and chief of the army engineers, merited interest in the undertaking centers in the personality of Major Harley B. Ferguson, who for more than two years has supervised the work.

Something of what this work has been

may be gained from the accompanying photographs of the battleship as she lay floating in her caisson previous to being towed to sea. Other photographs reproduced through the courtesy of Captain C. F. O'Keefe, official photographer, show the vessel on her way to her last resting place and as the burial was consummated.

RECORD OF SUPERVISING ENGINEER

As for Major Ferguson, this young officer in the regular army is not yet 37 years of age, yet by his work on this enterprise he has earned for himself a position among the distinguished engineers of the world. With a reputation for civil and construction work, he also has an enviable military record, dating from the time of his graduation from West Point in 1894 up to and through the date of his elevation to the rank of major on April 1, 1911.

That time Major Ferguson has served through the Cuban, Philippine and Chinese campaigns, in the latter having been chief engineer officer for General Adna R. Chaffee. While filling that position he received distinguished mention by that commander in dispatches for his work.

Yet it has been Major Ferguson's work on the raising of the Maine which has earned for him the most merited distinction and a position as one of the most popular and respected officers in the Cuban city. The Telegraph, Havana's leading newspaper, in one of its recent issues, that of Sunday, April 21, contains editorial mention of an article which expressed its admiration for the work of the leading writers of Cuban life, Richard Harding Davis.

That article in its entirety reads thus:

MAJOR FERGUSON.

"Writing of the 'Passing of the Maine' in the Sunday Magazine of April 7, Richard Harding Davis pays deserved tribute to an officer whose individual work was likely to be lost sight of in the importance of the circumstances with which the wreck itself was buried at sea and the remains of the sailors taken from it were buried at Arlington. After viewing the ruin of the battleship, Mr. Davis turned his admiration to the young man who had carried out the plan of the engineers, and had accomplished what for years had been declared an impossibility—with one hand to lift a battleship out of twenty feet of mud and with the other to hold back the water of the harbor, it was pleasant to find that Major H. B. Ferguson in his country's service of the United States Army was in character with the big work he had accomplished. It was pleasant to find that he was young, modest with his thoughts all on the work and not on the man who had carried it to success. And in Havana, where an honest American official has yet to escape without some charge against him of graft or self-advertisement, it was pleasant to find that in the case of Major Ferguson, Cubans, Americans and Spaniards combined in speaking his praises. It will be a poor return for the work he has accomplished if the war department does not recognize it by quick promotion, and if the same congressman who at the expense of the Maine so widely advertised themselves to many as well as to the world, should have us of veterans and grave peace and decent burial to the honors of American fighting men and an American warship."

WORK DONE IS HIGHEST HONOR.

"That the work which Major Ferguson has done has been appreciated and will be recognized seems certain. Reports in army circles are to the effect that on his completion of the remaining work in removing the caisson, which will require some three or four months additional, the officer will be ordered to Washington to the War College there. This is a high honor reserved for officers of exceptional ability who have accomplished work of note. Yet Major Ferguson's share in the monumental task of raising and lowering the ill-fated Maine.

Gertrude Atherton And Her Book, as Seen by Suzette

THE smart sets of the bay cities are busy discussing Gertrude Atherton's latest book, "Julia France." Everything Gertrude Atherton writes is of absorbing interest in our social world. For she generally hits the mark, and while we do not like it, we cannot but admit that she has truth on her side.

Her new book, "Julia France," is dedicated to Mrs. Fiek, and is, of course, one of the remarkable books of the day—just as Gertrude Atherton is one of the remarkable women of her time. It is wonderful the number of subjects she manages to discuss in this new book. On what ever side one turns there are able discussions; one reads of the lore of India, one is in the heart of the suffrage movement in India; one lives for a time in the heart of the lovely, tropical West Indies. Abdul Baba, the founder of one of the new lines of thought, has just come to America, and, lo, there is a discussion of him in "Julia France."

But it is not this that concerns the smart set more than any other group of people; it is what Mrs. Atherton has to say of the California smart set. She is not writing from without the pale, either; she comes of one of the most exclusive families of California, and she writes from the center of the social world. She despises affectation—pretension—and with keen, biting sarcasm, she sketches her word pictures. And she is always amusing.

A party of Californians appear quite early in the book, and over in England Julia meets the tourists. Here is what we read of them.

"Not only were the women and the young girl dressed more smartly than was common to the tourist in that part of the country, but they suddenly ducked their heads in a peculiar way and entered the farmhouse hat first."

"They're Californians," whispered the farmer. "San Franciscans, to be exact. I always can tell them by the way they put their heads down in a breeze—wind always blows in San Francisco, and it's second nature to butt against it; I know the earmarks of every state in their Union, and not only by their accents. You can know a Californian because he hasn't any, but the others would butter bread, except when they happen to have brass long enough to rub it off in Europe."

One wonders if we do put our heads down, as if we were always fighting the wind; and, at any rate, it is a comfort to know that we haven't any accent—"not so you could notice it," as the nice old Englishman says.

There is a paragraph representing Gertrude Atherton's own ideas of social conditions throughout the country:

"Washington is too mixed; Boston is obsolete; Chicago is too new for any use; San Francisco is too picturesque to be aristocratic; the South can take care of itself, and the rest of the country, with the possible exception of Philadelphia, would never presume to enter the discussion."

Well, grant us picturesque, and the other cities are welcome to the rest.

How a grande dame in London regarded the average California woman is told in the following paragraph: "If she had been told of the Sacramento store, with the pies in front and the wash tubs behind, it would not have affected her judgment in the least. She would have replied that all Americans have some such origin, and nothing amused her more than their ancestral pretensions.

"New is new, and republics are republics," she said once when discussing a grande dame from New York. "What silly asses they are to talk family in Europe! We like some and we don't others, and that's all there is to it."

EVOLUTION OF THIS STATE'S SMART SET.

The evolution of our California smart set is brilliantly told, and we all recognize the truth of the picture:

"Mrs. Rode came of good pioneer stock, her sturdy Kansas grandfather, Daniel Tay, having been among the first to brave the hardships of the emigrant trail and make 'his pile' in California. Not that he made it in one picturesque moment. He was only moderately lucky in the mines. But he could make pies, and miners were willing to pay little bags of gold-dust for them. He set up a shop for rough-and-ready clothing in Sacramento, with a pie counter under the awning. At all times he made a handsome income, and when the miners came trooping in drunk and reckless, he cleaned up almost as much as the gambling-houses.

"In due course he migrated to San Francisco, and, abandoning a plebeian method of livelihood of which his wife had learned to disapprove, embarked in a commission business including hardware and groceries. In those wild and fluctuating days he made and lost several fortunes. When his son, Daniel Second grew up, he was a fairly prosperous merchant, with connections in Central America and China. His coffee, spices, teas, and such other delicacies as even the renowned California soil refused to produce were the best on the market; and had it not been for the old gaming fever in his blood, which sent him on periodic sprees into the stock market, he would have accumulated a large fortune and permitted his wife and daughters to assist in the making of San Francisco's aristocracy. But they were always being either burned out or sold out of their fine new houses, and Mrs. Tay died a disappointed woman. The Southerners held the social fort and she had never crossed its threshold. To be sure, she had washed the miners' overalls in the rear of the Sacramento store while the pies were being devoured in front, but ancient history is made very rapidly in California, and there were signs that several no better than herself were 'getting their wedge in.'"

"Mr. Tay soon followed his wife into the imposing vault on Lone Mountain, but not before adjuring his son to 'let stocks alone.' The advice was unnecessary, for Daniel Second was a shrewd, cautious man, immune from every temptation the fascinating city of San Francisco could offer. He put the business he had inherited on a sure foundation, rebuilt modestly whenever he was burned out, and was impervious to the laments of his pretty second wife that they were 'nobodies.' Mrs. Tay felt that heaven had endowed her with that talent most envied of women, the social, but her husband was more than content to be a nobody so long as his financial future was secure; and it was not until his oldest daughter, Charlotte—or 'Cherry' as she was fondly called—came home from boarding-school for the last time, that he was persuaded to buy a large and hideous 'residence' with a mansard roof, a cupola, and bow-windows, suddenly thrown on the market by a disappearing capitalist, and 'splurge a bit.' "The splurging carried them but a short distance St. Mary's Hall, Benicla, where Cherry had received the last of her education, was an aristocratic institution, and she had made some good friends among the girls. But although they came to her first party, and she was asked now and again to large entertainments at their homes, it was more than patent that the Tays were not 'in it.' There was no reason in the world why they should not be, for they were not even 'impossible' (as the old folks had been); but whether Mrs. Tay was less gifted socially than she had fancied, or people so long out of it were regarded with suspicion or cold indifference by the venerable holders of the social fort, or Tay's modest fortune was not worth while, in view of the enormous fortunes that had been made recently in the railroads and the Nevada mines, and society was already large enough."

roof, replaced rep and damask with silk and tapestries.

"All this may sound contemptible to those who enjoy a proper scorn of society. But it must be remembered that, as the world is at present constituted, women, not forced to work for their living and born without talent, have little outlet for their energies. And of these energies they often have as full a supply as men. Besides, they don't know any better."

It's all very diverting, very amusing—perfectly true; we laugh at ourselves, we Californians, having our due sense of humor, that God-given gift that saves every situation.

Gertrude Atherton may take all the whacks at us socially she wants to—it's good for us, perhaps. But she loves California, and we can forgive her a lot on account of that. And she is fond of the California men—and we love her for that. When we read her vivid pictures of the frightful fight the women of England are having for suffrage, and then turn to our own California and consider what has been done for the women here, we know that the finest type of man is to be found in California—the Californian men in chivalry, in fine courage, in true intellectual achievement—lead the world.

TOLD HOW TAYS FINALLY ARRIVED.

We are told how the Tays finally arrived, by way of a big newspaper and the court of St. James:

"One of her father's friends was the owner of a powerful newspaper, and he had a friend who knew our minister to the court of St. James. Armed with letters from two makers and unmakers of reputations, Cherry took her mother to London and requested to be presented at court. The request was granted, and this great event, as well as their subsequent adventures, in the most good-natured society in the world were related to the San Francisco newspapers."

"When she came home Cherry was admitted to the sacred 'Assemblies.' At the end of the year she captured the son of one of the new great millionaires. The Tays had arrived. The past was forgotten by themselves, if not by other walking blue books, that fine scavenger element in society which allowed no one permanently to sink 'pasts,' ages, ancestral pies, saloons, brothels, wash tubs, or any of the humble but honest beginnings which fain would repose beneath the foundations of San Francisco. But the Tays, like many another, fancied their past forgotten, whatever the fate of their neighbors."

"In their superb mansion on Nob Hill they forged ahead so steadily that they enjoyed excellent prospects of being Society Queens when the old guard should have died off, and Mrs. Tay had succeeded her house, shaved off the bow-windows, flattened the roof, replaced rep and damask with silk and tapestries.

"All this may sound contemptible to those who enjoy a proper scorn of society. But it must be remembered that, as the world is at present constituted, women, not forced to work for their living and born without talent, have little outlet for their energies. And of these energies they often have as full a supply as men. Besides, they don't know any better."

It's all very diverting, very amusing—perfectly true; we laugh at ourselves, we Californians, having our due sense of humor, that God-given gift that saves every situation.

Gertrude Atherton may take all the whacks at us socially she wants to—it's good for us, perhaps. But she loves California, and we can forgive her a lot on account of that. And the very best character in Gertrude Atherton's new book, the one most truly sketched, is that loyal, brave San Franciscan, Daniel Tay.

Wrinkles Skin and Beautiful Form Easy To Acquire.

Women will be much interested in knowing what all beauty specialists now claim that a graceless cold cream freely mixed with the skin will keep the line out of the face. It is not necessary to buy the high priced ready made kinds as you can make the finest in your own home in a few minutes by mixing two ounces of powdered cereal with a pint of boiling water—stirring until thick and creamy. Nature did not intend women to be flat-chested and it is not necessary that one should if she will use the famous Vaseline treatment—to get it fresh and pure, make it up yourself—make a pint of sugar syrup and to this add one ounce of true gallol which you can get at any drug store. This will make enough for a month's treatment.

To keep the hands soft and white, apply Vaseline after washing, a simple lotion made by dissolving two ounces of amaran in a pint of boiling water.

To remove unightly hairs mix a little dol with enough water to make paste. Smear over hairs and after two or three minutes wash off and the hairs will be gone. Beware of imitations. Be sure and get the genuine dol—druggists charge 75c for an ounce bottle.

Miss Maud Russell, a well-known authority on Health and Beauty Culture, advises deep breathing each morning and night, massaging the parts with Melrose Brand Cream each night, and each morning taking a hot water bath, and within a very reasonable time excellent results will be noticed. It is essential that you take the Vaucaire remedy that contains the GENTLE IMPORTED GALEGA, such as Willard White company does, and be on the safe side for this brand, take no substitutes, as they are worthless and a waste of time.

Three hundred invitations have been issued for the celebration. The following committee is actively at work on the details: Harry J. Fozzaker, chairman; John N. Gallagher, Edward J. Soh, Joseph V. Barr, Daniel P. Clifford, W. E. Barry, Thomas J. McCullough and Victor H. Bell.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.
In honor of the 30th anniversary of their society, the Catholic Knights of America received high communion in a body at the 8:30 mass, in Sacred Heart church, last Sunday.

There was a large attendance, and many favorable comments were passed on the excellent showing made by the knights in this public display of their faith and fealty to their order.

Breakfast was served by the ladies of the parish. Addresses were delivered by Patrick J. Brophy, Rev. Lawrence Serda, Daniel Ferguson, Major McBrien and others.

ODD FELLOWS.
The ceremony of dedicating the new Odd Fellows home, near Los Gatos, will take place under the auspices of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., of the State of California, at 3 o'clock p. m., Wednesday, May 15, at the new building.

A special train will leave the Southern Pacific railroad depot, Third and Townsend streets, San Francisco, at 12 o'clock noon, of said date, for Congress Junction, the nearest point to the home.

Returning train will leave Congress Junction for San Francisco at 4:30 p. m. Abert Invidia Rebekah lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will hold its regular "Home Society" meeting at 8 o'clock on Tuesday, May 14, the regular monthly dance will be given, being changed from the third to the second Tuesday in May, on account of the visit of Sister Van Court of Los Angeles on May 21, when the initiation degree will be given.

YEOMEN.
Oakland Command, Brotherhood of American Yeomen and the members of the Fraternal Aid association entertained at a dance and whist party last Friday evening, April 26. The attendance was gratifying, and the evening was enjoyed by all.

The next regular meeting of the Yeomen will be held Friday evening in Lincoln hall, Twelfth and Franklin streets, where a large class of candidates will be initiated.

UNITED ARTISANS.
Golden Gate assembly, No. 63, United Artisans, held a short but enthusiastic business meeting last Monday evening in Lincoln hall, between Steiervater and Jefferson. Much important business pertaining to the coming convention was disposed of as well as several applications for membership were read and accepted.

The convention of the Knights Templar will be held in Oakland, and it will be the desire of Alameda county members to offer entertainments as good and as extensive as were enjoyed this year, but those who have just returned from the southland declared that it will be difficult to go beyond the hospitality of the people of San Diego.

is about to contribute the latter to a waiting world.

It would make a great hit if he would write it as well as he wrote "The Passing of the Idle Rich," which ended by convincing us that there were no longer any "idle rich."

Among the rich everybody works—"even father"—for we have learned that it is the only way to achieve contentment—even happiness.

Frederick Martin is a brother of the Bradley Martins, the tremendously rich Americans who live most of their time abroad, and his niece is Lady Craven, the beautiful young peeress who is most popular in social circles in England and Scotland.

TODAY'S RICH WOMEN
FAIR FROM IDLE.

Indeed, the rich women of today are far from idle. They keep up the social round incidental to life in a smart set, but they stand for much else besides. And they are getting that training which leads them to work in a very systematic way. One of the great movements of the age will begin in New York in the coming winter, led by that fine Anne Morgan, the eldest daughter of Pierpont Morgan. She is organizing a fight for the working girl, establishing for her a standard of wages. She is to establish a standard of wages which may go higher, but never lower. No girl in New York will be allowed to work for less than $8 a week; or the other way is better, perhaps: no employer will be allowed to offer her less. This will assure a safe livelihood for the working girls of New York. Just as we have passed the eight-hour law, there will be an $8 law, and while the rich man will not make quite so much money, the poor working girl will have at least a measure of protection. Anne Morgan, with the aid of her exclusive friends of the smart set, led the shirtwaist fight for the girls of New York and won it. It is splendid to think of rich women holding out protecting arms to poor, hard-working girls, and the women of the smart sets today are able to do much. For many of them have the intellectual equipment which means success.

In our own smart set we have many women who are doing quite as good work in their way as Miss Anne Morgan. That is evident in the Y. W. C. A. campaign drawing to a close, for among those who have worked exceedingly hard in the past few days are:

Miss Grace Fisher, Mrs. Wallace Alexander, Mrs. F. M. Smith, Mrs. Charles H. Rowe, Mrs. Walter Henry, Mrs. Eva Powell, Mrs. Ralph Kinney, Mrs. Edwin Garthwaite, Mrs. Dudley Kinsell, Mrs. J. Carroll Ewing, Mrs. A. C. Posey, Mrs. Harry Carlton, Mrs. Vernon Waldron, Dr. Sylvester, Miss Janet Haight, Miss Katherine Engelhardt, Mrs. John J. Valentine, Mrs. Clifton Walker, Mrs. Willard Williamson, Mrs. J. B. Richardson and Mrs. Frank Mott.

Among the women of the smart set who have made this campaign possible are: Mrs. S. T. Alexander, Miss Mary Alexander, Mrs. Wallace Alexander, Mrs. P. A. Hearst, Mrs. Frank C. Havens.

MASQUERADE PROVES SOCIETY'S FAVORITE.
This year many members of the smart set have amused themselves with planning fancy dress affairs, and the masquerade has been far and away the most popular form of entertainment. It is great fun to play you are someone else, and wise old Shakespeare said once upon a time: "All the world's a stage, and all the men and women players on it." And the world is learning the value of play time in its best sense. So there are fancy dress parties everywhere—and the children of a larger growth forget the deeper cares of life in playing they are someone else.

The Wickham Havens entertained a merry company friends last Saturday evening at their Piedmont home, the guests arriving in fancy dress.

Mrs. Wickham Havens was a very beautiful Turkish lady and her costume was elaborate and becoming. Among the most artistic of the fancy dress costumes were those worn by Mrs. Willard Williamson, Mrs. Charles D. Bates, Mrs. Frank Hunt Proctor, Mrs. Oscar Long, Mrs. Edward Engs, Mrs. Eastwood.

A baby party planned by the Oscar Sutros was most amusing, and was given by them last Sunday evening.

The guests were received in a large drawing-room, from which most of the furniture had been removed, and there were Teddy bears, and Noah's arks, and other toys dragged out from the realms of childhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutro received their guests in appropriate costumes. Mrs. Sutro was Mary Anne, and a very attractive "Mary Anne" she proved to be, with big bows in her hair and a dainty gown. Mr. Sutro was a bright little Dutch boy, like the one in the sketch, "In Old Edam." And then all sorts of babies and little children began to arrive, and the youngest baby of all was a well-known matron, who had herself wheeled into the drawing-room in a baby carriage. One well-known young matron was charming, with her hair in long curls—a dear little slip—and pantalettes trimmed with real lace reaching quite to her ankles. The men were immensely funny in their dear little knee trousers, with socks, and their hair cut Dutch fashion. You thought you were looking at little Lord Fauntleroy, but if you looked more closely you might have recognized some big business man of affairs.

And in the later evening in came, with a rush, two charming Topsy-turks as the ace of spades was each—with funny little torn aprons, and their hair in innumerable braids, tied with pieces of worsted and string. The whole evening was full of most amusing phases, and was really "playtime" in its true sense.

Then we have the people whose resemblance to well-known characters makes it easy for them to appear at a fancy dress ball. Mrs. Frank Campbell, and even in everyday life she dresses as much as possible like that famous English actress.

We all know Mrs. Emma Shafter Howard, who lived on Alameda street in this city for so many years. One reads of her:

"Mrs. Howard is a modified figure of Victoria, though small enough and unadorned, but it is the placid benevolence of her bearing that impresses people from England."

One hears that in her recent Oriental trip, after the liner left Honolulu, there was a fancy dress ball, and a unanimous request for Mrs. Howard to go as Victoria. And queen of the ball she was. Her costume was completed by a famous Indian shawl, pointed down the back, and some of our forbears in a far-away past used to wear it.

Mrs. Henry Scott looks like Marie Antoinette and Mrs. Fred Kohl looks like Marie Louise—and one might go on with a list of resemblances enough to people a fancy dress ball, with a quite wonderful crowd of guests.

MRS. STANTON IS POPULAR HOSTESS.
In club life we have some of the largest social dates of the week, and one of them was the very interesting afternoon given recently at the California Club, with Mrs. Charles M. Stanton as the hostess of the day. Mrs. Stanton is one of the most popular of the leading clubwomen across the bay. She was the able chairman at the California Club's afternoon, and she planned her entertainment along very unique and original lines. The decorations were especially fine. The stage was banked with flowers and lighted by a special standing lamp. Above the heads of the audience great baskets of ferns hung from the beams of the ceiling, and the table was bright with candelabra and shining silver. In the hall were many little tables at which later delightful refreshments were served.

Mrs. Maud Russell Robbins was the artist of the afternoon, and she gave in a most wonderful fashion an interpretation of "Lady Patricia," the English play, which is the greatest success of Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske and Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

It was wonderfully well done, and Mrs. Robbins held her audience simply spellbound during her splendid interpretation of the notable play.

One hopes that she may be heard at some of our Oakland clubs in the near future. Several guests from Oakland were included in the invitations for the afternoon, and among prominent women present were Mrs. A. C. Posey, president of the Ebell Club, and Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith, vice-president of the same club. Mrs. Stanton's afternoon was greatly enjoyed by the large audience in attendance.

GOOD GOLF PLAYED AT INGLESIDE.
One hears that very good golf was played at Ingleside this week, the suit making Miss Edith Cheesebrough the woman golf champion of California.

Among the very excellent players of the week have been: Mrs. L. M. Kennett, Miss Everett, Mrs. C. B. Wingate, Mrs. J. R. Clark, Miss Jennie Crocker, Mrs. William Geer Hiltchcock, Mrs. H. Sherwood, Miss Violet Whitney, Miss Josephine Johnson and Miss Marian Stone.

MISS CARRIE NICHOLSON WILL BE HOSTESS.

Miss Carrie Nicholson will be the hostess at one of the most interesting of the May events, and she has sent out cards for a bridge luncheon on the 14th. Miss Nicholson will be assisted in entertaining her guests by her sisters, Mrs. A. A. Long, Mrs. Charles Smith, Miss Nicholson and by Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld. She is a very popular girl and the Nicholson home is one of the most charming and most hospitable in our city.

SMART SET TALKS OF "MY GARDEN."

At any gathering of the smart set these days you seem to hear discussed the topic, "My Garden." For a perfect wave of garden enthusiasm has swept over California, and we are getting wonderful results. Many months ago an interesting book took the world by storm. It was called "Elizabeth and Her German Garden," and it taught women to love their gardens and the content that could be found therein. That good German Elizabeth has many followers in California, and as a result, our gardens are our pride and joy. Of course we have wonderful grounds surrounding some of our larger homes, as for instance, the gardens at the proposed Spring place in Thousand Oaks, the garden at "Highlands," "Arbor Villa" and around the Adolph Hotel home.

The Frank Havens' grounds strike the note of beautiful picturesqueness, and "The Pines" have most unusual plants gathered from all parts of the globe.

Tulips have been our favorite flowers this season and there were a thousand bulbs in the tulip beds at Level Lea, the Clay home in Fruitvale.

Miss Annie Florence Brown is one of the finest school directors Oakland has ever known, but her garden has also given her wonderful returns this year in the beautiful tulips developed therein.

Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Borel are becoming the loss of their prized tulip bed—one of the finest in all the San Mateo region. The tulips, which were imported from Holland, were of rare beauty, and one dark night recently they were all carried off, bulbs and flowers and all. And one young matron at Piedmont lost 300 daffodils, all in one sad night.

Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Vivian Waldron and Mrs. Hume are the committee making Miss Edith Cheesebrough the woman golf champion of California.

Among the very excellent players of the week have been: Mrs. L. M. Kennett, Miss Everett, Mrs. C. B. Wingate, Mrs. J. R. Clark, Miss Jennie Crocker, Mrs. William Geer Hiltchcock, Mrs. H. Sherwood, Miss Violet Whitney, Miss Josephine Johnson and Miss Marian Stone.

AT THE Theatre

SAM B. HARDY AND FRANCINE LANGMORE IN "OVER NIGHT" AT THE MACDONOUGH.

MACDONOUGH

The attraction at the Macdonough Theatre for four nights, commencing tonight, will be "Over Night," a three-act play by Philip H. Bartholomew, which had a run of nine months in New York city last season, part of the time at the Hackett Theatre and the balance at the Playhouse. "Over Night" is one of William A. Brady's numerous attractions and also one of his best, from a money-making viewpoint. Up to the time of the production of "Over Night" by Mr. Brady, Mr. Bartholomew, its author, was an unheard-of proposition in the theatrical world. He was a young man just out of college, and this is his first effort at playwriting. It was with some misgivings that it was decided to produce the play, owing to the youth and inexperience of "Over Night's" author, but it was received with unstinted praise by the New York critics, who declared it to be "the one best laugh of the season." An might be inferred from the title, the action of the comedy is comprised in the happenings of a single night, the scenes being laid on board the Hudson river steamboat Hendrick Hudson and at a small hotel in the Catskills, the story dealing with the mishaps of two newly married couples on their honeymoon trips. On the voyage they become hopelessly entangled with the officers of the ship and the other passengers, and the complications arising are said to be treated in such a humorous fashion that the audience is kept in a roar of laughter from the start of the play to the final fall of the curtain. It is also said that while the subject matter might be deemed rather delicate, the author has carefully avoided any pitfalls which might lead to suggestiveness and that there is entire absence of anything that could give offense. Mr. Brady promises an excellent company and a first-class production of his play. The cast includes Arthur Aysworth in his original characterization of a country hotel clerk; Thomas Emory, who will appear as one of the husbands, Richard Kettle and Sam B. Hardy, the other one, Percy Dealing, while their wives will be impersonated by Francine Langmore and Ada Sirling. Others in the company are Inez Buck, Elsie Scott, Florence Stewart, James T. Ford, Mahlon P. Hamilton and E. L. Duane. "Over Night" should prove to be one of the laughing successes of the season.

BLANCHE BATES.

"Nobody's Widow" is the rather odd title of the farcical romance from the pen of Avery Hopwood in which David Helasco will introduce Blanche Bates at the Macdonough May 13, 14 and 15. Helasco has produced with his usual delicacy of stage craft and detail. As its title significantly implies, its heroine is a widow with imitations, and then arises the incessant humor that begins with a little at the rise of the curtain and develops into a veritable cyclone of laughter at the final fall.

Mrs. Bates has never given a finer exposition of her ability as a comedienne than she does as the fascinating up-to-date widow and Mr. Helasco has given her a company of importance commensurate with the dignity of his art, including Bruce Melts, Adelaide Prince, Rex McDougall, Edith Campbell, Alice Claire Elliott, Minor S. Watson, Westrop Saunders and others. The production is Bolsonian in artistic completeness to detail and locale.

"THE SPRING MAID."

When the joyous Viennese operetta, "The Spring Maid," returns on Thursday to the Macdonough Theatre, it will mark the first time that any light opera has been proved sufficiently successful to play over exactly the same territory in a single season by dividing its year in halves and returning to each city in which it has previously been cheered. "The Spring Maid" has made it evident that sections of the wide country do not differ in likes and dislikes materially and has also established new figures in theatrical history by its receipts. Its return brings the piquant Mizal Higos back in the saucy role of Princess Bozema, but presents an important change from the former cast in Charles McNaughton who now plays the strolling actor who has so large a part in the comedy of the work. McNaughton has been brought from the London "Spring Maid" company and has previously been the principal comedian of the famous London Gaiety productions for six years.

ORPHEUM

One of the most famous dramatic stars in America, Blanche Walsh will head the new bill at the Oakland Orpheum today. She will present Arthur Hopkins' great Indian play, "The Thunder Gods."

This is Miss Walsh's first tour of the vaudeville circuit. She was secured for the Orpheum circuit exclusively and thus far has registered a series of notable successes. Her new play "The Thunder Gods" has given her a congenial role and abundant scope for her powers.

Mrs. Walsh appears in the role of a Sioux Indian maiden who has learned of the white god. The crude but forceful reasoning in the dramatic scenes is excellent. Miss Walsh is supported by John E. Trow and William N. Taver. Miss Walsh is considered America's foremost emotional actress. Her acting of the difficult role in "The Resurrection" and later work in "The Test" is distinctly well remembered.

American farce has no more capable exponent than Edward Bondell. His "Scoutry bumptin'" is entitled to a place among the best character comedy creations. Few lovers of what is known in the vernacular, low comedy, are not familiar with Mr. Bondell's "Scoutry bumptin'." The vehicle now serving to transport the Bondell load of laughter is called "The Lost Boy." It has to do with the location by a children's aid society of the parents of a lost country boy. The sudden change of surroundings is the basis for innumerable comedy situations. The skit teems with bright hues and is said to contain a laugh for each tick of the clock during its presentation.

Gertrude Van Dyck, who is responsible for the "Van Dyck" series, is formed that trio with an eye to versatility. This herself is a singer of surprising good voice known to the stage as "The Girl with the Double Voice," while her two assistants, Mr. Ray Fern and Mr. Max Vincent, are respectively a comedian of no mean ability and an accomplished pianist. The combined efforts of the three in the presentation of a miniature musical comedy forms unlimited amusement, music of the popular and operatic variety, comedy of a high standard and a pliancy of rare excellence. The whole is offered in a novel way, requiring two acts of scenery. Miss Van Dyck uses her double voice to advantage in rendering both parts of an operatic passage intended for baritone and soprano.

Dorothy Dalton, a capable actress with a score of successes to her credit, has secured a one-act playlet entitled "The Smuggler," and with it will be given a brief period in vaudeville. This is a force developed along unusual lines and disclosing a new idea. The story is timely and has to do with the customs regulations.

Beauty is the keynote of Rosa Roma's performance. This young woman is a beauty of the vivacious brunette type, with sparkling, expressive eyes, perfect features, a wealth of raven hair, and a chic youthful figure. She dresses picturesquely with colors that accentuate her physical charms. A greater beauty than all this, however, is the beauty of sound she teases from her violin. With a warmth of feeling, a poetic temperament and technique that results from long and faithful study, she produces a ravishing melody that captivates her auditors. She sings, too, and to her own accompaniment.

A great dramatic sketch entitled "Fear" will have a prominent place on the bill. It is interpreted by a company of excellent actors and will undoubtedly provide a treat to those who love the best dramatic productions.

Wormwood's canines and comedy monkeys will delight the children and please all who are fond of a clever animal act.

The Mankichi Japanese company of clever acrobats and tumblers will round out the show.

The motion pictures will include views of the burial of the battleship Maine, one of the most impressive series of happenings ever taken by the motion picture producers.

Blanche Walsh comes next Sunday to the Oakland Orpheum. She will appear in "The Thunder Gods." It is a powerful dramatic playlet that has been selected by Miss Walsh as her vehicle for the first trip into the realms of vaudeville.

This celebrated actress has not found a more congenial role, nor one that gives her powers a wider scope, than does her present part in this Indian playlet, "The Thunder Gods."

It is from the pen of Arthur M. Hopkins, a young author who knows by experience the wants of a vaudeville audience. He has a strong and effective story to tell, and tells it in a convincing manner. Miss Walsh appears in the role of a Sioux Indian maiden who has learned of the white god. The crude but forceful reasoning in the dramatic scenes is excellent.

YE LIBERTY

success by James Forbes, whose earlier successes "The Chorus Lady" and "The Traveling Salesman" have firmly established him as a writer par excellence of this brand of entertainment, will be the offering of the Bishop Players at Ye Liberty for the week which begins tomorrow evening. It is only a few months since the play was seen on tour at the high-priced theaters and the hit made by the charming little comedy at that time stamped it as a worthy successor to the same writer's triumphs.

All of us know the joys and tribulations of a computer's existence. That there is dramatic interest there, also, is proven by Mr. Forbes in "The Commuters." Larry and Hetty Price are devoted to each other and to life in Auburn Manor, a suburb of New York City. Larry has a chum, Sammy Fletcher, who is quite an enthusiastic over life in the city. Hetty does not know Sammy, but she blames him for all the little bypaths into which Larry strays from the straight and narrow road. To prove to his wife that Sammy is not the sinner she believes him to be, Larry invites him to spend a week-end in the country and reveal in its joys. With Sammy arrives trouble, and trouble serious enough to cause a temporary breach between husband and wife. Sammy, all retribution, endeavors to bring peace into the household, but only succeeds in bringing down on his bachelor head the wrath of both the husband and wife. The tangle is unraveled satisfactorily at the end with the same writer's triumphs.

That is the idea, at any rate. Manager Cohn says: "I would rather play to standing room the aid of many other typical suburbanites.

As a keen observer of men and manners James Forbes, the author of this comedy has no equal in the large army of American playwrights, and he has used these powers of observation to splendid advantage in "The Commuters." The piece is replete with twenty distinct character types, all true to nature, and they will allow the stock company exceptional and acting advantages. The role of the young husband will be assumed by Sydney Ayres, that of the wife by Nana Bryant, and in Sammy, the cause of all the trouble, Jimmy Gleason will be afforded a splendid comedy role. The piece will be carefully cast and staged, and should prove a most enjoyable attraction.

"The Prince Chaps," one of the most delightful of plays, is in preparation to follow.

BELL

Breaking away from an established precedent, the management of the Bell Theatre who are featuring the well known attractions of the Sullivan and Considine Circuit, announce this week a substantial reduction in the prices of admission. When one considers the high quality of the acts sent over this well known circuit, the cut made in admission prices by the local Sullivan and Considine house, and further considering the fact that nowhere in the United States is vaudeville of this character offered at this price, the result must inevitably tend to bigger crowds.

That is the idea, at any rate. Manager Cohn says: "I would rather play to standing room and turn people away at 10 cents and 20 cents, than to have a comfortably filled house at higher prices.

In any event, the new bill scheduled for this week, maintains the high standard of vaudeville this house has set and the attractions of this well known circuit will be shown although prices have been reduced.

The Apollo Trio of sensational athletes will present a classic offering in posing, of reproductions of famous works of art. This is their initial American tour, coming direct from the Empire Theater, Bologna, Italy. These athletes are recognized as among the most perfectly developed men in the country.

Alenford and Thompson two funny chaps, will be seen in a singing and talking act. They have a fine patter and songs that makes them an instantaneous winner.

Joseph Spissell and company will present "A Soldier's Dream," one of the most laughable pantomimes in vaudeville.

A whistler of unusual ability in the person of Lee Zimmerman will whittle some popular ballads and classic melodies.

Blanche Trelease, well known locally, will appear in a clever concert involving dances and songs and two extra acts of unquestioned popularity will also be added.

values should be equally insisted on. In the present instance, as we have seen, the value of the property in educational qualities are the ones which immediately present themselves immeasurably above all others. We have been so far interested in this problem as to go into the history of the law, to satisfy ourselves as to the theory with which it is executed; and can discover none but the most negligible departure from the actual facts, as far as we can know. The only "blue chip" subjects are but fantasies, based upon fact, and possessing little educational value. WRINKLES

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

(Copyright, 1912, by Lillian Russell.)

JUDGING from the numerous letters which I receive daily from women who declare that they are victims to premature wrinkles, I have resolved that wrinkles are no sign of age.

Women of 20 have written to me that their faces are full of fine lines. Which proves my theory that wrinkles are caused by relaxed skin. The cause for this relaxed skin may be from several different sources.

When a young woman has a loose skin her underlying tissues have weakened and become spongy and she needs building up. She should eat nourishing foods and pat her face frequently, causing the blood to circulate through the veins of the face, after which a pure skin food should be patted into the skin. Rubbing the face should be carefully avoided, as the poor flesh needs gentle treatment, not punishment.

Gentle head massage will have a good effect upon the face from the fact that strengthening the head muscles will draw up the cheek and neck muscles to their proper place. Some specialists insist upon massaging the spine and chest to improve the face. Their theory is that gentle massage over the spine rests one so thoroughly that all muscles relax and the face becomes normal. But to keep the face normal one must have normal thoughts. Some young girls pout, scowl, and frown until their faces become positively lined with those unhappy thoughts.

Advice to Wrinkled Women.

Reading in a bad light will cause the face to wrinkle up around the eyes. Headaches, caused by remaining indoors, will wrinkle a young face. So for the young wrinkled woman I would advise much exercise, a few good sweet baths, plenty of pure cold cream, and happy thoughts.

For the older woman much the same treatment may be used, unless the wrinkles are deep. In that case facial treatments are a necessity to open the pores and loosen the outer skin from the tissues, so that the pores will absorb the skin food. Lanoline is the best food known to feed the tissues. Electric vibrators are of great benefit to hard salloy skins, but the patting of the hand has the same effect when done firmly.

There are many facial specialists and many masseurs, but women should be careful to go to a person who knows the anatomy of the face so thoroughly that she will not make mistakes and rub wrinkles into the face instead of smoothing them out.

When one has a machine to manage it is necessary to become acquainted with the parts and the methods of action of the mechanism. In order to understand the control of the face there should be a proper understanding of muscular action, but how few there are outside of the medical profession who have any idea of the mechanism! All the muscles of the body, with the exception of the heart, are under the control of the will, some actively, others unconsciously so.

Other Muscles Receive Overflow.

If the will acting on a muscle exerts more effort than is necessary, the nerve force overflows to the other muscles, which contract in response. Often a person in making a great effort will contract the muscles of as much by peaceful and happy thoughts as by any outward applications.

The facial specialist should refuse to take a case of a wrinkled woman without making her sign a contract not to worry, for if she does worry and get into tempers, she will undo all of the work which the specialist has done for her.

Patience is one of the greatest helps to the cure of facial blemishes. Why is it that some women live to an old age and have beautiful faces, unmarred by a line? You will find that those women have young hearts and spirits, their souls are always young and their faces reflect that young soul.

It is just as easy to keep an unruffled nature as to waste vitality and expression upon worry or temper. It's a matter of intelligence and culture entirely.

So cultivate a peaceful heart, a faith in God and man, smiles instead of frowns. Keep your face and your conscience equally clean and nourish both with the best you can afford.

Remember, the imprint of sincerity is the only line the face can wear becomingly.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MRS. K. L.: I do not believe in internal remedies for reducing flesh. Diet and plenty of exercise are all that is needed. It is hard to reduce one's flesh, as few people are willing to deny themselves the sweet and rich foods and take the exercise necessary to do it. A three mile walk should be taken each day and a five mile walk is even better.

Most simple of all exercises for reducing flesh about the waist and hips and at the same time making one supple and graceful is the movement which one makes when stooping to pick up something that has dropped upon the floor. The practical woman may combine flesh reduction exercise with housework by bending as often as necessary to pick up threads from a carpet or rather up the odds and ends that a family somehow manages to strew over the floor.

This act should be performed both with bent and with rigid knees, as the effect is different when the knees are lax or otherwise.

No less simple than this daily exercise of every housewife is that of a walk before breakfast, often without even a glass of water to break the fast of the night. To one who cannot take an outdoor walk in the early morning the open window is always possible. Before this much exercise may be taken, meanwhile inhaling deeply and exhaling slowly. This will set the blood into healthy circulation, prepare one for the duties of the day, and, if the exercises consist of any of those described, will inevitably reduce flesh in a normal and healthful manner.

Be careful not to massage wrinkles in instead of out of the face.

If you will send me an addressed, stamped envelope I shall be happy to send you a dietary for reducing flesh and also the rolling exercises for reducing the legs.

MRS. J.: Stray hairs that grow over the nose are unsightly and should be removed. Pull the hairs out with tweezers, being careful to pull them the same direction in which they grow. If you do not do this they will break off and grow again, but much stiffer.

When the hair has been removed the spot from which it was taken should be touched with a drop of spirits of camphor. This operation, while slightly painful, will be found most effective when the hairs are few and far between, but must not be attempted when a full growth has to be dealt with.

Electrolysis is quite the best way of removing superfluous hair; but two things must be borne in mind. First, the operator must be skilled; secondly, too many hairs must not be removed at one sitting.

If the operator is not really competent she may remove the hair without removing the root, and the remedy will be useless. It is necessary to examine each hair with the aid of a magnifying glass so that the correct position of the root can be discovered, and the electric needle must be exerted in the exact slant which the root takes.

Only a few hairs should be removed at one time, as otherwise it is possible that the skin may become inflamed, especially if at all sensitive, and scars will be the result.

A. A.: I cannot send you a formula for green soap. You can get it at any drug store. It is a yellow paste and comes in a jar. Do not get the tincture, but the hands, and screw up the features. Over each muscle of the body the brain exercises a constant control, which is relaxed only in profound slumber.

In many this muscle tone becomes exaggerated and the individual goes about with a tension that entails a great expenditure of nerve force and a great drain upon the system.

A display of this is seen more frequently in the face than elsewhere, and results in innumerable, inexcusable wrinkles. The jaws are set, the forehead wrinkled, and the eyes squinted. The opposite of this is the complete relaxation of the muscles of the face. The light goes out of the eyes, the cheeks hang flabbily, the corners of the mouth droop and show ugly lines.

Mannerisms Destroy Good Looks.

This unconscious relaxing of the muscles of the face is apt to occur in people who are not lacking in mental activity. It is a habit which they have formed of "letting go," so to speak, of the necessary control of the features. This is entirely unnecessary, and the result of lack of self-control.

Of the same nature as the tension and relaxations of the features are the unconscious grimaces, which the majority of people make without being in the least aware of it. They have little tricks and mannerisms which they indulge in to the complete destruction of their pleasing appearance. Sometimes every feature in such a person's face is a storm center. All this is wrinkle making and aging.

Badly fitting hats are other wrinkle makers of the first class, as are also tight shoes and uncomfortable corsets or undergarments.

Any one who advertises to remove wrinkles from the face in a day is a faker. It takes many days of treatment, massage, and cheerful thoughts to remove set wrinkles. But this can be removed or smoothed out READER: I know nothing of the kerosene treatment personally, but have heard that it is good for the hair. No, the nongreasy kerosene will not do any good at all, use just the plain kerosene. The wart can be removed with the electric needle, but you can also take it off yourself. Take one dram salicylic acid, one dram lactic acid, and two drams flexible collodion. Bathe the face and apply the above mixture with a small camel's hair brush, being exceedingly careful not to get any of it on the surrounding skin. If you pinch the two sides of the groove it will make the wrinkle come together and make it deeper than it is. That is, pinching it in the same direction in which it runs. You must pinch it in the opposite direction.

I had been commissioned to capture a pair of black panthers, the wildest and most ferocious denizens of the jungle, so I sat in my tent and instructed the baboon as to how to assist me. Then we fared forth and came face to face with the beasts.

The baboon immediately tackled one and I the other. Our modes of attack were entirely dissimilar, and yet both were most effective. We grappled with the panthers, working hard to keep clear of their teeth.

For several minutes we resembled two huge globes rolling about in the reeds and stubble. Neither gained any decided advantage, but the baboon and I were awaiting an opportunity of gaining our strangle holds.

Slowly and surely we were wearing down the panthers. Their breath was labored and strained. They fought furiously, snarling and biting, but aside from a few scratches the baboon and I were unhurt.

Suddenly we secured the agreed upon hold, choking the panthers with their own tails. Tying them in heaps, we took them to camp, where they soon were so cowed they ate sugar from our hands.

Professional Sluggers and Ex-Convicts Are Leaders in Violence

Eight of the Daily Newspapers Manage to Issue Four-Page Editions

CHICAGO, May 4.—Rioting and violence by professional sluggers figured in the third day of the newspaper strike. Many arrests were made and the police were frequently called upon to suppress street disturbances and demonstrations by the strikers.

For two days Chicago has faced the peculiar situation of two and a half millions of people practically without newspapers.

The eight big dailies today issued four-page editions. All advertisements were eliminated and the news condensed to the limit of brevity. Papers were circulated in some sections of the city. Heavy guards of policemen conveyed the distributors and protected the sales stands.

THREE DAYS' STRIKE.

The strike began three days ago with the violation of contract by the Web Pressmen's Union No. 7. They were followed by the News drivers and then the stereotypers. Papers have since been issued in a limited number under difficulty.

Sluggers of the worst type, ex-convicts and men of similar type, are being imported into Chicago to prevent the circulation of the big dailies of the Chicago local of the Publishers' association.

Captain Patrick Levin of the detective bureau tonight declared that never before in his career had he seen such a collection of lawless and brutal men as are now flooding the streets. One of the most notorious labor slugs, arrived in Chicago this afternoon and, according to reliable information, was immediately hired to help cow the small newsboys and women who are endeavoring to earn a livelihood by selling the regular Chicago morning and evening newspapers.

VIOLENT CROWDS.

Beginning early in the morning and continuing until after midnight, throngs of strikers crowded the loop district and the city streets. The violence marked their march to and from the different newspaper offices. The police of Chicago are facing as serious a crisis as they have ever been called upon to deal with, and frankly admit that the situation presents a most serious menace to the peace of the city.

Daring Driver in Fiat Car Wins 303-Mile Race in South

(By STUART GAYNESS.)

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Before the largest crowd that ever attended a Western road race, Teddy Tetzlaff, driving a Fiat car, today broke all world's records and won the Santa Monica road race, averaging 78 1/2 miles an hour. This is three miles an hour better than the former world's record made by Harvey Herrick in a National car.

The race was the greatest exhibition of daring and speed ever witnessed in this state, the contesting drivers sending their high powered machines around the course at terrific speed.

Some of the laps made by Tetzlaff and Caleb Bragg, another Fiat driver, averaged 80 miles for the lap. Tetzlaff gave an exceptional exhibition of driving, holding the lead throughout the race with great consistency. He would average close to 85 miles an hour lap after lap and but for slight delays in changing tires he could undoubtedly have made an even better record.

FIATS BOTH IN FRONT.

Tetzlaff's time for the distance was 3 hours 50 minutes and 57 seconds. Caleb Bragg, Tetzlaff's teammate, took second honors after driving a record.

Spectacular May Festival Is Held in Lakeside Park

With a spectacular pageant fashioned after an old English celebration, the May day festival opened yesterday afternoon in Lakeside Park, where several thousand men, women and children witnessed the performance.

The carnival spirit was manifested throughout the production, which displayed the work of the local playgrounds. The features of the entertainment were the folk dances, which were presented by groups of girls in white dresses. The garments were trimmed with spring flowers. The simplicity and grace of the young girls called forth much favorable comment from the multitude.

QUEEN AND HER COURT.

Led by two heralds, the queen of the May, Ruth Clark, was led to the throne, which was located under a large oak tree. Her retinue was seated upon the steps a few feet behind her and surrounded on both sides of the regal leader were the flower girls. Queen Ruth's court included as its maids of honor Myra Lemmer of De Fremery Park playground, Catherine Quirk of Tompkins and Irene Roma of Garfield playground. Flower girls: Eunice Johnson, Claire O'Connell, Marjorie Swartzel and Lorice Lazansky; pages—Matt Clark and Virginia Martin. Ralph York was the crown-bearer.

CROWNATION CEREMONY.

The most imposing scene of the day was the coronation ceremony, wherein the youthful subjects bowed in reverence to Queen Ruth II as she ascended to the royal chair, which was decorated with red roses and greenery. In her robe of white satin spangled with jewels and a long court train of purple velvet and ermine, she made an attractive picture.

The crown was placed upon her head by C. L. Weaver, director of the boys' division of Bushrod Park playground, who essayed the role of one of Robin Hood's men. The insignia of her office consisted of a band of gold with a crescent of diamonds and rubies.

With a smile and a gentle nod, Queen Ruth II accepted the honor bestowed upon her by the Oakland playground commission, under whose auspices the festivities were conducted.

BUGLERS' ANNOUNCE.

The program was announced by two buglers, Ralph Shanks and Philip Coke, who were clad in silver mail with helmets. Throughout the exercises two clowns performed for the amusement of the queen. Their stunts provoked much laughter.

Special acts were given by six members of the local Young Men's Christian Association, under the direction of C. F. Martin. The company was called the "Morris men." They appeared in short trousers, with bells at the knees and steeple hats. The dance they presented typified the vigor of the age of the "quarter-staff and cross-bow." The performers were H. Jackson, C. Mills, E. Hutchinson, J. Chapman, E. Warner and A. E. Wright.

RACES ARE EXCITING.

The chariot races furnished much excitement and were enthusiastically applauded. Two representatives of De Fremery Park playground won the contest. They were Merle Peterson, Lorenzo Coronado, Erminia Garello, Florence Garfinkle and Charles Ferrer. They wrestled the laurels from the following:

"Tomkins"—Frank Surbenito, Lena Pingatore, Millie Ditto, Jimmie Carlo, Bushrod, Harold Lambert, Britt Larkins, Vera Bredlow, Lilly Montague, Dorothy Short, Garfield, Fred Alves, Evelyn Olland, Angela Martin, Melvin Johnson, Edwy Frances.

ARCHERY TOURNAMENT.

The archery tournament, which was given by the Robin Hood men, was won by Albert Termerre, who impersonated Scarlott. He received a silver arrow as the queen's favor. The contestants for the coveted prize were Walton Honn, Paul de Fremery, Ralph Donathan, Dewey Jefferies, George Vestal and Charles Weaver. Four May-pole dances were given simultaneously by the girls of the following playgrounds: De Fremery—Cary Schwartz, Myra Lemmer, Ann

The train bearing the Shriners to their convalesce in the south left the depot at Third and Townsend streets at 2 p. m. Hall had charge of the two last cars. One was an observation car and it is supposed that the conductor fell from this.

Two laborers walking through tunnel No. 3 saw what appeared to be a bundle of clothing on the track about 500 feet from the east entrance. They investigated and the remains of a man were disclosed, the corpse having bent into pieces and scattered for a considerable distance.

E. E. Boyd, freight foreman, was notified and flagged an in-bound train. With the aid of brakeman Jacob L. body was gathered up and removed from the tunnel. A search of the clothing disclosed the victim's identity.

A clipping in Hall's pocket dated November 9 tells of a pistol duel fought in Tulsa between Hugh Hall and Frederick Scott, a brother-in-law, in which the latter received a fatal wound and the former was shot in the foot. It is also stated that Hall's father founded Tulsa and is rated as one of Oklahoma's wealthiest men.

Determined New York Women March to Show Sincerity in Asking Ballot

Neither Jibe Nor Jeer Heard and Men Doff Their Hats Along the Line

NEW YORK, May 4.—With banners flying and bands playing "The Boy I Left Behind Me," the great army of suffragists marched up Fifth avenue this afternoon in the biggest public demonstration of women ever seen in this country. It is estimated that there were more than 15,000 marchers in line.

From Washington Square up Fifth avenue to Fifty-seventh street and thence to Carnegie Hall, great enthusiastic crowds lined the way; windows, balconies, roofs and sidewalks filled with admiring and cheering throngs for the plucky women taking the two-and-a-half-mile walk to demonstrate the earnestness of their appeal for the ballot.

So great were the crowds at Washington Square when the marchers began to gather that the reserves were called out to clear the streets and square for the delegations of suffragists assembled there.

STARTS AT 5 O'CLOCK.

Promptly at 5 o'clock Miss Josephine Belderhusse, grand marshal of the day, sounded the bugle call and the head of the parade moved out from under Washington arch with the precision and assembly of military training.

Ten mounted policemen and ten motorcycle policemen preceded the women's cavalry troop, in charge of Mrs. Charles Edward Nohlman, wearing a gray riding habit with a green sash with the words in yellow "Votes for women."

The fifty women riders skillfully bowed recognition to the cheering avenue onlookers. All wore the three-cornered black straw riding hat with cockade of suffrage colors—purple, green and white, of the Women's Political Union, under whose management the parade was held.

PROMINENT WOMEN MARCH.

Among the riders were Miss Winona Martin, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robert, Mrs. M. Theodore H. Smith of Detroit, Gladys Brown, Miss Alice and Irene Lewisohn, Miss Cornelia Ryan, Dr. I. H. O. Glyde, Phyllis Mueller, Sylvia Jones, Mary Duncan, Esther Evans of Philadelphia, Clara B. Fuller, Alma Humphreys, Mrs. A. Carl, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. A. H. McCarthy, Miss Evelyn Granger, Miss Ethel T. Woodman, Miss Mary Willard, Ruth Wellington, Eleanor B. Thompson, Miss Geiss and Miss Mary Winter.

Miss Millholland, whose mouth became fractious at the start, fell into line behind the Old Guard band and attracted a great deal of attention by her stunning attire and clever riding. She rode astride, wearing a tan crash costume, knee-length coat and divided skirts, with high black boots and the regulation George Washington style of riding hat.

LEADERS ARE CHEERED.
After Miss Milholland walked Miss Eleanor Brannan, bearing the suffragette standard. The executive board of the Woman's Political Union, headed by Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, whose combined efforts for the past twelve months resulted in today's great demonstration, received a big ovation all along the line. Mrs. Blatch wore her college cap and gown, while the other officers, including Mrs. James Winter Brannan, Miss Leadwell, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. John Rogers Jr., Miss Perkins, Mrs. Arthur Townsend, Mrs. Blanche de Forest and Miss Florence Kelly, were attired in white.

Women of wealth and proud social position marched in suffrage leagues with the working girl of shop and factory.

Members of the marching army declared that the parade represented not only a great epoch in the history of woman suffrage in this country, but even a more decidedly interesting epoch in the growing activities of women in public life and public influence.

Although 2000 members of the men's league for woman suffrage marched with the women, it was decidedly "woman's day."

MEN DOFF HATS.
Men along the line of march uncovered as the carriage driven by Miss Cyrus and Mrs. Milholland, the Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, the pioneer suffrage worker, who began this work in 1848, and the first woman to be ordained a clergyman in this country, passed, surrounded by a bodyguard of twenty young women in white. Dr. Blackwell was the oldest suffragist in the parade, being 94 years of age. In fact, the attitude of the crowds was an eagerness to pay homage to the earnest marching women rather than to jibe or jeer as on former occasions.

One young business man who marched in the men's league expressed the sentiment shared by other marchers when he said: "The street crowds were far different in their reception of us than they were last year. Today's reception was splendid and shows the rapidly changing public sentiment toward suffrage. But it is no doubt due to the addition of California to the suffrage states since last year's street parade, and the number of states represented today, which makes the parade one of national interest."

NOT COMPLETE DEMOCRACY.
One of the banners carried by the men bore the words "Until women vote we shall not have a complete democracy."

The men's league was headed by a file and drum corps. Colonel Frederick Grech, of the National Guard, acted as marshal for this division, assisted by Frederick Nathan, James Lees Laidlaw and R. C. Beadle, secretary of the league.

Wyttier Elmer, the poet, brought a good-sized delegation of men marchers from New Hampshire, among whom was James T. Ives of Andover.

Following the good-sized delegations from Delaware, Connecticut, Nevada, California, Maryland and Washington, D. C., as well as representatives from Ohio, Kansas, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Virginia, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, Oregon and Utah, there followed big delegations from the 20 counties from New York state.

NEW SUFFRAGE FLAG.
The new suffrage flag, yellow background with six black stars, representing the suffrage star, fluted slightly beside the Stars and Stripes.

The delicate pale blue silk and silver banners of the National Woman's suffrage organization, followed behind the hundreds of purple, white and green pennants, banners and flags of the Women's Political Union, under whose direction the parade was arranged.

The deep blue silk and gold banners of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's suffragette society, led by herself, preceded the flags and banners of the East side women, representing as they did the colors of abolition.

OF ALL NATIONS.
The yellow buttercups worn by the members of the New York state delegation harmonized with the big yellow banners and flags carried by the 45 assembly districts of the woman suffrage party, led by Mrs. Leadwell.

Delegations of Norwegian, Swedish, Greek and Chinese women, garbed in native costume, added to the brilliancy of the scene.

HOTEL BURGLARY PROVES MYSTERY

The Detective Capture After Theft Is Committed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Detective Harry Sullivan and James Regan of the Southern station worked all day today in an effort to solve the mystery of a recent burglary at the Winchester Hotel. They had puzzled in vain over a solution of the problem and were standing at Third and Mission streets, a half block from the hotel, at eight o'clock tonight when an excited citizen rushed up to them.

"I think our burglar is in the hotel now," he panted. The officers rushed with him and after a chase through the corridors, which caused considerable of uproar, a man giving the name of George Gordon was captured. He protested his innocence, but the detectives were not satisfied. They took him over the pawnshop where some of the stolen goods had been recovered and he was identified as the man who had disposed of it. Later he was charged with burglary at the city prison.

Gives Up Domestic Life When the Footlights Beckon

MISS ETHEL KELLY, WHO WAS IN THE CHORUS BEFORE HER SISTER MARRIED FRANK GOULD, IS NOW PLAYING A PART.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Ethel Kelly has given up a domestic life and returned to the stage. She is a sister of Edith Kelly, who was one of the "Havana" company, and who married Frank Gould. She was a chorus girl for a number of years, but left the stage when her sister married.

Life off the stage proved to be too tame for Ethel, and she joined the "Rose Maid" company, which gave its first performance in New York this week.

ROOSEVELT IS 'REAL DANGER,' SAYS TAFT

President Says Colonel's Chief Theme Is to Stir Class Hated

BALTIMORE, May 4.—Playing the politics of Theodore Roosevelt more bitterly even than in his Boston speech, President Taft tonight appeared at the Lyric theater after a whirlwind campaign through the state, where he addressed several thousand attentive voters.

The President missed no chance today to discuss the doctrines of his predecessor and to charge him with unfair dealings between man and man, with bad faith and with harboring plans which would lead to what Taft termed "social injustice."

From the time he spoke at Hyattsville until his closing speech in this city, he paid his compliments to the ex-President, to Director George W. Perkins of the Steel Trust, and to Charles J. Bonaparte, who introduced Roosevelt here.

DISCUSSES THIRD TERM.
The Lyric theater was packed when the President began his address. He started his talk with a resume of what had been accomplished towards progressive legislation under his administration and finally got back to the subject that was the backbone of his earlier speeches during the day, the prosecution of the trusts and Roosevelt's efforts to obtain a third term. Referring to the third term, he said:

"Now he is content to take another cup of coffee and become a candidate. It is a matter, however, which he has to settle with his own conscience."

"With his power of inducing people to support him, with opportunity that a President has, and as active as he is in politics to perpetuate his power, he becomes a real danger."

The President attacked Roosevelt on the stand he has taken regarding popular government and misquoting the Lyric theater, which he had just left, he said that Roosevelt was a "man who has more to make in a community."

The trust until after the investigation. As a matter of fact, I was not in the country between August and December. I had been to the Philippines and was on my way around the world. Mr. Bonaparte says that the cabinet meeting took place in January. This is altogether a mistake, as it is shown by Mr. Smith's diary that the matter was decided in November. Discussions therefore could not have been had with a view to deciding anything, because the decision had already been made and Mr. Perkins had been notified that his application had been granted.

"He means to introduce a benevolent despotism, which he means to select the trusts which he thinks ought to continue and smash those he thinks ought not to continue."

AGGRESSIVE SPEECHES.
Taft's speeches during the earlier part of the day were far more virile and aggressive than any he has delivered so far.

"I tremble to think what the country would do were Mr. Roosevelt to die, now that so much depends on his life," he said at Laurel. "Even a rat in a corner will fight," he cried at Hyattsville. "I do not want to fight, but when I have to fight, I want to hit hard."

He charged Roosevelt with having substituted one boss for another in the Pennsylvania campaign and in every speech pleaded for the "square deal," which his opponent had insisted upon.

able race, and David Bruce Brown, the favorite, was third. Brown drove a Benz, had one real chance to assume command when Tetzlaff was in the pits for a tire change in the thirty-third lap, but his car acted crankily and he also was forced to the roadside for new shoes. Bragg finished less than three minutes behind the winner, while Bruce Brown sped into third place by about the same margin.

The three first cars finished off by themselves. Barney Oldfield, who drove a Fiat, experienced all kinds of difficulty with his craft, and Bert Dingley, driving a Simplex, was forced time after time to pull into the pits for a change of tires. Dingley further impaired his chances when he struck a wagon on the Soldiers' Home turn and injured its driver.

STUTZ CARS LAUDED.
For consistency and infrequent stops at the pits the two little Stutz cars, which went out of their class to compete in the free-for-all, elicited nothing but favorable comment from the immense crowd. What they lacked in speed the Stutz more than made up in durability, and because of their light weight stops at tire changes were few and far between.

Tetzlaff's effort was the best of his career and stamped him as a driver worthy of his championship honors. To Bruce Brown fell the honor of reeling off the fastest lap of the day—5 minutes 27.25 seconds.

TEAM UP TRACKS.
Ralph de Palma, driving a Mercer car, won the medium car race at 1:11 in 2:10.43; Joe Nikrent in a Case, was second, and Louis Disbrow, in another Case car, finished third. George Joeriman, a 19-year-old youth running his first race, piloted a baby Maxwell car to victory in the light car race at 1:01 miles, covering the distance in 1:37.57. Robert Evans in a Flanders was second and Jack Towse in another Flanders, third.

destroying their small investments, was one that aroused the ire of spectators in the loop district.

Two sluggers started a small riot near West Madison street and Fifth avenue this afternoon and before a wagon of police could be rushed to the scene, one woman was hit on the head with a cane, the hat of another was snatched from her head and three small boys and one man who attempted to protect them were injured by the unkempt ruffians. The police arrested two of the ringleaders.

DYNAMITE RUMORS.
Rumors that dynamite were being imported into the city from Los Angeles, Indianapolis and other cities were current today and received apparent confirmation with the appearance of Jack Bolander, who according to a Berillon expert at police headquarters, was in Los Angeles when the Times building was dynamited, in which almost a score of lives were lost. Bolander was recently served a term in San Quentin prison.

A pressman who refused to violate his contract and who remained at work, was threatened with the destruction of his home by dynamite and the death of his wife and baby. He appealed to the police for protection. A detail of officers was sent to guard his home.

Early in the day rioters were reported to have taken a newspaper circular at the Chicago Tribune building by revolver shots. The victim fired in defense against six men who set upon him in the alleyway where papers are delivered to the wagons. Three were arrested by the police. They were cited for contempt of an injunction restraining the strikers from interference. Hearing will be had Monday.

Inflammatory attacks on the Publishers' association and the police were published by the Chicago Socialist, a Socialist paper, "insulted in certain sections of the city, paper started a morning edition, and, the police charge, is engaged in inciting riots.

A striking increase in the sales of weekly and monthly periodicals to the paper-hungry public has been noted by news dealers.

Warning to the rioters was conveyed by John McWeeny, chief of police, in a statement issued today. He declared the police were under orders to take drastic action when they deemed it advisable. A number of agitators were put under surveillance.

ECONOMIES CAUSE FIGHTS IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill legislation engaged the attention of the House today. The House met at 11 o'clock, and continued in session until long past the usual adjournment hour, because of the numerous fights on the Democratic economies carried in the measure, which Republicans insist will cripple the service of the various government departments.

Points of order against provisions of the bill became so numerous that the rules committee finally brought in another "guys" rule, which made "in order" the several legislative sections of the bill, including the propositions to abolish the commerce court and the bureau of manufactures and the provision that government employees in Washington, in the classified service, shall be retired in 1914 if they shall have reached the age of 65 years.

The House adopted a section in the bill which reduced from $7000 to $6000 the salary of the secretary to the President after March 4 next.

LEADS FILLIBUSTER.
Senator Ioke Smith led a filibuster in the Senate against the employers' liability and workmen's compensation bill, which occupied the entire session. During most of the time the Georgia senator held the floor and spoke in opposition to the measure. After six hours, at ten minutes before 6, he yielded the floor with the understanding that a vote would be taken at 4 o'clock Monday.

Tulare Girl Is Bitten by Rattler

Shoe Into Which Snake Sank Fangs Probably Saved Child's Life.

TULARE, May 4.—Bitten by a rattlesnake, the little daughter of J. S. Downhour living near Earlhart, was brought here for treatment and Dr. T. D. Blodgett stated that the child is now out of danger.

It was probably the shoe of the little girl that saved her life. The rattler sank its teeth into the shoe and into the big toe of her right foot. In doing so it is probable that the poison was caught by the leather of the shoe when the poison saw of the snake avoided the poison following the bite. The little girl was on her way to school, and stepped on the snake, which was a large one. The snake ran into the bushes and the victim of the bite went on to school, telling the teacher where some of the rattlers were. She was recovered and he was identified as the man who had disposed of it. Later he was charged with burglary at the city prison.

PRINCETON MEN TO BE FARMERS

Students to Raise Vegetables on Land Near College Campus.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 4.—A unique plan has been devised by the newly reorganized Bureau of Student Self-Help at Princeton University whereby the Princeton undergraduates desiring to help themselves through college have taken up farming. The plan of instituting a Princeton University farm was made possible through an order of the University Trustees granting to the undergraduates the use of over fifty acres of farm land adjoining the campus free of charge. Practically all of the work on the farm will be done by the undergraduates thus affording employment to a large number of students not only during the spring and fall but also through the summer months.

The land will be used chiefly in raising vegetables, for which there is always a large demand at Princeton. The work of plowing and harrowing has already been started, each undergraduate receiving twenty-five cents an hour for his work. During the summer months when the University is not in session arrangements have been made whereby each student will be given a dormitory room free of charge and will receive two dollars for an eight hour day. As board will cost more than four dollars a week at the most, and probably less, the farm work should prove remunerative to those engaged in it. In addition to the regular wages each undergraduate working on the farm at least a month will benefit from any profits which may be made.

The farm is situated immediately back of Prospect avenue, where practically all the wealthy upper class clubs of Princeton are situated and many of the club men themselves have designated their intention of working on the farm. The undergraduates as a body have taken up with the plan enthusiastically and a "farm" club is organized to consist of both active and associate members. The active membership will compose all those working on the farm for at least a month, while any one interested in the plan may become an associate member.

Another interesting device for assisting needy students that has been brought about by the new Bureau of Student Self-Help is a display room situated in the center of the campus where the undergraduates selling agents may display their wares. A room formerly occupied by the registrar of the University has been given the Bureau for this purpose.

The activities of the new Bureau have not stopped with merely trying to assist the undergraduates to earn money while in college but also to reduce their necessary expenses as far as possible. The so-called Princeton Discount Club was recently organized whereby Princeton students may secure on the payment of one dollar the privilege of a 10 per cent discount on all purchases made at a number of the largest stores in New York, Philadelphia, Trenton, and Newark as well as on the run up the several hotels in New York and Philadelphia.

A $15-a-week clerk in a New Orleans bank signed notes for $50,000 without knowing what he was doing. Some of these bank clerks are almost as ignorant of the first principles of finance as the president and board of directors.—Washington Post.

WATERTIGHT DOORS NOT WORKING ON TITANIC

Five Important Developments in Investigation Into the Great Wreck.

BALTIC'S OPERATOR ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

Heard Few Hours After Disaster That All Survivors Were on Carpathia.

NEW YORK, May 4.—There were five vital important developments in the Titanic investigation today, four of which occupied the attention of Chairman William Alden Smith of the United States senatorial committee from early morning until late at night. First—The arrival in New York of Wireless Operator Balfour of the White Star liner Baltic.

His narrative shows that at 7 o'clock Monday morning he received wireless information from the Carpathia that the Titanic had sunk five hours before, with great loss of life and that all the survivors were then aboard the Carpathia.

That the Baltic thereupon swung in a big circle and resumed her voyage to Southampton.

That the Baltic, which was admittedly in direct wireless communication all that day with Cape Race and for a great part of the day with the Carpathia, either bottled up her information or else transmitted it to Cape Race and that it was thereupon bottled up, so far as the public was concerned, until the time the information reached Cape Race early in the morning and 6:30 o'clock in the evening, at which hour Vice-President F. A. S. Franklin of the White Star line, published the wireless he said he had just received telling of the Titanic's sinking.

RECEIVED MESSAGE. Second—An interview which Senator Smith had with Frederick Dauler, the Western Union employee, whose son was the informant of E. J. Dunne, that "Islefrank" (P. A. S. Franklin) had received a message telling of the Titanic going down with great loss of life early Monday morning.

That the commercial time required for a message from Cape Race over land lines to reach New York is, at the most, but thirty minutes.

Fourth—that the message which J. Bruce Ismay sent to Franklin within a few minutes after he had boarded the Carpathia on Monday, and which Franklin did not receive until Wednesday, was held back for these two days by the wireless people.

Fifth—Confirmation of the report yesterday by H. C. Chambers, a Cornell graduate and prominent mechanical engineer, who is one of the first cabin survivors of the Titanic disaster, that the Titanic's water tight compartment doors were not in working order and could not be closed.

COULD NOT DIVULGE. Wireless Operator Balfour of the Baltic explained today why it was that he could not divulge all that had occurred aboard the Baltic from the time the first wireless message of the Titanic disaster had reached here until she reached her English port. "Under the British law," said Balfour, "I should be liable to a fine of $500, imprisonment for one year and the revocation of my license by the postmaster general if I were to tell the contents of any of the wireless messages received on or dispatched from the Baltic. We wireless operators are very strictly bound in that regard. I have turned over all my originals to the proper authorities in London and when the time comes for me to appear before the British commission which is investigating the Titanic disaster I shall, of course, be released from liability of punishment in order to testify."

AIDED HUSBAND AND LOST LOVE

Asks Divorce, Alleging That Spouse Loves Another Woman.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—Mrs. Margaret Silverthorne, wife of the general manager of the Arkansas and southeastern Railway, who testified in her divorce suit against Albert E. Silverthorne Monday that her husband had been attentive to another woman, outlined Tuesday the full story of her married life which she was ready to give in the case. Her supplementary story contains an account of her en-

KENTUCKY BEAUTY WANTS DIVORCE FROM E. R. THOMAS

THEODORA GERARD, WHO IS NAMED AS CO-RESPONDENT IN THE DIVORCE SUIT OF LONDA LEE THOMAS.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Linda Lee Thomas wants a divorce. She has been living for two years apart from her husband, E. R. Thomas. She names Theodora Gerard, formerly a member of the octette in "Havana." Miss Thomas was one of the beauties of Kentucky. E. R. Thomas was the son of the late Gen. Sam Thomas who made a fortune in railroads. Young Thomas bears the reputation as being known as one of the wildest men in New York. He has been a figure on the Great White Way for years.

At one time he was conspicuous in the restaurants with Evelyn Nesbit and it was reported that Harry Thaw was going to cut off with the wife's allowance because of her relations with Thomas.

Thomas was deeply interested in racing at one time and owned a fine stable. He was one of the most successful automobile speeders in New York and met with several sensational accidents, the last of which occurred at Long Branch and resulted in the loss of a leg.

Looking for new sensations it is probably the motive that induced Thomas to interest himself in the banking business, and other ventures, becoming so involved that he was practically bankrupt.

His father, however, had placed a part of his inheritance in trust so that he could not dispose of the principal. Recently his creditors tried to persuade the court to order most of Thomas's income paid to Fitch. He can always fall back on his mother, who is still wealthy, and is residing with her at the present time in Paris.

$208,896 IS RAISED FOR YOUNG WOMEN'S BUILDING

Ten Days' Campaign Closes With Large Subscription Total

The sum of $208,896 for the Y. W. C. A. building fund is the grand total of subscriptions received as a result of the ten days' campaign which closed last night. The final work of securing subscriptions was carried on during the evening between the hours of 7 and 9:30, resulting in the accumulation of $9,134 for the two hours and a half, making a total of $28,000 for the final day's work.

Although the goal set at the beginning of the campaign, $225,000, was not reached, the amount secured is within such a close margin of that figure that the campaign was declared off and the remainder of the money will be raised by subscriptions already practically pledged, and through similar sources.

Yesterday at noon the final luncheon of the campaign was held amid the keenest enthusiasm of the ten days' activities, more than 300 workers being present. During the day many of the workers got into the field and helped to swell the final totals.

From the beginning the campaign had been carefully planned and the hundreds of married life and the cohesiveness which sprang up between her and her husband when the younger of their two children was 6 years old.

After the wife's testimony, Monday, Judge Fisher continued the case until Wednesday. He wanted to hear what Silverthorne had to say. Silverthorne was not in court. Judge Fisher directed also that Mrs. John H. Overall, 4516 Maryland avenue, be brought into court to testify. Mrs. Overall is named as a witness on behalf of Mrs. Silverthorne.

When a reporter called upon Mrs. Silverthorne in her home at 4506 Maryland avenue she complained that the ordeal of telling her story in court had caused her severe nervous shock. She reclined upon a divan and her mother, Mrs. Mary Tucker, sat close to her, chafing her hands and rubbing her forehead.

Mrs. Silverthorne, whose maiden name was Margaret Docker, said she and Silverthorne were married in Chicago in 1893, the year of the Chicago world's fair. Her husband was a prosperous lumber dealer at the time, but failed in business five years after their wedding, she said.

"I had a little money of my own," Mrs. Silverthorne went on. "I gladly turned it over to him, and with the financial help of his relatives, Mr. Silverthorne was able to start anew in the lumber business in Arkansas. I lived with him wherever he could get along."

"Everything went along very happily until he got prosperous again. He became general manager of the Arkansas and Southeastern Railway and got a private car. It was about Mrs. Overall, 17 years old. The girl appeared to be in sympathy with her mother. When asked if she believed Mrs. Silverthorne meant it when she told her husband not to come back, Mrs. Overall replied that her mother did mean it or else she wouldn't have said it.

of men and women who gave up their duties to make the big project a success carried out the scheme in every detail. The movement had been endorsed by religious, fraternal, civic and commercial organizations and the public co-operated in every way as soon as the importance of the project was realized.

GYM GIRLS HELP.

The luncheon yesterday was given by the First Presbyterian church with Mrs. Van Syke in charge. The supper last night preliminary to the final close the great campaign, was in charge of Mrs. R. Drake, and was that given at the rally last Tuesday evening at Ebell hall. Among the features of the last luncheon were the announcements by Dr. Florence Sullivan that the gymnasium girls of the Y. W. C. A. had contributed $313 and that the Lien Fu club, composed entirely of Chinese girls and women, the only organization of its kind connected with an amusement in the United States, had contributed $75 in addition to the money already secured by the members.

The prayer circle of the First Methodist church contributed $50. Edson P. Adams $500, and C. F. Baker $250. In the absence of A. L. Adams, chairman of the executive committee, the meeting was in charge of C. F. Baker.

The leaders of the campaign are more than pleased with the splendid showing made and say that it is but another indication of the growth of Oakland and the awakening of a civic consciousness.

REPORT SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The reports at the noon luncheon were as follows: Citizens' Committee—33 subscriptions, $664; total to date, 262 subscriptions, $29,398. The banner was taken by the team captained by C. M. Walter, which reported $416. Of big money, the team captained by Dr. Florence Sullivan reported $313 and the team captained by R. M. Lee reported $60 and 47 subscriptions to date for $7045. The total amount contributed by Walter's team was $10,810, and his band of workers led all the teams. Walter's team was composed of the following: L. V. Burpee, Frank K. Mott, O. E. Hollie, Fred B. Taylor, Jules Abrahamson, J. E. Hutchinson, Robert McFadden, J. H. McCallister, H. C. Capwell and C. H. Daly.

Business Men's Committee—31 subscriptions, $3819; total to date, 202 subscriptions, $19,461. The team, captained by J. L. Howard, Jr., won the banner, with six subscriptions for $800. Its team was composed of the following: C. W. Dickey, J. E. MacCormac, E. T. Lettler, M. E. Whalin, Carl Doell and J. C. Downey.

Young Women's Committee—321 subscriptions, $745; total to date, 856 subscriptions, $12,823. The team, captained by Mrs. Wallace Alexander won the banner. The total amount contributed by her company up to noon was $2319. Others to report large sums were Mrs. H. P. Carlton, Dr. Florence Silverthorne, Miss Martha Haven and Miss Douglas Whitehead. Miss Haven said that $50 had been contributed by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church.

Women's Committee—262 subscriptions, $5612; total to date, 619 subscriptions, $7,765. The banner was taken by the team captained by Miss Mae Baldwin, head of a company composed entirely of business women, who reported 33 subscriptions for $727. Miss Baldwin reported that a substantial contribution had been received from the women employed in the Lem Williams Millinery store. By her showing she beat out the team captained by Miss Loree Howland, also composed wholly of business women, who had led with a total of $1215. Miss Baldwin's team secured $1262.

The totals at the luncheon were 207 subscriptions for $12,762.

KING GEORGE TAKES GREAT INTEREST IN BIG FAIR

Receives 1915 Delegates and Asks Many Questions About San Francisco.

EXPRESSES VIEW THAT EVENT WILL BE SUCCESS

Representatives to Visit All Main Cities While They Are Abroad.

LONDON, May 4.—The Panama Exposition Commissioners were received today by King George at Buckingham Palace. John Hays Hammond headed the delegation to the royal audience and others present were R. B. Fale, vice president of the exposition, W. T. Semon, vice president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Rear Admiral S. A. Stauden and General C. R. Edwards.

The delegates drove to Rochester house, the residence of Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, and thence to the palace in the ambassador's carriage. They were received by Sir Charles Fredericks and conducted to the royal presence, where the introduction was made by Reid. After the audience Hammond said to The Tribune correspondent:

KING MOST CORDIAL.

"The king was in morning dress, likewise we, having been informed of this detail from a palace source. We found the king most cordial and affable. He shook hands with each of us and conversed some minutes. His majesty asked many questions about the exposition and he expressed the greatest interest in all the Californians had since the first of the exposition. We explained fully the objects of our mission and informed his majesty what we expected the exposition to accomplish. We also showed him some sketches of the proposed buildings. He expressed the opinion that, in view of San Francisco's quick recovery from the fire, the exposition must be a great success. Afterward we all had some informal talk, the king saying how glad he was to see us all.

"No, we did not intend to go to the exposition. You see," added Hammond with a smile, "it is yet a long way off and flying ships may be capable by that time of taking you from Europe to San Francisco in an hour or two. If we had invited his majesty he might have said no, and later on we might have better prospects."

"The audience took place in the king's private reception room, the delegates being received at the court entrance. On leaving, after being with the king almost an hour, the delegates were again warmly shaken by the hand."

Today Hammond lunched with the Earl of Granard and this evening he dined at Kingston palace with Princess Louise and the Duke of Argyll. The other delegates were engaged in returning personal calls. "Tomorrow," said Hammond, "we leave Clarendon Cross for Berlin. At 9 o'clock Monday morning we are to be tendered a reception by Ambassador Luescher, which will also be attended by several government officials. From Berlin we go to St. Petersburg, where receptions are to be given for us by the ambassador, the prime minister and the secretary of commerce. Our itinerary from St. Petersburg will probably include Stockholm, Vienna, Budapest, Rome, Madrid and back to Paris. We expect to spend three days in each capital, returning to London in a month."

Dr. Skiff, the European commissioner for the exposition, has gone to Nuremberg to take the cure.

CUATRO CIENTOS IN REBELS' HANDS

Federals Have Taken Two Other Places, Giving Them Advantage.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Numerous changes in the relative positions of the federal and rebel troops were reported in dispatches received by the State department today. Chief among those was the report of the capture of Cuatro Cientos by the rebels. The rebels have been trying for several days to break into this city and have at last succeeded. Monclova also has been captured.

The federals on the other hand are said to have taken Culcan and to have driven the rebels out of Tepic, thus gaining considerable ground in the rebel territory north of Mexico City.

The gunboat Yorktown, which was warned by wireless not to stop at any Mexican port, is expected to reach San Diego early next week.

The revenue cutter Winnie has been ordered to assist in the schooner Granada, which has been reported to the department of justice as attempting to enter Mobile bay in order to take aboard a cargo of arms and ammunition for the Mexican revolutionaries.

BUTTON EVIDENCE IN MURDER CASE

Its Finding Near Body May Be Damaging to Stockton Man.

LYNN, Mass., May 4.—One of the most conclusive pieces of evidence that the police have against Wm. A. Dorr, charged with the murder of George F. Marsh, the millionaire soap manufacturer, it was announced today, is a button from the alleged slayer's overcoat.

The button, according to Chief of Police Curries, will undoubtedly convict Dorr of the murder. It was found near Marsh's body on the day the murder was discovered and its existence remained a secret among the police authorities until today, when the district attorney took of identifying the button with those on Dorr's overcoat.

The finding of the button and its identification with others on the coat worn by the alleged murderer places sufficient evidence in the hands of the police for them to show that he visited the scene of the murder and the fact that a portion of the coat is torn away with the button would indicate that a struggle ensued.

MAY CONDEMN LAND IN MONO LAKE BASIN

BODIE, May 4.—Condemnation suits have been filed in the Mono County Superior Court against 131 parcels of land in the Mono Lake Basin. The suits were filed in December, but have only lately become known to the public. The actions are brought by the Desert Water, Oil and Irrigation company through A. H. Rickerts, attorney. The company was incorporated last June in Nevada, by persons presumed to be "dummy" directors. The real parties in interest are believed to be W. H. Metson, J. S. Cain and associates. The Hydro-Electric company, the Mono county branch of the Nevada-California Power company, is also presumed to have a finger in the pie. The Desert company's charter includes nearly every purpose for which a large development corporation would be organized. The purposes alleged in the suits are protection and preservation of watersheds, development of power, and so on. The specific intention is believed to be construction of a reservoir at Grant Lake, and piping the water to a point a half of 70 feet can be had for power development.

DELEGATES WORKING FOR CHAMP CLARK LAWYERS AID DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE

Frank C. Drew and R. M. Fitzgerald on the Ticket

While the contest between the Taft and Roosevelt forces is engrossing the attention of members of the Republican party, the Democrats of Alameda are starting a lively Champ Clark boom that is expected to pile up a considerable array of votes for their candidate. Among the prominent Democrats of this county who have taken up the banner of the Speaker of the House for the Presidency are R. M. Fitzgerald, the well-known attorney member of the law firm of Fitzgerald & Abbott of this city, and one of the Clark delegates in the coming primary. Fitzgerald has been a Clark man ever since his name was first mentioned in connection with the nomination. F. C. Drew of Alameda is a member of the San Francisco law firm of Metson, Drew & Mackenzie. He is also a Champ Clark delegate and an enthusiastic worker for that candidate. Drew has a large following in Alameda and will undoubtedly win a strong support for his candidate in that city.

CARS COLLIDE ON BROADWAY

College Avenue Coach Crashed Into and Passengers Are Shaken Up.

In a rear-end collision between two street cars, at Broadway and Ninth street at 9:30 o'clock last night Motorman J. Archer narrowly escaped serious injury and the crews of both cars were considerably shaken up. Fortunately there were few passengers on either car and the only damage resulting was the wrecking of College avenue car No. 368, which was crashed into by car No. 187 in charge of Motorman J. Archer and Conductor A. J. Knight. The crew of the other car were Conductor J. Moher and W. T. Hodkins. No one was seriously injured.

The accident occurred while the College avenue car was at a standstill and the car behind, following at considerable speed, failed to stop in time to avert the collision. Traffic was blocked for about ten minutes while the cars were extricated from their entanglement. Seeing that an accident was imminent, Motorman Archer sprang back into his car after applying the brakes and escaped injury. Motorman Moher received a slight sprain of his right wrist.

TAKES 27 YEARS TO GET EAST

Stopped to Visit on Way and Stayed for Many Years.

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y., May 4.—It took Walter Clark twenty-seven years to cross the continent from Eureka, Cal., to this place, and he did not walk, either. He left California in 1880 to visit a cousin here, but stopped in Salt Lake City and liked the town so well that he stayed seven years. Then he journeyed as far as Wichita, Kan. and remained there until 1905 when he moved on to Saginaw, Mich. He stayed there until a few weeks ago.

LUMBER SHIPMENTS FROM NORTH LARGE

EUREKA, May 4.—It has been estimated that during the month of May 11,000,000 feet of lumber will be loaded in Humboldt bay on freighters destined to Australia. A very rough estimate of the value of this lumber is placed at $275,000.

APPROVES THOUSAND MILES OF HIGHWAY

ALBANY, N. Y., May 4.—The New York State Highway Commission at one stroke has approved plans for the letting of over 1000 miles of improved highways in various parts of the state. The contracts will be awarded early in June.

ASK FOR WHARVES.
LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Harbor boosters, backed by the Harbor Commission, will try to have a number of wharves constructed exclusively for the fishing boats at San Pedro. Secretary Fleming has sent to E. P. Goodrich, special harbor engineer, data showing the lack of fishing wharves.

CITY OFFICIALS PLAN BIG MEETING

Annual Gathering of California Office Holders to Be at University.

The officials of the League of California Municipalities anticipate an extra large attendance at their next convention, which will be held at the University of California, September 23 to 28. In accordance with the custom established three years ago, the state board of health will hold its annual meetings with the city officials, devoting their attention, however, to health problems exclusively. At San Diego two years ago the plan was tried of having an exposition of machinery and supplies used in municipal work, in connection with the convention. It was a huge success, and last year at Santa Barbara the exposition feature was augmented by an exhibit by the state board of health, which proved very instructive and attracted a great deal of attention.

The forthcoming convention and exposition at the State University will be on a more elaborate scale than ever before attempted. One of the principal features being a pure food show under the supervision of Professor M. E. Jaffe. The main exposition and principal meetings will be held in the first memorial building. The city attorneys will meet in the Board Hall of Law while the state board of health will use the laboratories on the university grounds. President Wheeler has placed the university at the disposal of the joint convention. The university has the finest testing machinery on the coast, and practical demonstrations of testing rock, cement and other building materials will be one of the features of the program. The League of California Municipalities was organized in San Francisco fifteen years ago, former Mayor Philon being its first president. Many of the growth and improvement of cities and towns throughout California is credited to the stimulating influence of the league. The annual meetings serve as a school for city officials and a clearing house of ideas and experiences.

A PLEA FOR THE ORPHAN CHILDREN

I. A. Beretta Asks All to Co-operate in Making the West Oakland Home Tag Day a Big Success.

Saturday, May 11, will be the day when from early morning till late at night the good women of the West Oakland Home and their friends will be found on every corner and in all the stores of our city selling tags and pennants for the benefit of the motherless little folk who are inmates of the big institution on Campbell street. As one who has a personal knowledge of the great good accomplished by the home and who knows it to be well managed and worthy in every way of the support of the kind-hearted people of Oakland, I wish to heartily endorse Tag Day and to urge all who have a desire to help the helpless, to bring sunshine into the lives of those unfortunate children by donating for Tag Day and encouraging those who are working for its success. Sincerely, I. A. BERETTA.

FREEZING WEATHER IMPROVES HEALTH

Mr. and Mrs. David Tisch Return After Six Months' Stay in East.

After six months spent in their old home in St. Louis, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. David Tisch, residents of Oakland for forty years, have returned to this city and are at home at 678 Twenty-fourth street. The trip was made for the benefit of Tisch's health and proved entirely successful. Tisch, who is one of the best known horticulturists in this part of the state, found his health failing. Local physicians advised a sojourn in the Eastern states, in a region of intense cold, and on their advice Mr. and Mrs. Tisch left this city last October. The six months spent in St. Louis, with its below-zero temperature, effected the cure hoped for. In the years of his residence here Tisch has been a prominent exhibitor of flora at the different floral shows held in this city and San Francisco. He was an exhibitor in St. Louis before coming to the coast, and followed his arrival here by carrying out some

HEIRESS ESCAPES DEATH IN PLUNGE

Horse Slips Over Precipice and Girl Saves Life by Quick Action.

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Miss Marjorie Moon of Pasadena had a narrow escape from death on the Mt. Wilson trail when her black horse Chancellor, slipped, fell over the precipice and was badly injured on the rocks nearly a hundred feet below. Miss Moon slid off the horse's back as the animal stumbled, and thus saved herself. Miss Moon accompanied by Miss Marjorie Stearns, James Fitzmorris of London, and several others prominent in Pasadena society, started on horseback up the Mt. Wilson trail intending to return late in the evening by moonlight. When they had traversed nearly two-thirds of the distance to the summit the party heard the tinkle of the bells on the mules of a pack train coming down. They hesitated and prepared to make way for the oncoming cavalcade.

The pack train advanced and one of the mules crowded Miss Moon's horse on his haunches until two of his feet were over the edge of the canyon. For a moment he poised on the brink of the precipice and in that time Miss Moon disengaged her feet from the stirrups, jerked her hands free of the reins, and just as the animal was starting on the downward plunge she threw herself from his back and alighted safely on the ground. The horse's fall was broken by an outcropping tree and his life was saved.

VISITORS QUIZZED IN HOLD-UP CASE

Tacoma Residents Testify in Favor of Alleged Robber Across Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Two witnesses were examined today at the instance of counsel for Sydney Franklin, accused of the holdup of D. Zappa, who was shot and robbed in a grocery store at Pine and Jones street April 8. They were Mrs. Mary Louise Stiles and her daughter, Memorie, of Tacoma, Wash., who were staying at the Southwesterly apartments at the time of the crime. It is in this house that Franklin resides, and his father claims that he was in bed asleep when the shooting occurred, and was afterwards seen by many persons attired in a bathrobe.

The Stiles did not observe him, but they did see the entrance to the apartment house, and they stated positively on the witness stand in Judge Deasy's court that no one had entered the building during the excitement.

USED DYNAMITE TO GET FISH, CHARGE THEY FACE

SANTA CRUZ, May 4.—Game Warden Walter Welch Friday arrested Nick Patton, Leonard Lovett and Hugh Baird, first securing warrants from Justice of the Peace H. J. Bias, charging the men with a high misdemeanor for using explosives for the purpose of killing fish. The deed is alleged to have been committed near Ben Lomond May Day. People who were working in that vicinity heard the report of the explosive and went to investigate. They saw the three men making a hasty retreat. Several dead fish, including trout and suckers, were picked up. The carpenters at work nearby, who witnessed the affair, reported the same to the game warden.

STEER'S DOWNFALL WAS HUMILIATING

Carlisle Indian Throws Wild Animal Before Crowd at Park.

With a number of prominent local citizens and representatives from the various newspapers present Wolf Vidugo, a thoroughbred Shoshone Indian, with apparently little difficulty, threw a steer which had been captured by several members of the Moose order and taken to the Grove street baseball grounds, where the steer throwing took place.

Vidugo, in company with W. H. Kennedy and several cowboys famous on the ranges of Oregon, Nevada, Arizona and other cattle ranges, belong to the widely known Dell Eagle's Wild West show, which has been chartered by the Oakland Order of Moose, No. 324, to show in this city May 14-15. The local Moose are for the most part from Missouri, according to their own admission, and when they heard of the marvelous feats of the cowboys in the Dell Eagle's show they determined that they would get that show, but first they had to be "shown." The Moose and those who were their allies, gathered at the baseball park were "shown." The steer, which was the wild-est a committee of the Moose could find in the various herds at Butchertown, was taken in tow and brought to the park and set loose.

STEER WAS ANGRY. The crowd that had gathered to witness the sport regarded the throwing stunt as something along the lines of a Mexican bull fight and when Vidugo and his cowboy friends started after the animal was fighting mad. He began charging at the crowd, which took to its heels and sought refuge on the top rows of the bleachers. After considerable chasing the animal was finally headed into the open arena, where Vidugo, after a thrilling ride, drew alongside the steer and leaping from his horse grasped the steers' animal by the horns and threw it to the ground. Then grasping the big brute's lips with his teeth he removed his hands and held the animal down. To finish off the performance he jumped aboard on the bull's back and rode him backward. His exhibition was greeted by a round of applause.

Vidugo weighs 175 pounds, while the steer tips the scales at 1200 pounds. After the throwing he said: "I am 25 years of age and for the past two years have been on the range, where I gained considerable skill in the various 'stunts' of the cowboys. I then joined the Dell Eagle's show and have been connected with that company for several years. The throwing of the steer today was done under considerable handicap to me, as I am used to my own horse, which is at present down south. With the horse I rode today I was not sure of his ability to keep the pace or I would have been able to do the stunt much easier." Vidugo is a graduate of Carlisle College.

STOCKS SLUMPING; MARKET IS DULL

Reason Assigned Is That Mississippi Floods Are Causing Great Damage.

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.) WALL STREET, NEW YORK, May 4.—Stocks declined further today, but in the last hour recovered quietly, although they did not make up all the loss. Some specialties displayed considerable strength. The standard issues all acted about alike. Steel sold at the lowest price of the movement. On the curb dullness prevailed, with clear stores showing greatest strength.

The reason generally given for the selling movement was that the Mississippi flood has done great damage. This is true, but for every dollar of damage the heavy rains have insured ten dollars of additional harvest. Money is plentiful. The steel and copper trades are looking better every day. The political situation cannot become worse. The country is recovering at least from the panic.

To admit that the decline in prices in the last two days is anything more than a raid or a normal reaction would be to repudiate all the arguments given for the advance. Those reasons are sound and this reaction does not weaken them. It is impossible to see any reason for abandoning the theory that prices will continue to rise. The reaction has not excited liquidation. That has encouraged many persons who refused to follow the upward movement, but who will now join it when prices resume the advance, as they must very soon. The bank statement today showed no important changes.

CALLAHAN THOUGHT FEUDISM WAS DEAD

Man Whose Name Created Terror Shot From Ambush; May Die.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 4.—Ed Callahan, the last of the feudists of Breathitt county, who was shot and probably fatally wounded while sunning himself on the steps of his store at Crockettville today, is tonight being rushed to Lexington for medical treatment. Callahan was formerly sheriff of Breathitt county and, in league with Judge J. E. Hargis, arrested and brought to trial almost anybody he pleased. To those favoring the Hargis-Callahan clan, Judge Hargis would deal out very light punishment, but to all those who were known to oppose the ideas of Hargis and Callahan, the full extent of the law was given. The ex-sheriff had perhaps more enemies in Jackson and Breathitt counties than any other man and the bullet which will probably end his career came from ambush on the side of the mountain which his store faces. Callahan was standing in about the same place he was when he was shot two years ago and the assassins were secreted in about the same spot on the mountain side. There is no clue to the murder of Callahan.

Callahan's name has been a terror throughout the Breathitt county feud regions ever since the assassination of Dr. B. D. Cox in April, 1902. Cox was a witness in a case against one of Hargis' friends. In July of the same year, James Cockrell, one of the opposing feudists, met death mysteriously and in May, 1902, James B. Marcum was shot while going from his home to the court house in Jackson to try a case. His widow sued Hargis, who was very wealthy, for $100,000, but the case never came to trial, through the Hargis influence. Callahan has been arrested several times, but always managed to go free, although his trials have made big inroads in his fortune. Callahan knew he had many enemies but recently expressed the opinion that the feud spirit was dead in Breathitt.

Explorer Honors Friend While Naming Mountain

MRS. JOHN GADE, WHOSE NAME HAS BEEN CONFERRED UPON A MOUNTAIN NEAR THE SOUTH POLE.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Mrs. John Gade of New York has had a very unique honor conferred upon her by Explorer Amundsen. When one of the highest mountains near the North Pole was sighted, Amundsen named it Gade Mountain, in honor of the Gades who are great friends of the explorer, and when he started for the pole he promised to bring Mrs. Gade a souvenir. The souvenir arrived in the form of a letter stating that a mountain had been named in her honor.

No arrangements are being contemplated at the present time by Mrs. Gade to visit her namesake.

BULLETIN ON NURSING TO TELL OF QUALIFICATIONS

Amount of Training Required Is Subject of Director's Discourse

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Conditions making for inefficiency in schools for the professional training of nurses are dealt with in a bulletin entitled "The Educational Status of Nursing," which is shortly to be issued for free distribution by the United States Bureau of Education. According to the bulletin, there are schools which admit candidates at as early an age as 17, asking no educational qualifications except a common-school education, and sometimes not even that. Other training schools require as much as twelve hours a day of nursing from their students in addition to attendance at classes and lectures. Not infrequently, also, the students are subjected to certain forms of commercial exploitation. These conditions exist, notwithstanding a number of advances made in recent years in the professional training of nurses. The bulletin is written by Miss Adelaide Nutting, director of the Department of Nursing and Health, Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, and formerly superintendent of nurses and principal of the Training School of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

The first count in Miss Nutting's indictment of nurses' training schools reads in the government publication as follows: "The condition in training schools which is causing grave concern among those who have long been struggling to improve the education of nurses is the persistence of low standards for admission. The enormous multiplication of hospitals and sanitariums throughout the country, with the consequent unrestricted development of training schools as a part of their working organization, has led to a demand for students essentially for utilitarian purposes. No adequate supply could be secured through the usual sources, with the maintenance of suitable standards, and such standards have therefore been lowered or sacrificed to meet the current needs of institutions."

"The large, best-equipped, and well-known schools naturally attract the most desirable candidates, yet not one of them is exempt from the necessity of admitting and keeping in the school pupils of pitifully low educational attainments and mental ability. In order that there may be no disturbance or breakdown of the system, the school is obliged to accept of 'manned' at all points throughout its departments with student nurses."

Most student nurses are lacking in two main respects—they are neither old enough, nor well-educated enough, to enter upon the course of training for this profession. Regarding age conditions, Miss Nutting says: "Until the last few years the general age requirement for admission to training schools was 23 years, and it was only in exceptional instances that students were admitted under that age. But of recent years, in the effort to secure enough students to staff the hospitals, the age requirement has been steadily lowered, and now in the majority of schools (53.2 per cent.) students are admitted at 20 years or under, and in 13.15 per cent. of all schools they are admitted at 18 years of age. A further descent may be perhaps foreshadowed in the record of the two schools admitting that they receive students of 17 years of age."

While there is little reason to suppose that the age standard would in the present day, be kept at 23 or even 22, yet it is a grave question whether the admission of young, immature girls of 18 and 19 to hospitals and to the physical demands, and the overwhelming responsibilities and anxieties of such work as inevitably awaits them there by day and night, should be considered. No one can assume that it will be able to provide influence and safeguard, strong enough and far-reaching enough to protect either patient or pupil under these conditions."

WILL SELL TAGS FOR W. O. HOME

Charitable Women to Work
Next Saturday to Aid Children.

Charitable women well known in local social and club circles will work untiringly all day Saturday selling tags for the benefit of the West Oakland Home. Letters of endorsement and encouragement are being received from leading city officials and merchants who know the cause to be a worthy one.

Walter J. Peterson, acting chief of police of Oakland, has sent the following, which is greatly appreciated: "The undersigned is familiar with the work of the West Oakland Home and for the service that institution is rendering the city of Oakland, and I most heartily endorse and approve of the work of this organization and recommend the endorsement of the day set apart to secure funds on May 11, 1912, which has been set apart as 'Tag Day.'"

W. J. PETERSEN,
Acting Chief of Police.
Throughout next week plans for Tag Day will be perfected and much preliminary work will be done. On Wednesday Mrs. Juan Baptista will give a benefit party to swell the funds she is raising in the district of which she is a lieutenant. Much good natured rivalry is being shown by the various officers of the day, each of whom will aim to make hers the banner district. Through the courtesy of Col. Ewing pennants for Tag Day are to be sold on Thursday at the ball game. At St. Mark's hotel $50 has been gathered for one captain, who was assisted in her efforts by James Merson and other business men. All the principal business concerns are contributing to the Oakland Home tag sellers to have tables in their places of business on next Saturday.

While tags will adorn the buttone of every coat, pennants will flutter from each automobile and there is great rivalry among certain prominent business and professional men as to who shall possess the first pennant. Among the men's fraternal orders and clubs there is to be a generous support for Tag Day.

Mrs. F. B. Land, general of the army of workers for the big charity, has over 500 excellent assistants, among whom are Mrs. Walter Lou Denison, Mrs. James A. Miller, Miss Grace Trevor, Mrs. Fred Reed, Miss Lou Denison, Mrs. E. L. Hall, Mrs. John Denison, Mrs. Frank Prussia, Mrs. Glenn Barnhardt, Mrs. Edward Deardley and hosts of others.

A number of the younger girls of the exclusive set, chaperoned by prominent matrons, will be stationed in banks and leading stores. Among the girls to assist will be Miss Phyllis Kent, Miss Phoebe Matthews, Miss Phoebe Matthews, Miss Etta Schrock, Miss Lulu Draper and Miss Ivah Murphy.

WOOLEN MILLS FOR RICHMOND

Man From Australia Secures a Site on Proposed Inner Harbor.

RICHMOND, May 4.—Stoll another manufacturing institution looms big on the Richmond horizon. They are coming almost every week and it is getting so the fact no longer creates excitement, but just interest, as of course all are glad to see the new factories coming, for it means a bigger payroll, more employment for workmen and a general prosperity. The latest is a woolen mill of large dimensions, which it is announced today has closed a contract with H. C. Cutting in San Francisco for a tract of land back of Cutting boulevard and close to the place where the Laureston Transportation Company has just finished erecting warehouses, building a levee and a wharf for its new steamer now plying between this point and San Francisco daily laden with cargoes of freight for the local merchants here.

This woolen mill company is to be under the management of Mr. Wayward of Australia, who has been looking over the United States for some time past in the interest of his company for a suitable location for a mill of that character. Mr. Wayward preferred a western location for the reason that the raw product is raised in the West and by having his mills located on the Pacific Coast he can save thousands in freight, and especially will that be true when ships are passing through the Panama Canal. His one sticking point up to this time has been the fact that all wool used in making cloth has heretofore been shipped east to be bleached, as well as to be made up into woven goods, but in Richmond he found another new company recently established here, the Richmond Dyeing, Cleaning and Bleaching Company, which has erected a large and modern plant, and they assured him that his wool could be bleached right here in Richmond just as well as in Massachusetts. Thus is one new institution helping out another.

Mr. Wayward has chosen Richmond as the site for the mills and picked out his ground, and will now go East to confer with the officials of his company as to details. The new woolen mills should and probably will employ several hundred people when they get into full operation.

WOULD PROTECT FERRY WITH WIRE CABLES

A plan by which he thinks it will be possible to operate ferry boats with apparently no danger if struck by another vessel has just been invented by J. Peterson of 1028 Filbert street. Peterson, who has been connected with the sea for many years, declares that by stretching two slack wire cables one under and one over the gunwale, all the way around the boat, it would be practically impossible for anything to cut through and sink the craft. According to Peterson a steel vessel of ocean going size, should it strike a ferry boat, instead of cutting through the wire would slip off without causing any great damage.

FREE—$2500 California Ranch

In order to increase our business we are making the above extraordinary offer in return for assistance that you can give us in securing bona fide buyers for good California lands. Send us the names of at least ten people whom you think might be interested in farming land. We will then write them, setting forth what we have to offer. This acreage is of surpassing fertility and ranks with the best in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys.

To the party sending in the list of names that brings the most business we will award a $2500.00 16-acre ranch ready for occupancy. (The name of the party receiving ranch will be published November 1, 1912.) If you should not desire the land we will send you a free of all expense. As a further compensation we allow you a commission of 5 per cent on all sales made to people whose names have been sent in by you. We will also give every person sending in a list of names a clear deed and title to a 5x100-foot lot in Summerland Villa at Guerneville, California, located 70 miles from San Francisco, in a rapidly growing community. As we incur a small expense in the transfer of the lot, the advertised price of which is $50.00, we ask you to remit $7.50 with every list of names to cover drawing of deed and necessary legal papers.

This is an unusually liberal offer, but we figure it will mean a great increase in our business at a minimum cost for advertising. It is your opportunity to perhaps become independent of your present employer, at a little effort and co-operation. Do not delay sending in your list, as the longer we have to submit the merits of our lands to prospective customers the greater the business should be resulting to your advantage.

Official Makes Stop in Los Angeles on Way to Santa Barbara.

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Philander C. Knox, secretary of state, arrived here this afternoon on his way to Santa Barbara. He was met at the station by a deputation from the Chamber of Commerce. A number of Americans who have been driven out of Mexico by the revolutionary troubles, announced their intention to place before Knox a statement of their hardships and losses with a view of having the United States procure redress. But Knox had only a few minutes to stay in the city, as he arrived late, and did not see them.

Former United States Senator Frank P. Flint, who obtained by telegraph Knox's consent to deliver a political address in this city on behalf of President Taft, met the secretary on the train and remained with him for some time. From Santa Barbara Knox will go to San Francisco.

GREAT AERIAL ARMY PLANNED

Powerful Machines to Be Used With All Divisions of Troops.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Comprehensive and spectacular plans for the organization of a great aerial army powerful enough to defend the entire coast line of the United States and Philippines, Hawaii and Panama are complete at the department of war.

In addition to coast defense and the defense of the island possessions, the plan as drawn up by the war department comprehends the organization of at least three aerial squadrons (each division of troops in the regular army and a big squadron of extra powerful machines for long distance reconnaissance in connection with each general army that may take the field. A number of specialized machines are provided for use with the field artillery. Not only are provisions made for aerial schools for which congress has voted funds, but the department is asked to provide, will be trained, but other schools are designed to train a complete auxiliary aerial army obtained from men equipped by the militia organization of the United States.

With the object of inducing both officers and enlisted men to enter this especially hazardous branch of the service, special provisions are made by the department to provide for the widows of such men as may be killed through accidents.

'SILK STOCKINGS FIGHT ME'—T. R.

Alliance With the Bosses.

FREDERICK, Md., May 4.—"I would not have come into this contest," said Colonel Roosevelt in an open air speech here today, "if I had felt I could have legitimately stayed out of it. I came into the contest because I felt more and more that it was a straight-line up between the average man on the one side and on the other hand the men who wished to advance their own interests, either politically or otherwise at the expense of the people."

He did not mean that all the men against us are bad men. There are multitudes of well-meaning men against us who have not waked up to the issue. Nine-tenths of wisdom is being wise in time.

"Every crooked politician of every party is against us. The crooked politician in the Democratic party is against us. There are two reasons for that. In the first place the crook in the Democratic party—naturally feels akin to the crook in the Republican party, who is against us; fundamentally their interests are the same. In the second place, the crook in the Democratic party feels that if we are beaten, it would be easier for him to win in the election."

"The silk stockings for the most part are against us in this fight," said the colonel at Westminster. "They ought not to be, for we won't hurt them. They are in a curious alliance with the bosses. We saw this at his height in Massachusetts. Our opponents know how to manipulate the returns. You watch them carefully. They are the people who do the bribing. See to it that you don't let our opponents win by trickery."

BRIDE-TO-BE IS GUEST AT SHOWER

Anna Baldwin, Belle of Niles, Entertained by Her Friends.

NILES, May 4.—In honor of Miss Anna Baldwin, who is soon to wed, Mrs. R. O. Moyer and Miss Elsie Stoltz entertained this week at the home of the latter. The affair was in the shape of a linen shower. The guest of honor recently announced her engagement to Edward Kientz.

During the afternoon part of the guests were engaged in playing "500," while others entertained themselves with their embroidery.

At the close of the afternoon, dainty refreshments were served, the guests finding their places at the table by untangling webs of cords which were crossed and wound about everything possible.

The guest of honor found at her place a basket containing the very many beautifully embroidered gifts of linen brought by the others. These occupied the guests until time for departure.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Moyer, accompanied by Miss Helen Sharpe, rendered several vocal selections which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Those present were: Madeline Sneed, Philipp, Nichols, Hurd, Dillard, Baldwin Road, Sullivan, Ellsworth, Moyer, Misses Anna Baldwin, Helen Baldwin, Misses Anna Baldwin, Helen Baldwin.

Boys Emulate "Hoboes" and Make Tramp Across Country

Four sons of millionaires who are "hitting the ties" for new sensations and experiences to be derived from "roughing it." Left to right—Sid Francis, Haywood Brown and A. B. Dupont.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Sidney R. Francis, son of Hon. D. R. Francis, of St. Louis, and his friends A. D. Dupont, Haywood Brown, and George D. Little, of New York, have been having some lively experiences traveling through the west. Though they are sons of millionaires, they decided to test the joy of "roughing it" from St. Louis to San Francisco.

It was their intention to keep on traveling around the world if it was found feasible. Most of the way from San Francisco they rode on the bumpers of freight trains or on the end of "blind baggage" cars. From time to time they "hit the ties," and occasionally they patronized an empty box car.

Francis and Dupont were arrested in Santa Barbara for beating their way, and were locked up with plain drunks and real tramps. After a breakfast of dry bread and coffee they were brought into court and sentenced to 30 days in jail with the alternative of quitting town in an hour.

They walked to West Santa Barbara and there joined tramps, catching freight trains.

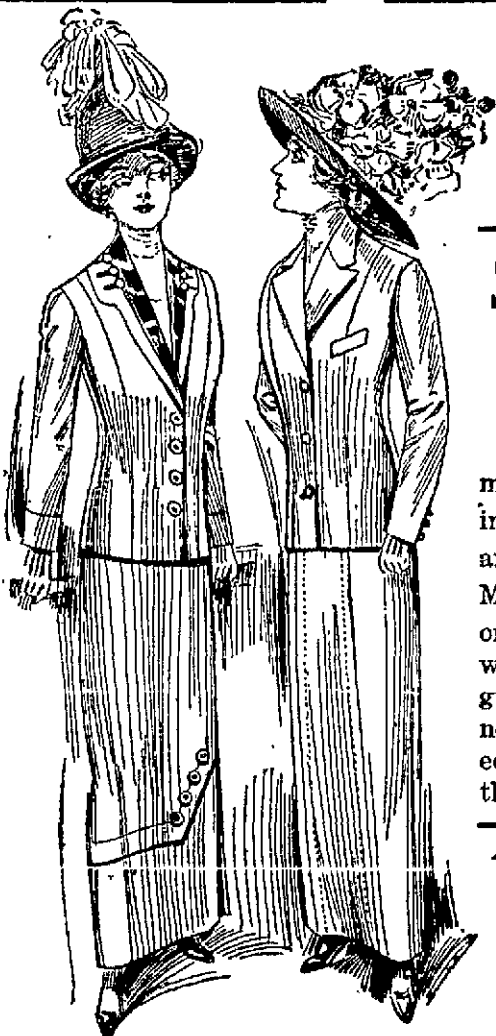

After further disheartening experiences, Dupont became discouraged and cashed a certified check which he had with him, and with the proceeds, Francis and Dupont patronized a passenger train, paying their way.

Meanwhile Brown and Little, riding the "blind baggage," reached San Francisco in two days. The last accounts of them say that they were looking for jobs on a trans-Pacific steamer to work their passage across the ocean.

DEPARTMENT SHOWS ITS FANGS

Enraged at the Unwarranted Interference in Magdalena Bay Controversy.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Enraged at what they termed to be unwarranted interference in a matter that concerns the state department and the chief executive alone, officials of the state department today expressed firm belief that the President will veto an effort on the part of the Senate to extend the Monroe doctrine to meet the situation on Magdalena bay.

The feud between the President and the Senate as to who is vested with the right to declare war is not what is at issue in the Magdalena bay controversy, but the moment the Lodge resolution was introduced.

It was definitely understood at the White House and the department of state that Senator Lodge intended to bring this question to an issue by the introduction of his resolution.

In his speech creating the issue Senator Lodge maintained that the Monroe doctrine as applied to Magdalena bay was a subject for declaration by the Senate.

Following this occasion a number of conferences were held by Acting Secretary Wilson and President Taft as to whether or not they should defy the Senate and refuse to submit any information at all.

POLICY NOT LAW. It was contended by the state department that the Monroe doctrine is a policy and not a law, and that up to the present time no legislative branch of the government had ever attempted to interfere with the exclusive right of the President to administer it.

It was pointed out that the Monroe doctrine originated with President Monroe without the counsel of Congress and that the only time it ever has been modified was by an edict of President Grant without the advice or consent of the Senate.

TURTLE WALKS 200 MILES TO SEE BOY

Honest, He Does, But It Takes Him All Winter to Make the Trip.

EDITOR TRIBUNE.—Out on Twenty-third street near Twenty-third avenue is a small sized excitement. Some two years or more ago Frank Lewis brought a turtle from Placer county, drilled a small hole through the lower right hand corner of the young turtle's shack and tethered the captive in the back yard.

After Mrs. E. M. Olney, who resides at 2211 East Twenty-third street, next to the Lewis home, found a turtle prowling around in the yard. She took him in and petted him.

Women cannot keep a turtle any more than they can keep a boy. She was told that the turtle was a boy and that it was named Frank.

Last summer Frank spent his school vacation in Placer county. A spasm of pity for the lonely little creature induced him to return it to its former haunts. He bade it good-bye and Godspeed.

At the end of his vacation he returned to his mother, happy in the thought that his pet was probably basking in the love and care of his parent. Yesterday some school boys saw a "funny thing" trying to walk up the cement wall in front of Mrs. Olney's house.

They called it a turtle and it was indeed a turtle. It was the same turtle that was brought out Mrs. Olney. She picked up the little traveler and at once recognized Frank's former border.

Now, Mr. Editor (you are supposed to be a walking "ecce") the question arises: Is that that turtle that Frank carried back to that lovely more than 200 miles away—and if that is that turtle—that was branded like that other turtle—well, can that be possible?

TETRAZZINI FEARED TO CROSS THE OCEAN

AN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Here's one on Tetrazzini that I haven't yet heard told—"Doc" Leahy, her manager, brought it with him: The Titanic disaster was in every mouth and on every nerve in New York. Death peered with Satanic leer into every face. And Tetrazzini was going to sail for Europe!

In the temperamental way she had hysterics. She couldn't see anything but a sinking ship. The shrieks of the lost and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," rang in her super-responsive ears. It was next to impossible to get her aboard ship.

Leahy calmed her in managerial fashion. He told her that the captain of the Cunarder on which she was to sail was the stoutest, most experienced captain on all the seas. His ship was the safest. His company never had an accident. And then, too, she carried Bill Sesnon and the California fair commission. There was no chance of danger, no possibility of disaster.

At last Tetrazzini went tearfully aboard, only half convinced that the voyage was not to be her last!

The steamer started out. It hadn't left the pier before it hit the wharf and carried away the entire seaward end of the structure. The crash could have been heard by a listening ear in London. There was panic, dismay!

"I've lost her forever!" moaned Leahy—but the ship went on.

Put One Over on Our Blanche

Blanche Bates is here, and of course she has been made much of. With the natural tendencies for advertising the brilliant actress fell in for the May Day festivities and before that for Raisin Day.

On the latter day she was summoned to the 'phone. She heard a voice:

"I hear you are to give out raisins at the corner of Third and Market streets!"

"Yes."

"Well, this is Tarpey!"

"Who?"

"Tarpey! I'm the greatest raisin grower in the world!"

"Yes!"

"You are to give out raisins at Third and Market streets, are you not?"

"Yes!"

"Well, you know you are to give out nothing but Tarpey raisins!"

"What!"

"Nothing but Tarpey raisins. And with every package you are to say: 'These are the famous Tarpey raisins from the Tarpey vineyard!'"

"Is that arranged?"

"Certainly—with the committee. You are to give out nothing but Tarpey raisins!"

"But I must see the committee of arrangements."

"What? You an enfranchised woman! You, the wonder of the ages! You, have to ask a mere man committee what you shall do? Why, if you can't give out to the world famous Tarpey raisins without asking mere man—why, I don't care whether you give out raisins at all!"

"Bang!" Blanche Bates hung up the 'phone and asked who was that impertinent Tarpey.

Some time later she found that it was her old friend, Larry Harris, who was at the other end of the 'phone. But Harris is now dodging the Tarpeys—M. F., the father; Arthur, the son; Paul, the nephew—and every last one of 'em has a punch!

What Are We Coming to?

Here are a few things that give us pause: At the Potter Hotel in Santa Barbara appeared this on the bulletin-board:

"Lost—A gold and jeweled cigarette case and match-box inscribed on the inside, 'Marie.'"

One of our papers this week received this:

"To the Editor—Dear Sir. Will the young lady who put a lock of hair and raisins in my cream puff on Raisin Day please communicate with

"MR. GREEN, St. Francis."

And at about the same time this appeared as a "small ad":

"Lost—Suitcase in some saloon between Market and Mission on Third street—or elsewhere. Liberal reward on account of photos. Address The Ruhstaller, N. E. corner Third and Mission streets.

"W. J. KILCAIRD."

That reads as if a song might be written, "Oh, you beautiful jag—you great, big, beautiful jag!"

Not All Her Fancy Expected

Blanche Bates is a bright woman, and in San Francisco she knows familiarly the brightest men. Among her good friends is Dick Hotaling, who acts —and acts well—where he is not considering himself as a several-times-millionaire.

"Dick, you have a liquor business," said Miss Bates the other day. "Why don't you send me a basket of champagne?"

"In a minute," replied the amateur Shylock.

The next morning Hotaling told Appie McKinnon, who is in his employ:

"Send a basket of assorted champagnes to Miss Bates, tie the basket in green ribbons and affix my card."

McKinnon is a bit of a wag himself, so he fixed up a beautiful basket. He sent out for the finest ribbons. He directed the tribute sent to Miss Bates with Dick Hotaling's card properly displayed.

But in the basket he put the finest cabbages, turnips, artichokes and radishes that he could find in the markets.

Hotaling had to go into the country that night, and he gave McKinnon his tickets for the show. I believe Miss Bates quoted Henry Miller on the "Un-fortified town of Oakland," before, on the next morning, she received a basket of the finest vintages of "the imprisoned headache of the peasant girls of France" that could be found in our liberal market.

The Padre Didn't Care for Opera

Our southern cousins are wonders in the way of advertising. They never lose a trick. We ought to copy their methods, though at times they take on a semblance of the work of the bunco-steerer.

All of us read recently that "Natoma," the American opera by Victor Herbert and Joseph D. Redding, was to be produced on the steps of the fine old Mission at Santa Barbara.

Well, you know that sort of announcement would attract thousands of people to Santa Barbara, most picturesque of all the resorts of the south. So, you and I and all the rest of us have been left with the idea that Mary Garden and Herbert and Redding were to pull off their masterpiece on the Mission steps.

But the cold fact is that when Redding approached the Padre in charge of the Mission and asked him for permission to produce the opera on the spot where it was written for, the Padre very politely but firmly said, "No!" But you'd never hear from those wondrous Southern California advertisers that the thing is not to be.

This Padre Would Have Had It

"Say, if Parde Lacombe were in charge there would have been no question about the production of 'Natoma,'" said a member of The Family. "He would have had that staged in a way that would have made the Mission known round the world."

You know, Parde Lacombe is loved and revered by that most care-free aggregation in all San Francisco, the members of The Family. Tomorrow morning they are to be present at the cornerstone laying of the "Church in the Hills"—the little church at Portola, adjoining the Family Farm. The club gave an entertainment and over $1000 last year for the church. It is apt to give another entertainment and another purse this year. It has pledged itself to see that church through.

And all because Father Lacombe has melted himself into the club's life at its Farm. He is in the games that are played and in the frolics that are on foot. The only change is that no man says a loud or an unkind word when the Padre is around. And the club is never so happy or so free as when Father Lacombe is part of the fun.

We Want a Square Deal

A man prominently connected with one of the great theatrical companies now on the road sat at table with a lot of us in the club the other day and this is about what came along:

"How's business on the road?"

"Rotten!"

"What's the matter? You ran well in New York?"

"Oh, in New York to the greatest business ever; but on the road—nothing!"

"Why? Is it the motion picture theaters?"

"No; it's the dishonest managers. They send out three or four companies and advertise each of them as the real New York productions. The people go on that statement. They leave the theater disgusted."

"Then we come along. We have an honest show with all the people and all the costumes and scenery we had in New York. We play better than we ever did before. But we get half houses. It isn't the cheap theaters. It isn't hard times. Times are good, and the cheap theaters do not get the $2.00 people. All the trouble is with the dishonest managers who insist on trying to bunco the public—and the public in its wisdom has decided that all shows are bunco. That's the whole thing."

The Boulevard and the Big Guns

I talked with an engineer and directing force in the Panama-Pacific Exposition—and I asked him about that boulevard along the bay and ocean shore that the pessimists say we are not to have after all. He said:

"Yes, we will get that boulevard! The government will build it through the Presidio and we can take care of the rest. General Murray is doing everything possible for the fair. He is our greatest help."

"And he has a great idea. He wants to educate the people of the Middle West up to our army. So he proposes to shoot the big guns of the Presidio for their benefit—to fire them all on certain days, and sink a hulk or two towed out from Oakland estuary."

"And he has planned a parade ground where 10,000 troops can and will maneuver. That will educate our Middle Westerners—and the boulevard will be part of the education."

Danny Ryan Gives Roosevelt S. F.

Danny Ryan, attorney for the State Harbor Commissioners, and as an absorbent of State taxes under the present rule of the game, devoting his time to politics, has issued a proclamation that Roosevelt will carry San Francisco as against Taft, the best friend the city ever had.

Although this declaration is, as it should be—coming from a member of the State "Jobocracy," there are cynical people who think that the incident is not closed; that this is not final; that the people may, possibly, have something to say at the primaries to be held later this month.

As a man with experience of what the people won't do, Danny Ryan has a knowledge that should teach him how often the people, and the professional politician, differ.

Dan found himself with an association of friends, in control of the Republican municipal convention, the year Taylor was elected Mayor. That was after the Schmitz exposures.

The citizens of San Francisco demanded that partisanship be suppressed that year. Dan was willing that it should be suppressed and repressed as to every other office except that of Mayor, and insisted that he was the desired of the people. He forced his nomination, with the result that he ran third, and a very poor third.

The trouble with Ryan was that he entered the law office of the late great orator, General William H. L. Barnes. The overshadowing magnificence of the general enveloped him completely. He vowed that some day he would grow up to be a great orator. The trouble with Dan was that he never grew up at all, but was obsessed with the idea that he was an orator by right of partnership, and where-ever he entered a hall where people were seated, he delivered a speech. I say, "where people were SEATED" because early experience taught him that if they were standing they could walk out more quickly.

However, the powers of oratory should not be disparaged merely because they have not brought enjoyment to those within hearing; they have brought results.

Dan received a job on the water-front, and is now counting the votes to be cast in San Francisco for somebody else than himself. It didn't take him long to count those for himself—they were so few—but he says Roosevelt will have more.

Mayor Rolph and Engineer Manson

It is daily wearing itself into Mayor Rolph's mind that if San Francisco is to move he will have to move on some of the offices by moving the present occupants therefrom. The greatest stumbling block has been the engineer's office, occupied and dominated by that oratorical engineer, Marsden Manson, who can make more speeches about construction and do less actual constructive work than any other engineer in America. Manson has been one of the city's charges ever since the Phelan administration.

Phelan, although ambitious to leave great results through his administration, was utterly helpless because he was incapable of selecting effective public servants. His terms ended on the basis of talk, not performance.

Mayor Rolph realizes that the talking habit and the eating habit, with which San Francisco has habitually celebrated her intention of doing the things that she never accomplished, has to be changed if he is to produce net results—physical facts.

It is freely predicted by the Mayor's friends that very shortly there will be men—in the engineering office—there, for what they can do, not for what they say ought to be done.

Suggested Removal of Commission

Police Commissioners O'Grady and Spiro have put themselves "in wrong" on the Market and Fifth streets liquor permit. There has been a great outcry about the placing of additional saloons in this part of the city, but the denunciations have been largely insincere. They originated, primarily, with the merchant and capitalist who has torn down a building across the street, in which, as long as the building stood, there was a saloon, from which he received rents. This shows the inconsistency of the thing.

From the corner in question you could throw stones into a dozen saloons. Perhaps, however, it is a mistake to constitute Market street—the main thoroughfare of the city—a row of drinking palaces. However, O'Grady and Spiro voted for the saloon.

There is a city ordinance providing that "no saloon shall be permitted within one hundred and fifty feet of a school." The opponents discovered that there was a business college in the top story of the Baron building, across the street.

The business college does not occupy very much of the building, but it serves a legal purpose for the opposition. The door of the business college—a separate entrance—is beyond one hundred and fifty feet from the saloon, but measured at the street door, it comes within the limit.

"NATOMA" IS NOT TO BE AT THE OLD MISSION

Of course, there is some dispute as to whether a private business college, teaching grown-up people, comes within the meaning of a "school," according to the interpretation of the ordinance. Nevertheless, it is shocking to think that the almost grown-up people who climb the stairs, should be ruined in their morals by this saloon one hundred and thirty-eight and a half feet away, across the street. This is more shocking, when it is considered that there is a big saloon in full blast in the building itself, alongside the street door, and has been doing a big business since the building was constructed.

According to the moralists, the saloon next door—and which is virtually part of the building with the entrance to the business college—will have no immoral effect on the students who go upstairs; but the one, one hundred and thirty-eight and a half feet away, across the street, will be deadly.

The whole matter is technicality, anyway, without particular merit. But, a number of politicians, and the civic everybody desire these vacancies—some, because they want the jobs for themselves and others because they believe in moving things, anyway.

But Mayor Rolph has no desire to give a political tinge to his administration and he does not wish to have a row with the liquor trade by taking revenge on a mere technicality, and it is a question whether, on mature deliberation, he will not think it better to leave well enough alone, rather than make changes which might set issues in motion that would plague his administration at a later day.

Nearly every administration that has come into San Francisco under the "Reform" plan has come to pieces on side issues or trifling matters—a row with the liquor element or an attempted puritanical enforcement of some sumptuary regulation.

Rolph has been very lucky up to this time, and the well-wishers of the city hope that his good fortune will continue. He is sincerely trying to do the right thing.

Bar Association and the Judges

Curtis Lindley's Bar Association Committee to select Judges, appointed some weeks ago, has not yet brought forth anything, although it is said to have labored incessantly. The public has been patiently waiting for the mountain to bring forth the mouse. Although it has not seen a mouse, it has "smelled a rat."

When the committee learned that it had been appointed on the theory that it was to knock the head off of one or two incumbent Judges to make room for some favorites, and particularly, for a clerk in the office of Judge Lindley—the appointive power—the row broke out. Curtis Lindley, now Park Commissioner and a director of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company, as a personal representative of Governor Johnson, is popularly supposed to have the dual ambition of being United States Senator and also Police Commissioner, if a vacancy can be provided.

He was a politician in the old Sullivan-Dwyer convention, and did very well, by the way. He is a fine mining lawyer and made a lot of money. He is rather "out" with labor on account of his big clients and the mining business having had such disputes, but otherwise is an available citizen. He is well thought of by the public, and it seems a pity that he should have tangled himself up with this judgeship squabble, which cannot possibly be of any advantage to anybody; and after all, the public—not the Bar Association—selects the judges, as has been demonstrated on several occasions. Everybody knows that incumbency is a 50 percent advantage in a judicial field. New men stand hardly any chance whatever.

Carnegie's Bright Young Men

Charles M. Schwab's visit to the city this week recalls the fact that none of Andrew Carnegie's "bright eighteen young men" he raised to power and wealth in the steel world is now connected with Morgan's United States Steel Corporation. James A. Farrell is the latter's president. He never was associated at any time with Carnegie. Schwab was the first president of the steel trust and Carnegie's ablest pupil. W. E. Corey, who married Maybelle Gilman of this city, an actress, succeeded Schwab. James Gayley, W. B. Dickson and Alva C. Dinkey were either first or second vice-presidents of the trusts. All five, who were Carnegie proteges, are entirely out of the trust's official family. Several other of the Scotchman's pupils of former days, who were also with the trust, have quit.

A banker tells me Morgan is selecting his own lieutenants these days regardless of Mr. Carnegie. The latter is supposed to have had some power in naming high officials of the trust for some years following its formation. That right or power is said to have run out about a year ago.

Schwab is represented to be making more money than ever these days with his own steel and ship-building plants. One of his means of recreation is playing golf. It is also said that frequently when in Europe he plays roulette with great success. His lucky number at that fascinating pastime is said to be 14. He plays at Monte Carlo, where the maximum amount on every turn of the wheel is $50. As I am told, Monte Carlo never closes. Each table starts with a daily capital of 100,000 francs. When a table loses that amount it closes down for the day. In other words, when that money is gone, "the bank is broken." In that sense, Schwab is said to have broken the bank on several occasions with his lucky number 14.

How Shortridge Named Son

S. M. Shortridge, the noted lawyer, orator and Republican speaker, is justly proud of his young son, S. M. Shortridge, Jr., who already gives promise of following in his dad's professional footsteps. The initials in each case stand for Samuel Morgan. In New York and Washington on several occasions the eloquent attorney has seen fit to register his name in full, an act which has caused hotel managers to sit up and take notice and wonder how close their guest's relationship with J. Pierpont might be.

But to return to Shortridge, Jr. The father himself tells how he happened to get the name of Samuel Morgan. The lad first saw the light of day at the Palace Hotel before the fire. The father rushed down the elevator to spread the news to his friends. Among those he found was Al Murphy of the Examiner. Several bumpers of wine were drank at the bar to the health and success of the babe by a dozen or more of the friends of the orator. While this was going on Murphy quickly walked over to the office and wrote on the register of arrivals for the day the name "S. M. Shortridge, Jr." The father saw the entry on the register before retiring for the night. He was so well pleased that there and then he decided that should be the name of his son and heir.

Sweet Morsel for Spreckels

While Rudolph Spreckels is championing the presidential aspirations of La Follette and swatting Governor Johnson and Editor Rowell of Fresno for their desertion of him in favor of Roosevelt, his favorite brother, Claus A. Spreckels, is telling friends both here and in the East that he agrees with the legislative program of the Democratic majority of the House headed by Champ Clark. Spreckels particularly believes in the Democrats' free sugar bill, saying it will effect a saving of 140 millions annually to consumers, or $1.50 for every man, woman and child in the country. To offset this loss of revenue, he favors the passage of the proposed income tax. In the course of a letter to a friend on this and other subjects, he states that if he had his way the duty would come off of all foodstuffs. Because of being at the head of a big sugar refining company and entertaining the free-trade view's he does, the Clark people are making much of Spreckels these days.

Some Big Fees for Lawyers

According to gossip among San Francisco lawyers, Charles Stetson Wheeler is to get the large fee of $500,000 from Rudolph and C. A. Spreckels and their sister, Mrs. Emma Ferris of London, for the way he directed the litigation over their father's will, the validity of which was sustained some days ago by the State Supreme Court. To these three children, the amount involved in the suit means $5,000,000 in the aggregate. Wheeler, it is said, is to get 10 per cent of this amount. The will of the late Claus Spreckels was drawn in New York City. I have not heard the lawyer's name mentioned, but, as the story runs, he got $50,000 for drawing the document. It disinherited the two remaining children, John D. and A. B. Spreckels. They fought it before Probate Judge Coffey, who held it invalid. Cushing & Cushing were the attorneys who handled the case before Coffey for the former three children. Wheeler for certain reasons preferred at that time to remain in the background as counsel in the fight. Several reasons are advanced why Wheeler kept in the background, but I do not care to touch on them, save to say they do not reflect unfavorably on anybody.

Probably some other attorneys here have in their practice received just as large, or even a larger, fee. I know of only one other instance definitely. It was when the late Russell J. Wilson, acting for Timothy Hopkins, fought the Mark Hopkins-Scaries estate in the East and got a compromise. Timothy Hopkins is said to have been given $6,000,000 and Wilson's fee was $600,000. Joseph D. Redding, on behalf of the Princess Hatzfeldt of London, is said to have got a $3,000,000 compromise from the C. P. Huntington estate and his fee was 10 per cent of that. Redding and the princess were unable to show Huntington had ever legally adopted her as his daughter. Otherwise she would have got much more. She was his favored niece and she was reared in his home, but there were no adoption papers.

Millionaires Who Married Actresses

B. P. Cheney of Boston, who was visiting the city a few days ago, is one of the rich men of this country who married an actress. Mrs. Cheney is the former.

Julia Arthur and her husband is said to represent a fortune of between fifty and sixty millions. George Jay Gould, August Belmont and Frank J. Gould are probably the only other three Americans of equal wealth who took actresses as brides. Belmont married Eleanor Robson, while Mrs. George Jay Gould was the former beautiful and talented Edith Kingdon of the famous Daly company. Mrs. Frank J. Gould was Edith Kelly.

Mr. Cheney's father was one of the original founders and directors of the Santa Fe Railroad. He succeeded his father in the Santa Fe and other business interests, managing them very successfully in connection with his legal advisor and co-trustee, Richard Olney of Boston, who was the Attorney-General in the cabinet of Cleveland's last administration.

Interesting Fight for Tunnel

The fight for a tunnel towards the north end of Fillmore street in order to connect the thoroughfare with the Harbor View section, where the exposition is largely to be concentrated, presents some interesting phases.

Of course, the property owners, through their Fillmore Street Club, want to have the work done under the district assessment plan. It is estimated by engineers the tunnel will cost $2,000,000. Other improvement clubs want the tunnel on Steiner, the first street to the west of Fillmore. Their engineers say a tunnel here, because of the lay of the land, will cost but $1,000,000 and will serve every legitimate transportation purpose to be had in view by the other project. The Steiner people do not want to take the street car tracks away from Fillmore except for those few blocks necessary to deflect the through service through the tunnel. The Fillmore street people refuse to compromise.

Dr. Harland and Herbert E. Law, who own a lot of blocks at Harbor View which they have turned over to the exposition company for five years, are willing to pay their own tunnel assessment no matter which street is selected for the project. Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Jr. and her sister, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, also own a lot of Harbor View blocks, which they have turned over to the exposition company for five years. Regarding a tunnel assessment on Fillmore street, they have just sent word from the East they are willing to pay 60 per cent, the exposition people to stand the other 40. The Fillmore Street Club spent $1500 sending two men East to get this agreement from the two women. It appears that the two delegates had a hard time getting an audience with Mrs. Vanderbilt until a member of the cloth intervened on their behalf.

High Priced Tea Tasters

One of the last Pacific Mail liners for Japan and China from this port carried among its passengers twenty men, drawing large salaries, whose business it is to taste and otherwise sample and to buy for American and European consumption each new tea crop of the Chinese and Japanese. This year's crop is now being gathered and is said, especially in Japan, to be the largest for ten or twelve years past. Sir Thomas Lipton, the titled British tea dealer, had several tasters among this score of passengers. These men, who come from a dozen large centers of trade, are said to rarely drink anything but tea year in and year out, their remuneration depending as much upon their sure taste as well as upon a high order of business ability. Their purchases run into the millions every year.

Makes Rapid-fire Comments

He's a wag and a wit. She is verging near the end of the twenties. Both of their positions in society are splendid. A great friend of the lady and the members of her family is he; but somewhat passe and with hardly enough of an income to keep his own social head afloat, he is not considered just the desirable thing as an eligible. He can make rapid-fire comments which no one else would dare to do. He had called to take her to a dinner party. His evening clothes had been sponged with gasoline and then pressed. Somewhat inclined to stoutness is she, regardless of regular exercise and much of it. As they went down the steps to the carriage he smelt the gasoline on collar and lapel of his coat and called her attention to it. Assisting her down the steps, he noticed her low V-shape in the back and her general decided décolleté. He couldn't resist to remark:

"Well, you're the sight and I'm the smell. That's a combination hard to beat."

Policeman Did Not Know Farley

Since John Farley sold out the Cliff House to Roy Carruthers, Sam Rucker, "Big Bill" Lange and their coterie, the police on horseback and the dwellers along the ocean highway have missed one of their familiar sights during rainy mornings. Farley, who was in Virginia City in the heyday of bonanza times and is still mentally fresh to talk interestingly of those absorbing days, believes in the daily morning cold tub. But that is not the thing he credits for his freshness of skin and agile movements.

"Get the rain from the clouds direct on your skin. Get soaked with rain out in the open, my boy. That's the cure of nature for advancing age and whatnot."

So Farley was wont during the past two years while at the Cliff House to jog along the boulevard hatless and without coat or vest many mornings when it would rain. The dwellers at the beach, when first they saw the partly clad, ruddy-faced and silver-haired man out in the storming elements, thought him demented. One morning a new policeman astride his horse and with the rain coming down hard, caught sight of the running man exposed to the elements. Catching up with him, he remarked half curiously, but with ready gun:

"Where are you from?"

"The Cliff House."

"Did anybody chase you out?"

"Not by a jugful."

"What did you do that you didn't have time to get all your clothes off?"

"I'm John Farley. What's getting into you?"

"The h— you say!"

"Yes, my boy. There's nothing like getting rain-soaked for your health."

The new officer made a report that day to his superiors about Farley and his rain bath. They knew what the new guardian of the peace had seen for the first time and chuckled.

St. Cloud's Country Club

One of the reasons the Francis J. Carolans are returning to Paris this spring for an extended visit is the fact that Mr. Carolan is a member of the new St. Cloud's Country Club, the first of its kind in France, which is shortly to have its formal opening. Prince Poniatowski, formerly of this city, is one of the leading spirits in the project. William H. Crocker, the local banker and a brother-in-law of Poniatowski, also has an interest in the institution and is expected to be present at the opening. The scheme, so the story runs, is costing about $250,000 and a tract of 150 acres near Paris overlooking the valley of the Seine is being devoted to it. Golf and tennis are to be the main attractions, but there will also be croquet, polo and a swimming pool on a most pretentious and elegant scale. Squash courts are to be built later and it is also intended to arrange for winter sports. Skating will be provided in frosty weather by flooding some of the club's low-lying fields. It will have an exclusive membership from among prominent French, American, Italian and English families. J. Pierpont Morgan is credited with being one of the club's original backers. It is said that it was through Morgan that Carolan, Crocker and Prince Poniatowski got interested in it. Baron Henri de Rothschild and the Duke of Vallombrosa are said to have originally enlisted Morgan's support in the project.

Hays Believed in Exercises

Charles M. Hays, one of the distinguished passengers who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, was a familiar, rugged and active pedestrian in Golden Gate Park back in 1901 while occupying the presidency of the Southern Pacific Company. A prodigious worker, Hays realized that he could not keep up his business stride and attain his ambitions, which were large and commendable, unless he exercised much and with regularity. As was the case with the late President Benjamin Harrison, he found walking his best exercise both for health and pleasure. And so day after day, until he moved to a home at Menlo Park, Hays, with swinging gait, walked much in the park and along the beach. A San Francisco friend of the late Grand Trunk railroad president said last evening that it is less than a year ago at a dinner at the Canadian Club in Montreal that Sir Wilfred Laurier, then premier of Canada, said of Hays:

"He is beyond question the greatest railway genius in Canada. As an executive genius he rates second only to the late Edward H. Harriman."

Sir Charles Rivers Wilson and the Speyers, New York and London bankers, first took Hays from the Wabash road in St. Louis and placed him in charge of the Grand Trunk at Montreal. It was the Speyers who sent him here as president of the Southern Pacific on the death of C. P. Huntington. He resigned when Harriman and the Union Pacific obtained control of the Southern Pacific and broke the influence of the Speyers in the latter company. The Speyers then placed him back on the Grand Trunk with greatly increased powers. He met his death while engaged in extending the Grand Trunk system to Pacific Coast tidewater at Prince Rupert, B. C., and planning an entrance into Boston against formidable opposition.

No World View of Things

The attractive and talented Countess Louise de Ferree of Paris is amazed that her smoking of cigarettes in public here should cause so much comment, newspaper and otherwise, and is provoked into saying, with a stamp of her dainty footwear:

"What provincialism! No world-view of things!"

Like the Russian countess, who is the wife of the consul-general of Russia at this port, she has given us up as wholly lost to anything but the narrow point of view. What may be worse for us is the fact that the French woman of title is a writer of merit, a contributor to continental magazines and newspapers. Harboring a sweet revenge, she may lambast local environment and those prophesying it one of these days when they little expect it. The Countess de Ferree recently purchased for herself and young son a ranch near Petaluma. She has grown fond of her life on the ranch. In traveling back and forth between it and the Palace Hotel in her auto she frequently smokes, to the amazement of both city and country folk. The open-mouthed staring and the comments about her devotion to My Lady Nicotine are what have made her for the time being at least more than petulant. That is the only fault she has found up to date with this part of the world. Compared with it, she thinks the persistency and wonderful tales of the California country land broker a pleasurable experience.

Dick Dey's Costly Bed

Mention was made in The Knave several Sundays ago about Richard V. Dey of this city, who is suing the estate of a French countess, a former American, in New York for $13,000 claimed as money advanced her by him during several years before her death. "Dick," as his friends call him, was, years ago, deep in the councils of the Fairs and John W. Mackay. Always a confirmed bachelor, Dey some thirty years ago had plenty of money, spent it freely and lived like a prince. In those days he was considered by his friends to have the costliest bed in the town. His bachelor apartments were upstairs near the corner of Sacramento and Montgomery streets and consisted of a suite of four rooms. Two faithful Chinamen lorded it over the place, and, as is the case with most Chinese servants, they were the most loyal of henchmen. Many outsiders tried to bribe them to get a glimpse of the bedstead and its furnishings, but to no purpose. Nobody saw this expensive as well as necessary piece of furniture save those invited by the owner to his apartments. It must have been a dream, for the pillows and the bed clothing consisted in great part of the finest silks. The bedstead itself is said to have been a beautiful combination of mahogany and silver. One of the servants became demented one afternoon and killed himself in the bed. Dey never entered the place again, and a few days later a furniture auctioneer bought most of the contents of this finely appointed bachelor rendezvous for a song.

JAPANESE MEMBER JOINS EXCHANGE

A. Yamada, Export Buyer, the First Oriental to Be in the Body.

NEW YORK, May 4.—A. Yamada, a buyer for the Japanese export trade, is the first Japanese ever elected to membership in the New York Cotton Exchange. There has been an increasing number of Japanese cotton buyers appearing in the cotton markets of the South in recent years, but until recently the Japanese merchants have never thought it worth while to obtain membership in the country's largest contract market.

Japan's cotton spinning industry has been making rapid strides in the last few years and she is competing sharply in the markets of the Far East with European and American manufacturers. Japan and China have so far this year taken 446,000 bales of American cotton, compared with 147,000 bales last year.

REPLACE EXERCISES WITH A MEMORIAL

NEW YORK, May 4.—Some of the annual commencement exercises at the union theological seminary will be canceled this year and replaced by memorial services for Professor George William Knox Smith, who died in Seoul, Korea, last week. Smith was professor of philosophy and history of religions, and went to the Orient last fall as Union seminary lecturer to the Far East. He was popular with the students.

DONS UNIFORM ONCE YEARLY

Police Commissioner Must Be Bluecoat One Day of the Year.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Deputy Police Commissioner James Dillon, who holds down one of the choicest jobs in the gift of the New York city government, will resign his position next Monday morning and don the blue uniform of an ordinary policeman for a day. On Tuesday morning he will be reappointed and will discard the uniform for another year.

The odd situation is brought about by the exigencies of the New York civil service laws, which provide that leave of absence may be granted for not more than a year to one whose position is governed by civil service. Dillon before his appointment as deputy commissioner was a police inspector, and was granted leave of absence to accept the higher office.

GOOD APRICOT CROP EXPECTED IN STATE

MOUNTAIN VIEW, May 4.—The prospects are good for an abundant crop of apricots, but prunes are to be rather light, which will be all the better for the orchards, as it is a comparatively dry year and a heavy yield would be a severe strain on the trees. Prices for all kinds of fruits will run high this year. Already there are reports of offers of 5 cents and 6 cents a box for prunes.

EMILIO GOMEZ IS MEXICO PRESIDENT

Named Provisional Head of Country by Rebel Leader, General Orozco.

JUAREZ, Mexico, May 4.—Emilio Vasquez Gomez assumed today the provisional Presidency of Mexico. Gomez arrived in El Paso last night and crossed to Juarez today shortly before noon.

At 1 o'clock he made the announcement that he had accepted the provisional presidency of Mexico, tendered him in the name of the revolution of Pascual Orozco.

When Gomez reached Juarez he was met at the international bridge by a delegation and escorted to the custom house, which Madero made the provisional capital after the fall of Juarez, May 1, a year ago. It was declared that he came here in response to a telegram from Orozco. A message signed by General Orozco, confirming him as provisional president, was exhibited by Gomez.

MINISTERS NAMED.

Colonel Pascual Orozco, father of General Orozco, was announced as minister of war in the new cabinet.

Morro Canton of Yucatan was named minister of foreign relations.

It was said other cabinet appointments would be made later today.

Gomez announced that General Orozco had invited him to come to Chihuahua and establish his provisional capital, but he would not decide for a few days whether Juarez or Chihuahua would be the capital.

HEAVY FRUIT CROP IS EXPECTED IN TULARE

TULARE, May 4.—The fruit outlook in this territory is for one of the heaviest crops in years. This is the statement of Frank A. Gobin, manager of the local cannery, who has just made a canvass of the situation. The peach crop, which it was feared would show a material falling off on account of the rains in the blossoming season, is not damaged at all, according to Gobin, but is heavy and equal to the best years in the history of the county.

Importance of the Dublin Canyon Road.

The completion of the road through Dublin Canyon, which will be sometime this summer, Oakland will give a graded macadamized road to Stockton, along the most direct route. Last winter Alameda county built a splendid highway over the Altamont divide to connect with the oil macadam road built from Stockton to the Alameda line by San Joaquin county. There is a fine roadway to the entrance of Dublin Canyon, but the old stage road thence to Hayward has been in bad repair for several years—in such bad condition, in fact, that heavy teaming over it was impossible.

The washouts of several years ago completely wrecked the road through Niles Canyon, never a very good one, and it has since been impassable to heavy traffic, besides, the Niles Canyon road is twelve miles longer than the Dublin Canyon route. There is a good road via Mission San Jose, but it reaches Livermore by a long detour. The highway now being built through Dublin Canyon connects with the Foothill Boulevard at Hayward, and gives the farmers of Southern Contra Costa a direct road over an easy grade into Oakland, something they have long desired. Hence the new road will open up a valuable trade territory for Oakland merchants.

The road through Livermore valley via Dublin Canyon is destined to be the great automobile route between San Francisco bay and the San Joaquin valley. It is not only the shortest route, but the road will be superior to any other, and it traverses a fertile, productive region, rich in picturesque beauty. No doubt it will be selected as a State highway, because it will enable the inhabitants of the San Joaquin valley to reach Oakland and San Francisco by the shortest and most direct route over an easy grade, abounding in wayside accommodations and the conveniences of travel.

The next large road building enterprise this county undertakes should be the construction of a macadamized highway from Niles to Pleasanton through the Niles Canyon. Such a road is needed, and would contribute to the prosperity of the county and the conveniences of travel. It would relieve the Dublin Canyon road from congestion and afford a fine alternate route for motorists passing through the county. It is an avenue of approach to the Livermore valley that should not be neglected. If the road over Altamont Pass is designated as a State highway, a road through Niles Canyon will be a necessary complement to it, since it will give motorists from San Francisco who pass around the bay a short cut into the Livermore valley and connection with the road to Stockton. The highway system of Alameda county will not be complete until a first-class road is built through Niles Canyon.

Since the recall election in Berkeley some of Mayor Stitt Wilson's enthusiastic friends are proposing to run him for President on the Socialist ticket. If they do anything of that kind they had better abolish or amend the Federal Constitution before they nominate him. If Stitt Wilson were elected he could not serve. Only native-born citizens are eligible to the Presidency. Stitt Wilson was born in England.

La Follette on Roosevelt's First Record.

La Follette made a good point against Roosevelt when he pointed out that the suits to dissolve the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trusts were begun while the Colonel was President, about the time Roosevelt ordered suspension of the proceedings to dissolve the Harvester Trust, and that Roosevelt now condemns Taft for prosecuting to a successful conclusion the suits Attorney-General Bonaparte instituted by his order. George W. Perkins told Commissioner Smith that the Standard Oil people were giving him the laugh because proceedings were about to be brought to dissolve the Harvester Trust, with the result that Attorney-General Bonaparte was ordered to bring suit against the Standard Oil Company and suspend proceedings against the International Harvester Company. That was in 1907. In 1906, the year previous, Burdette D. Townsend, specially appointed to investigate the trusts, reported that the International Harvester Company was a trust monopoly in restraint of trade. Here is an extract from his report:

"The Harvester Trust's business has been increased until today it controls about 90 per cent of the total business, and thus a single institution has acquired a substantial monopoly. George W. Perkins conducted the negotiations and devised and executed the plan finally agreed upon. The Rockefellers and McCormicks own a majority of the capital stock."

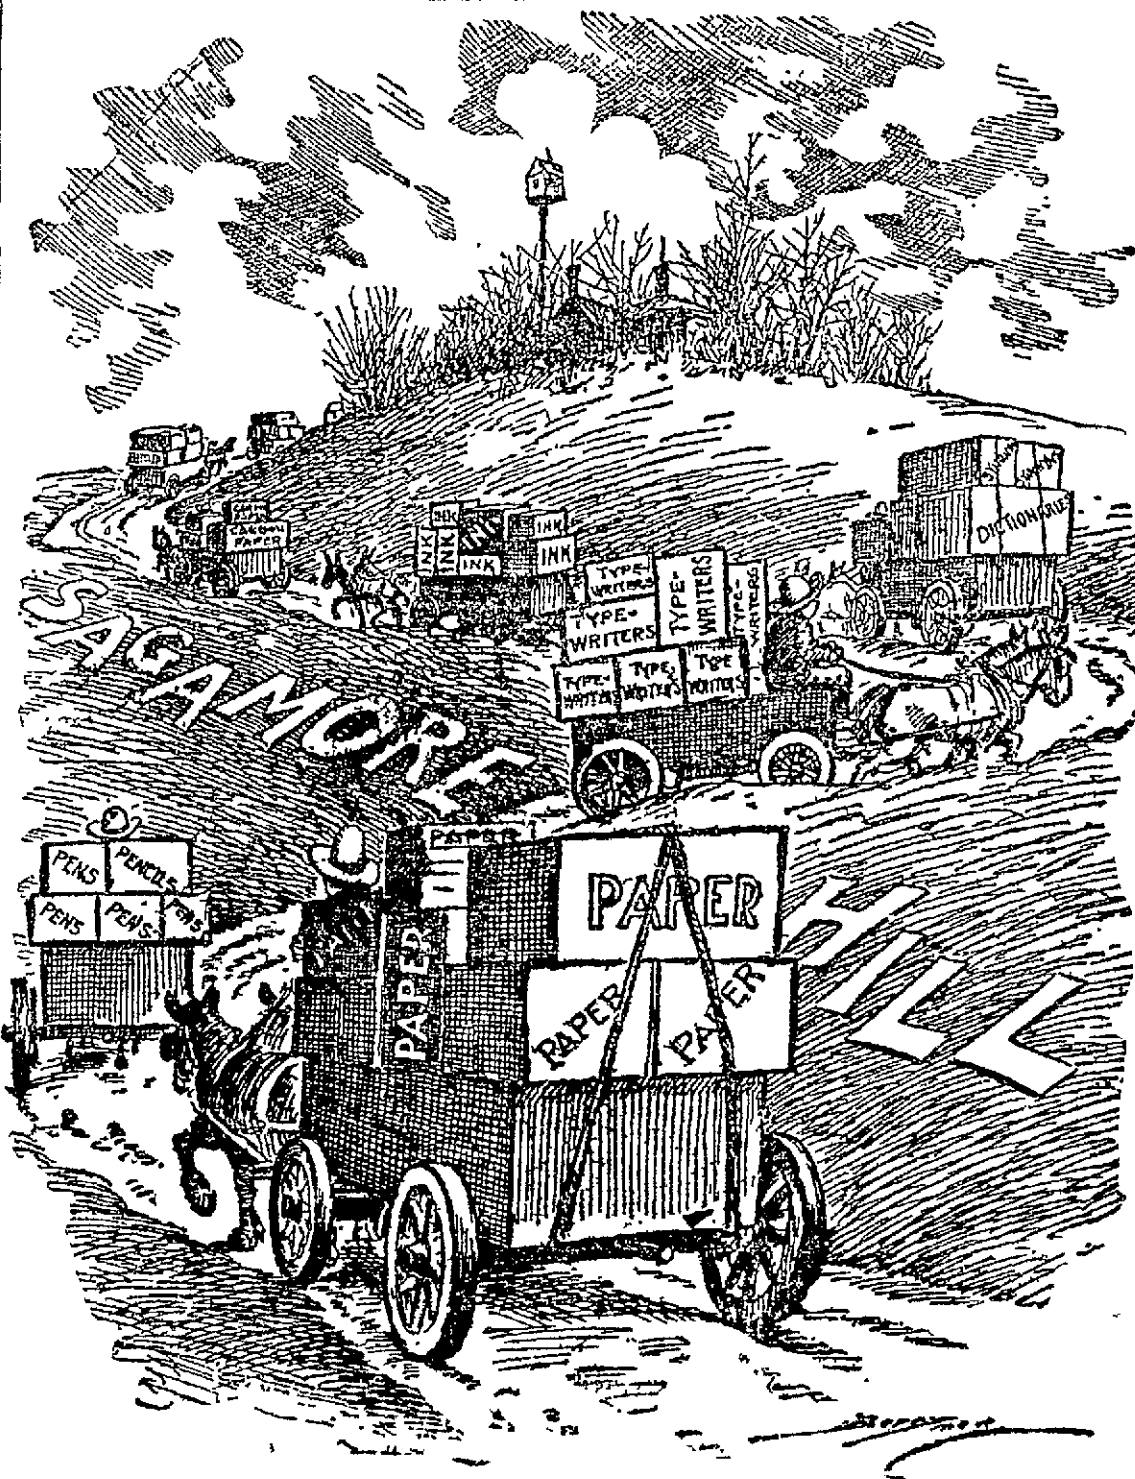

"The most effective weapons employed by the Harvester Trust are of the invisible kind. It is directly allied with that group of Standard Oil financial and commercial aggregations commonly called the Steel Trust, the Coal Trust, the Railroad Trust, the Banking Trust, etc. Rebates, prices of raw material, extension or refusal of banking credit, can all be manipulated with a discriminating favor which is murderous to the competitors of the International Harvester Company."

Townsend's report was suppressed. Notwithstanding the information he supplied the Attorney-General and the Bureau of Corporations, the contemplated suit to dissolve the Harvester Trust was suspended at the direct instance of President Roosevelt. Is it surprising that George W. Perkins, chairman of the board of directors of the Harvester Trust, is now actively supporting Roosevelt and contributing large sums to his campaign fund? Perkins represents the Morgan group of trusts. In his letter to President Roosevelt in 1907, Commissioner Smith said Perkins threatened that the Morgan interests would fight the administration if the Harvester Trust was prosecuted. The Morgan interests contributed huge sums to Roosevelt's campaign fund in 1904. The facts speak for themselves.

Except in the irrigated districts the hay, grain and fruit crops will be very light this year—in some sections almost a total failure. The situation is ideal for the farmers who have their fields and orchards under irrigation. They are not only sure of a crop, but certain of a ready market and high prices for their products. A more convincing argument in favor of irrigation could not be adduced than the conditions now existing in this State.

Oakland's ancient landmarks are rapidly disappearing through the demolition of the more imposing old-time wooden frame structures to make room for permanent buildings of a modern type and constructed of imperishable materials. The last vestige of the First Methodist Episcopal Church has been removed. The First Presbyterian Church, which has the tallest steeple of any edifice in Oakland, will soon be torn down also, to make way for a substantial business block; and the city hall, which has housed the municipal departments and records for over a quarter of a century, will be razed for the extension of Washington street from Fourteenth street to San Pablo avenue and permit access to the main entrance to the new city hall now in course of construction.

The May Festival celebrated at Lakeside Park under the auspices of the Playground Commission riveted public attention (particularly of visitors) on two local features of special interest—namely, Oakland's incomparable climate and the beauty of the more recently acquired public parks, surrounding the Lake Merritt water park, as they are being improved under the intelligent administration of the park directors.

The weekly record of Oakland's building permits shows that approximately a million dollars per month is being spent here in building improvements. The indications at present point strongly to a great increase in the near future in the amount invested in such improvements. Preparations are being made to start shortly many new business blocks of a costly character.

The cities and counties of California lose another source of revenue to swell their tax collections through the ruling of the State Board of Equalization, that stage and steamer lines operated in connection with railroad lines come under the new law subjecting them to taxation by the State only under the operative company provision, fixing the rate at 4 per cent on the gross receipts of the companies.

The Georgia farmers swatted Dr. Wilson and plunked for Champ Clark. Your old-fashioned Democrat never had much use for a schoolmaster, anyhow.

Larger Ocean Liners

The loss of the largest liner ever built is not at all likely to put a damper on the spirit of rivalry that takes small note of life or money in the mad race for bigness and business. The Titanic's reign as the queen of the deep would have been of brief duration in any event. Determined to outdo their English competitors, the German companies have contracted for two mammoth vessels for the Atlantic trade, one 4,000 tons bigger than the Titanic, and the other 8,000 tons, or four times as large as the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, ten years ago one of the largest and speediest greyhounds in the service. In addition to being the most splendidly appointed ship ever fitted out and as laying claim to the distinction of being "the last word in ocean luxury," the new champion, its designers claim, will be the speediest of her class. The modern liners bowl along at express train speed now, but under stress of the heavy weather that impedes their passage westward, the rate of speed perforce is reduced and the time schedule disarranged to the loss and dismay of the ownership. The elimination of this drawback lies in greater steadiness and augmented horsepower, factors which the large type of vessel is expected to supply. But withal, if the precautions which good seamanship appeals for are not observed—if the lesson of the Titanic is lost upon the powers that be—the future would seem to hold out no prospect of better guarantees for the safety of life and property.

While the storm peril has been largely overcome by means of stancher construction and increased propelling power, there remain two potent causes of disaster. These things which baffle the science of the designer, can take no account of human error that has much to do in shaping destiny. Washington Post

AFTER THE FRENCH HEEL

The Southern Shoe Retailers Association is after the high heel, which is to say that the Southern gentlemen who sell feminine footwear have the audacity to think they can make the French heel unpopular among their women patrons by force and fiat. The plan which the Southern shoe man have in mind, as we understand it is to place their orders for low-heeled shoes, and thereby be in a position to say to their fair and amiable patrons "It is the fat heel or nothing," with the expectation that a little experience with the old-fashioned sensible style of footwear will do the rest.

While the announcement of this experiment may be received with skepticism so far as results are concerned, it would nevertheless be watched with interest because of its novelty and the rather hazardous nature of the undertaking, so far as the shoe dealers are concerned. Since the days of Bourbonism in France, since the glory of the court of the last

Louis, French heels have not only made their way in the world, but they have established themselves with a stability altogether incongruous, as one considers how difficult it is to pose and to walk on inverted pyramids. The slimmer and the more wobbly the heel the better the women have liked it—by whom we mean, of course, the women on whose patronage the fashion of the heel is determined and changed. We fancy there are as many of those in the Southland as elsewhere, in proportion to the population, and that to undertake any strong-arm change of style will create a new sort of rebellion in Dixie.

The best way in any section or any country to depopularize the French heel is to cultivate, among young girls and women the art and exercise of walking. French heels were not made for that; and as women really learn to walk the high heel is bound to disappear.—Portland Telegram

NEW ENGLANDERS TO HOLD MEETING

Novel Features Planned by the Easterners Now in This State.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—At the Fairmount hotel, tomorrow evening, the New England association will hold a meeting which promises to be both unique and interesting because there will be revived the "Old Town Hall Forum," a notable feature of New England history. A number of spirited debates have been arranged for the evening's entertainment, as well as an excellent musical program. Mayor Ralph is scheduled to say a few words about the part which New Englanders have played in the upbuilding of the West.

Bradford Leavitt, pastor of the First Unitarian church, will preside and will read the new constitution of the association, which has been framed to insure a purely social organization, by exempting individual members from any financial liabilities of the association.

Ralph Hathorne, recent candidate for the district attorneyship, will be another of the evening's speakers as well as Henry Lyander Corson, a prominent Knight Templar. Laura Truby Fowler, the veteran educator, will talk on the "Old Town Hall" debates of New England and some of the famous men and women who figured in them.

Carrie Crane will sing and Miss Novilla Allard, the eighteen-year-old soprano and composer, will render one of her own compositions. A number of other speakers and musicians take part in the program.

The Monday night meetings of the association will be a regular feature, alternating between the Fairmount and the Palace hotels. A part of the propaganda will be weekly bulletins to the newspapers of New England, telling of the association's doings, extolling the advantages of California, and urging people in that section to make their home here.

In addition to the local weekly meetings, there will be similar social events in Oakland every Wednesday evening in the assembly hall or the new Chamber of Commerce at Thirteenth and Harrison streets.

$28,000 Worth of Teeth

The value of a sound tooth is beyond computation.

"Particularly is this true if the owner of the tooth be in the prime of life or young. If the owner were called upon as a juror to estimate the value of sound teeth he would place the valuation at no less than $100,000 per tooth, except the wisdom teeth, which are seldom normally developed. Thus, eliminating the four wisdom teeth, the individual blessed with a perfect upper and lower set of fourteen teeth each carries around in his oral cavity about $28,000 worth of enamel and dentine."—Gordon Lloyd, M. D.

If you owned a building worth $28,000, or even $8000, you would take mighty good care of it so that it would not depreciate in value. You wouldn't wait until it was beyond repair before you started in to fix it up. You know very well that you would lose money if you didn't keep it in good condition.

Now, why don't you take the same interest in your teeth? Surely they are worth it, since their value cannot be estimated in dollars and cents.

The thing that causes a great many people to neglect their teeth is the dread of pain. If that is the trouble in your case, then by all means come to me and let me show you how I execute all work on the teeth without causing the least bit of pain or discomfort.

My new discovery, Terrythesia, has banished the tortures of the dental chair forever. It enables me to prepare, fill, crown, treat, regulate and extract teeth with complete freedom from pain. Terrythesia is a wonderful liquid, which deadens the nerve in a sensitive tooth so that the patient does not feel even a twinge of pain while the tooth is being treated. My preparation contains no cocaine or other poisons. It is absolutely harmless, and acts the same in every instance. It does not irritate the gums, nor does it injure the teeth.

The term "painless dentistry" is as old as the dental profession itself, but I am the first and only dentist in the world who has actually succeeded in making all operations in dentistry positively painless.

No matter how skeptical you may be, I am ready to prove to you that I do what I claim. Read this letter from a patient who has been convinced:

San Francisco, Dec. 11, 1911.

Dear Dr. Terry:
The work you did on my teeth is the most satisfactory I have ever had done. I have some more work to be done soon, I believe, and, to the credit of your process, I must say that I have no unpleasant anticipations whatever. In fact, my previous visits to your office for treatment were rather pleasant and restful—something that the old lady's startling vision of church—"A nice place to sit down." Trusting that many others will be as fortunate as I in finding you, I am, yours very truly,

MRS. L. H. HANSEN.

1167 Stanyan street.
A few years ago when I first announced the discovery of my famous Rex Alveolar Method of restoring teeth, many people nearly everybody thought I was advertising something impossible. However, I made good, and a few thousands of partial plate wearers and almost toothless persons are today enjoying the benefits of Alveolar teeth.

I am doing more Alveolar work at the present time than ever before. People who have had Rex Alveolar teeth in their mouths four and five years do not experience the least difficulty in sending me lots of customers.

If you have two or more natural teeth in either jaw don't try to do with old-fashioned plates or bridge work. Let me replace your missing teeth by my Alveolar System, so that eating will be a pleasure and not a pain. Alveolar teeth are just as serviceable as real teeth. They look as well and feel as comfortable as if they had grown in the jaws. Terrythesia renders this work thoroughly painless in every respect, and it does not require much of your time to have it done.

Please remember that I guarantee my work to give satisfaction. I've got to please you if I hold your patronage, and that is what I want to do.

Call and investigate my methods. You cannot call soon, send for my free book, which tells you of my Terrythesia and Alveolar methods.

Hours—5:30 to 5:30, Sundays, 10 to 12.

THEOSOPHISTS MAY MAKE HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTH

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—American headquarters of the Theosophical Society are to be established in Los Angeles, according to an announcement made here.

A. P. Warrington, local chairman of the committee in charge of the society's affairs, stated that a tract of 11 acres in the hills back of Hollywood had been purchased, and upon this land would be established the headquarters buildings, together with a theosophical university, which will be under the direction of Dr. Knudsen-Ernest. Fritz Kutz will be in charge of the "Order of the Star of the East."

It was stated all plans for the establishment of the American headquarters had been approved by Annie Besant, head of the society, who lives in Adyar, a suburb of Madras, India. Warrington said his society had no connection whatever with the one in Point Loma managed by Mrs. Katherine Lingey.

Police Search Over Country For F. O. Beach

MRS. FREDERICK O. BEACH.

AIKEN, S. C., May 4.—A warrant has been issued at Aiken for the arrest of Frederick O. Beach, for the attempt to kill his wife, Mrs. Carmilla Beach.

The local police are sending out the same kind of country-wide alarm for Beach, who is a chum of William K. Vanderbilt, and an intimate friend of the leaders of Gotham's "400," as they would for a mere ordinary sort of person as badly "wanted."

There was a diamond-studded penknife found near the scene of the attack supposed to belong to Beach, which has helped to lay the crime at his door.

Mrs. Beach was the widow of Charles Havemeyer who was found dead in his residence at Roslyn, L. I., when she married Beach. There was no evidence to show that Havemeyer's death was not accidental, as he clutched a revolver in his hand when found, it is said. Mrs. Havemeyer was left an income of $100,000 and resumed her place in society after a period of mourning, and was known as "The most beautiful widow in New York's '400.'"

NEW TRUNK LINE OPENS BIG VALLEY

Owens River Region to Be the Apple and Farming
District.

BISHOP, May 4.—The Central Pacific Railroad Company, or Harriman system, recently absorbed a number of branch lines, among which was the Nevada-California line, that extends from Hazen, Nevada, on the Southern Pacific, south to Mojave in this state, by way of Mount Whitney and Tonopah Junction.

Between Mount Whitney and Tonopah Junction the road is still narrow gauge, but will shortly be broadgauge, completing the new transcontinental line over the Southern Pacific system from Los Angeles north to Hazen and east of the Sierra Nevada mountains are through Owens River valley.

This new road will ultimately form a part of a system extending from Los Angeles north to Portland by a shorter route than the present coast line division. This new division has been termed the "Orange Belt Route," and forms one of the shortest lines between Los Angeles and Chicago and will greatly facilitate the horticultural trade from the Owens River valley. The great benefit that the Owens River valley would derive from being on this new short line transcontinental route can hardly be estimated. In this wonderful agricultural empire heretofore isolated and apart from the outside world, a complete change is taking place, from alfalfa and corn raising on a limited scale and cattle and sheep grazing as its chief industry.

THREW MAN DOWN STAIRS; THAT WAS ALL

SAN DIEGO, May 4.—"I didn't do anything," I simply took Harry Goldberg by the seat of the trousers and threw him down stairs," said George Husband, proprietor of an apartment house at Second and Ivy streets, when brought to police headquarters by Detectives Lopez and Carre.

The trouble started between Husband and Goldberg, the latter one of his tenants, over a bill for electric lights, it is claimed. Goldberg insisting that the landlord should pay it, while the latter said Goldberg, under the terms of rental, should pay for his own lights. Arguments waxed warm and culminated in Goldberg's being thrown down stairs. The latter then called the police.

A charge of battery was placed against Husband and he was released on $25 cash bail. The case will be heard in the police court.

PLAN EXPERIMENTS WITH ALLIGATOR PEAR

PORTERVILLE, May 4.—Several citrus growers of this district are to experiment this year with the avocado or alligator pear and, if the fruit proves to be a success, they may decide to put out commercial orchards of them. As the trees cost about $4 each, the experimenting that is doing will necessarily be on a small scale.

CENTENARY CHURCH SERVICES.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—At the Centenary Southern Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. J. W. Horn, will preach tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. His subject will be "If Christ Were Divine, Why Did He Submit to Death on the Cross?" At 8 p. m., "The Handwriting on the Wall" will be the subject of his discourse.

I Asked The Judge:

"What is the cause of the ever-increasing number of divorces?"
He answered, "Too many men, and women, too, seek their pastimes and pleasures outside of their own homes. If something could be done to make their own firesides more interesting, more pleasure-giving, there would be fewer domestic failures."

He might have added that music in the home would be a big influence for good. The BUNGALOW PLAYER-PIANO insures the happiness and contentment of every home from the day it's installed. There is no real home without music.

The BUNGALOW PLAYER-PIANO has every essential advantage of the more expensive players.

And we will take your "never-played" piano in exchange at a liberal price.

THE BUNGALOW PLAYER-PIANO plays the full scale, 88 notes—plays all "standard" music rolls—full, round, rich, mellow tone—selected materials—best workmanship—automatic guiding device—melody soloist—every valuable improvement—free library of music rolls.

HORSES BEAT AUTO ENGINE TO FIRES

CHICO, May 4.—Ned Tuck, pioneer driver of the Chico steam fire engine, is a much respected man. He had desired the appointment as driver of Chico's new auto chemical fire engine, but did not land the job, because the City Dads thought that he was too valuable a man to take from his present position.

At a recent fire in Chinatown the fact developed that for the thirtieth time since the purchase of the auto chemical, Tuck has been at the scene of the fire with his engine before the auto chemical. The trouble with the chemical's speed is stated to be that the driver is too cautious and does not throw the clutch over into the high. Tuck takes everything on the run with his gray team and engine, and hence he has been beating the auto to the blazes.

ALAMEDA

BOND ELECTION HELPS ALAMEDA

Outlook for Future Development in Encinal City Is Encouraging.

ALAMEDA, April 4.—With the bond election out of the way and the improvement of the electric light plant assured, property owners and real estate brokers are daily becoming more encouraged over the prosperous outlook for the immediate future of Alameda real estate.

A good many citizens voted for the bonds as a pledge of business confidence and than from personal choice. They argued that with the exposition year drawing near and signs showing more plainly than ever that a new era is opening in Alameda, the bonds should be carried for the favorable effect such an action might have on other projects of still greater importance to Alameda.

The victory of the electric light bond proposition means undoubtedly that the plant will be moved from the south end of Park street to the corporation yard at the north end of Grand street, fronting on Oakland harbor. The moving of the plant will mean the removal of the elements in the near future. One will be the building of a municipal wharf for city and private business at the corporation yard as fuel for the light plant will be delivered direct by oil barges. The saving in cost of fuel delivery will quickly result in a reduction in the cost of electric lights for private lighting.

TO ABOLISH RESERVOIR.

The oil reservoir in Jackson park the cause of much complaint from nearby residents, will be done away with, as will the receiving oil reservoir at the light plant which is now occupying a portion of the site which is to be opened as soon as possible. The stir over these municipal matters will probably cause some decisive action in the Encinal avenue widening proposition.

A. Akesson has commenced construction of a handsome home at 2454 Santa Clara street. No new residence will be one of the finest on this avenue of many attractive homes.

The Moose building fund is growing steadily and a definite choice as to the site will probably be made this month. The lodge is figuring on one site approximating $5,000 in cost, in the heart of the Park street business district.

IN SACRAMENTO VALLEY

MARTINEZ, May 4.—Articles of incorporation of the Sacramento Valley railroad have been filed, the concern being incorporated for $5,000,000. The directors of the road are: Charles L. Donohoe, Willows; H. W. Manor, Willows; E. L. Sisson, Red Bluff; L. P. Klemmer, Willows, and J. Reth Jr., Willows. It will be built to connect with the electric road now being built on the north shore of the Sacramento river and will extend up to Sacramento and on to Red Bluff, the northern terminal.

NAVY YARD NOTES

MARE ISLAND, May 4.—The old frigate Pennsco, which was recently sold at auction to the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, is to be beached at Hunters Point in the lower bay where it will be burned.

The upper part of the vessel has been stripped of all their valuable parts and the burning is being done to secure the valuable parts and to make the vessel unrecognizable together. This mode is considered to save much expense which might be incurred if it were burned in the water.

The gunboat Yorktown is expected to arrive at the local yard next week from the canal zone and upon its arrival at this station the vessel will be placed out of commission.

It is expected that the ship will be ordered sold by the permanent officials.

Yesterday a new order was issued by the Hill division at the navy yard for the construction of five sail boats and two cutters.

Passed Assistant Paymaster E. W. Shumate, U. S. N., has been ordered to fill the vacancy on the cruiser California caused by the detachment of J. S. Beecher. The last-named officer has been ordered to this and is expected to arrive at the latter part of this month.

Yesterday it was stated at the navy yard that the cruiser Maryland, following its repairs this summer, will undergo a number of coast tests. The cruiser will first be tested with fuel taken from mines in the state of Washington. Gunner Joel Evans and wife were visitors in San Francisco yesterday. Yesterday morning a large supply of stores were shipped from the local yard to Cavite. The shipment will leave San Francisco tomorrow.

TURNED VESSEL CAUSES ANXIETY ALONG COAST

-Derelict Sighted at Sea by Skippers Is Not Yet identified.

SEAMEN UMATILLA HAS ROUGH PASSAGE

Launch Being Built at the Cryer Yards; Shipping News.

The skipper of the schooner Fortuna brought in with him the report of a derelict schooner floating off the lower coast, shipping concerns anxiously awaiting news of their missing vessel. According to the reports of the skippers who have sighted the derelict, it appeared to be a vessel of the three-masted class. As there are many number of such craft plying on the coast, it is difficult to identify the vessel. It is believed that it will be some time before it can be ascertained for a fact who the mysterious derelict is. When the derelict was sighted, it was reported to have been sighted while off St. George's reef the boom of a schooner appeared to have been in the water for some time. This new finding has caused much anxiety among the skippers and it is probable that some time will be able to feel that all of their vessels are safe. Although many are inclined to believe that the boat sighted was a derelict, others declare that it should be some portions of the vessel's hull also be found with the wreckage. As has become of the mysterious derelict, a question which is bothering the skippers all along the coast. When last it was several hundred miles from port and orders for the dispatch of a launch to find and bring back to this port derelict had been given. Since the schooner has dropped from sight by magic.

UMATILLA ARRIVES. Steamer Umatilla, Captain Zeh, arrived here this morning from Seattle and up at Long Wharf, where she is picking up and discharging freight and merchandise. The vessel reports a rough passage. According to her log, heavy seas and gusty winds were encountered during the greater part of the run. According to Captain Zeh, steamboat navigation on the Columbia and Chena rivers opened on the same day on which the Umatilla departed from Seattle for this port. Captain Zeh reports that the breakup of the Chena river in front of the Fairbanks country. The Umatilla carried a full complement of freight, 80 passengers, all of whom went ashore on the Francisco side. A 45-foot launch is well onto completion at the William Cryer shipyard, she will probably be launched next week. The new craft is being built for George Totner and will be used to carry passengers from Tiburon to California where the government recently established a large coal station. She is 11 feet long, 11 feet wide, and has a draft of 11 feet. She has a 10-horsepower engine and is staunchly constructed. She is propelled by a 36-horsepower gas engine. The launch Winona, built by Secretary Morhardt of the United States, is at the William Cryer yards undergoing a general overhaul.

Monterey Lime company's gas engine Newmark is at the Atlas Gas engine having had a new shaft fitted and a new one put in. The vessel, out in the heavy weather reported in the past couple of weeks, was run outside when an exceptionally heavy sea rolled her up and threw her down such force as to break the crank and wash overboard everything that was not fast to the deck. The vessel shipping much water ran into port yesterday afternoon and tied up at the yard for repairs. The accident to the crank occurred during the strong onshore last Saturday. The steam schooner San Jacinto arrived in yesterday afternoon and was on the ways of the United Engineers and Shipbuilders of America. The Oakland Launch and Tugboat Company tug Dixie shifted a number of pontoons carrying several thousand of dredge pipe from the San Francisco to this side yesterday afternoon. The pipe will be used by the dredge, at present in operation between Webster and Harrison street bridges.

LONG WHARF SHIPPING. Vessels at Long Wharf yesterday included the steam schooner Sven, Red, North Fork and J. L. Liddle. Crowley barges picked a load of coal off Long Wharf yesterday for the Francisco side. The river steamer Juliette of the Pacific Coast Freight and Transportation company, after having her hull cleaned and old deck replaced, left yesterday for the Pacific. She is late yesterday afternoon to resume her regular day between Oakland and San Francisco. The tug Louis is at the Pacific wharves, undergoing a general overhaul. The steam schooner San Pedro came here for lumber discharge at the W. K. Lumber company's wharf yesterday and sailed for the north after lunch.

Nemo Corset Week

Begins Tomorrow—Our Corset
Department Will Participate

The manufacturers of these famous Corsets say:
—That Nemo Corsets are guaranteed to wear longer than other corsets because the triple strip reinforcement prevents the bones and steels from cutting through the material.
—That Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets are the only corsets ever made that will reduce a stout figure with perfect comfort and safety.
—That Nemo Solid-Service Corsets for everyday hard wear combine correct style and extreme comfort with great durability.
—That Nemo Figure-Building Corsets build out and develop the slender form into lines of beauty and symmetry—that they also give a full form a more slender and youthful appearance, with a graceful and upright carriage.
Our Corset Experts will explain the merits of these popular corsets more fully when you visit the department.

Public Playground Is Help to the Boy ne Addams Lauds Institution as Saving of American Youth.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The public playgrounds, in the opinion of Miss Jane Addams, is the greatest agency ever brought forth for the improvement of the city boy.

"One of the most notable results of the public playgrounds has been a marked decrease in the number of defendants brought before the juvenile courts," said Miss Addams for the members of the Oak Park Parents' and Teachers' Association at night.

He now spends their leisure time," continued the speaker, "in healthful exercise at the playgrounds and streets, as was the custom here before. Play has developed him into a more skillful and honorable youth than the boy brought up in the streets. The playgrounds have proved a great success, and their success is invaluable for the good of the boy."

Rattlesnakes Infest Maricopa Desert Flats

Reptiles Are Shedding Skins and Are Not Difficult to Kill.

BARBERSFIELD, May 4.—That the desert flats in the vicinity of Maricopa are infested with rattlesnakes is the report of desert ranchers and surveyors who have had occasion to journey into the flats during the past few weeks. One rancher residing a short distance from Maricopa was compelled to kill a valuable sheep dog that was bitten by one of the poisonous reptiles a few days ago, an engineer now making his headquarters in Barbersfield killed one with nine rattles and a live rattler with seven rattles was captured within a half mile of Maricopa last Sunday.

The snakes are now shedding their skins and are so slow in action that they are not hard to kill.

from U. S. C., now began to draw up on the leaders with McClure in fifth place. At the ninth lap Swiggert took second place with McClure dropping out. About the middle of this lap Swiggert overtook the lead and fast pace, doubled up and had to be carried from the track. McClure was still far from the lead, being about 85 yards behind Crabbe at the tenth lap.

McCLURE DEFEATS CRABBE.

It was so far behind Crabbe that almost every one conceded the event to the Californian. As the gun sounded, announcing the final lap of this heart-breaking race, McClure rapidly drew up to about 25 yards behind his rival on the next to the last turn. Down the back stretch they went with the northern man steadily gaining at the southern and left Crabbe led by about 10 yards. Up the final stretch they tore with both sprinting their best and the Californian roared urging Crabbe on. Then, when but five yards from the goal, McClure conventionally passed Crabbe and won the two-mile race by less than two feet and walked off unaided at the close of the event. McClure established a new record of 8:55.1 for the distance. The best of the day might have had an effect upon Crabbe, but even though beaten he put up a fine exhibition of judgment.

HAWKINS WINS 120 HURDLES.

The high hurdles was greatly anticipated as a great dual exhibition between Hawkins of Oregon, who lost Saturday, covered this event in 15:1 in the north, and MacLise, the California "birdman." MacLise was figured to win this event, and he undoubtedly would have done so but for an unfortunate accident. On the fourth hurdle, MacLise caught his foot and to the regret of all measured his length on the riders. Hawkins seeing his rival's mishap immediately took it easier and bent out Beeson in the poor time of 15:4. MacLise, however, secured his revenge in the low hurdles and easily won out in the time of 23:2 with Beeson and Hawkins close behind in that order.

QUARTER-MILE GOOD.

The 440-yard dash was another one of the thrilling kind. Here Gillette of Pomona, the winner; Johns of Oregon and Brigham, Nevada, of the visiting colleges were matched with Vitousek, California's lone entrant. Gillette ran a good lead at the start and easily won out, but meanwhile a pretty race was on for the rest. Brigham seemed to have this place clinched, but in the last half of the race Vitousek poked up on his Nevada opponent and beat Brigham out at the tape in a manner never in a dash of the two-mile.

PETROSKEY AND MORROW WOULD MAKE GOOD CARD

Middleweights Should Give Fans Plenty of Action Over Ten-Round Route; Wolgast Due on Monday

By BERT LOWRY.

FIGHT fans are beginning to perk up to a Howard Morrow-Sailor Ed Petroskey bout and Matchmaker Al Moffitt of the Oakland Wheelmen will just about stage these two boys for a ten-round go at Piedmont Pavilion on the night of May 22. At first the followers of the padded mitts didn't take kindly to the Syracuse man and placed him in the K. O. Brown class as a middleweight. His exhibition against Kid George wasn't anything to boast over, but after they saw him in action with a man that could and would fight the fans saw that the Ryan hope was some miller.

It was a merry scrap that Morrow and Fitzgerald dished up to the fans Friday evening before the Columbus club and the Syracuse miller got the real chance to extend himself.

In meeting a man like Petroskey, Morrow will go up against a lad that has all the gameness in the world and a fellow that is willing and anxious to fight from start to finish. While he isn't a finished miller by any means Petroskey will give action and that is what the fans like.

Again they are convinced that of all the fighters in our midst who will hail from the east, Morrow is the best and the fans are willing to lay the dollar or so in the box office window just to see him mix.

Sizing it up the Morrow-Petroskey match looks better than anything the fans have had about here for a mighty long time and Moffitt should be well paid for his efforts in signing the two men.

RIVERS WAS A BLOOMER.

The way that Joe Rivers performed at Dramand the other night didn't boost his stock any in the eyes of the fans. True the lad he boxed with was a lazy good-for-nothing in the fight game and doesn't know any more about milling than a Congo does about the Texas Tommy.

Those actions of Rivers who stood in the ring and tried to make his bout look good caused many a laugh from the fans and they were liberal in their cheers toward the fellow that now seeks fame and dollars in a bout with the little champion.

If he doesn't pick up a few more pounds and treat the fans a whole lot better than he did last Friday evening Mr. Joe Rivers might as well call off his match with Wolgast for the Calillac youngster would simply eat him alive as the saying is.

WOLGAST IS COMING.

Jimmy Coffroth has a message from Ad. Wolgast that he would arrive in San Francisco on Monday to finish his training for the four round bout he is to have with Willie Ritchie at Eighth.

and Howard on the afternoon of May 11.

The message also says that Wolgast would be ready to box with Jack Britton the Chicago lightweight on Labor day if Coffroth wanted the match.

Just read between the lines and one can readily see why Mr. Wolgast told us that Mr. Britton was the "most likely lightweight in the world." As was simply after a match and more of the kale and figured that by boosting Britton he would be his next opponent.

The Wolgast-Ritchie tryout will prove far more interesting than did the Rivers tryout for more than one reason. In the first place Willie Ritchie will try to win. Every day he is hard at the grind of conditioning himself at the Seal Rock house over in S. F. and he looks fit and ready even now to go ten times four rounds.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS.

Jim Coffroth has a wife from "One Round" Hogan that he would like to come west and fight Frankie Burns or Jack Roth. Ladies with beards, Edwards a graceful bouts Hogan put up around here and after the disgraceful way he hampered the fight fans of the bay cities. Ever a man should be barred from boxing in San Francisco or Oakland that man is One Round Hogan and the same thing goes for his manager Gil Boag.

NOTES OF THE RING.

Herman Taylor who stood sponsor for Benny Kaufman writes from the Quaker City that he has another lamon on his hands and would like to bring him out west for a bout with some of our welterweights. Joe Hirst is the name of the wonder and in his last battle he put Tommy Howell, whoever he is, away in six.

Somebody wants to stick a pin in one "Red" Watson for he has what is commonly called "swelled head." After he had been rightfully disqualified for his foul tactics with Frankie Edwards a week or so ago he offered to wager $1000 through his manager that he could stop Edwards in four rounds. "King" Kelly, a friend of Edwards, was there with the $1000 in the time but manager Anderson could not make the bet right away. There was some reason for the backing up.

Friday night Watson assisted by Tommy Ryan and Tom O'Day tried to install Mush McCollough as referee of his bout with McFarland but Cleaver wouldn't stand for the substituting, but he did agree to allow Anderson the privilege of refereeing.

After a long argument Toby Irwin took the job and Tommy McFarland made the sorrell top look like a deuce spot from start to finish.

SELF STARTER IS LATEST MODEL

New Roadster Praised as Convenient Car for Utility.

"This is the age of specialization and efficiency," says C. A. Penfield, who is connected with the Pioneer Automobile Company, local in Chalmers cars. "Because it increases man's efficiency two-fold, the motor car has been adapted to nearly every line of business."

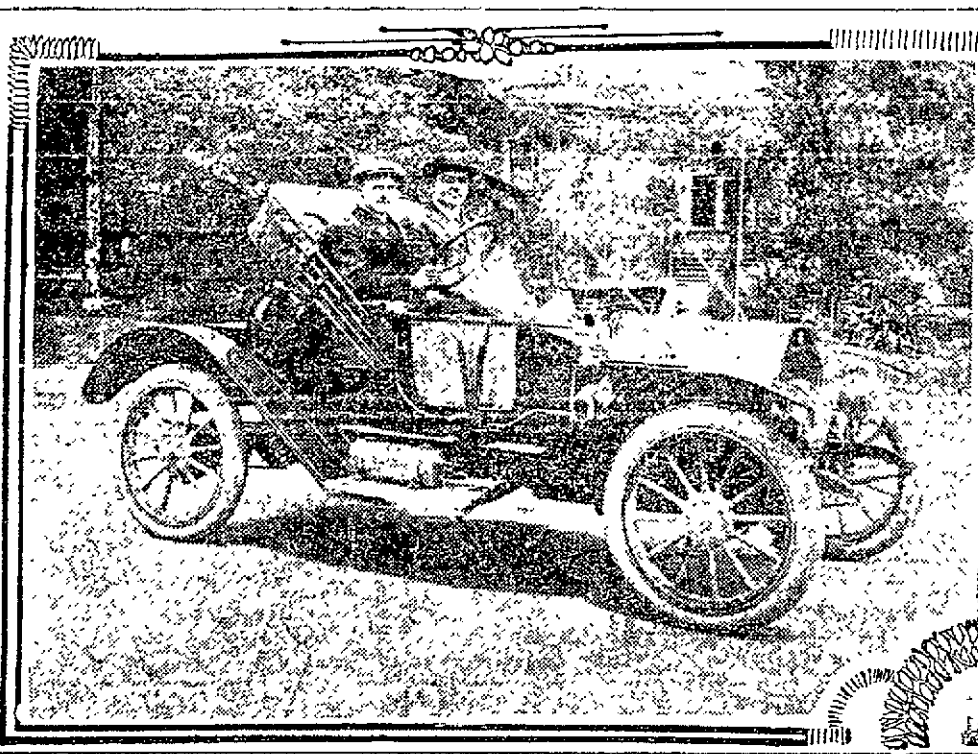

Now comes the car which is specialized to suit certain lines of business. I refer to the new self-starting Chalmers "30" roadster.

"Two-passenger cars have always been popular, but here is a car of this type which has greater possibilities than earlier roadster models."

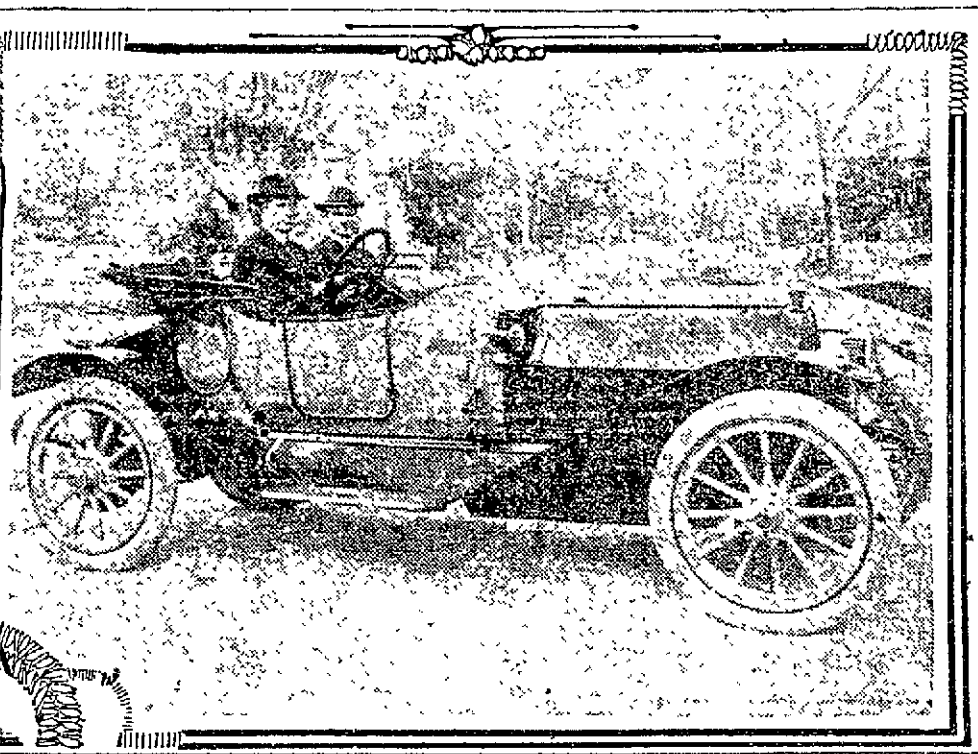

"People nowadays expect doctors to have motor cars—they are almost as essential as prescription blanks. The contractor who does business without an automobile is wasting money—just as one would be wasting it if he tried to do business today with the same mechanical equipment he used ten years ago."

"The man, too, who owns a high-priced touring car, a convenient, efficient, self-starting roadster is a great asset. Here is a car which supplements the service of the big touring car. For business he uses a light roadster instead of a big and expensive touring car. His wife or daughter may use the touring car for shopping or calls and not deprive him of his car for business use."

ELECTRICAL CRANK AIDS IN EMERGENCY

Gets Inventor Out of Water and Out of Trouble in a Jiffy.

C. F. Kettering, who developed the Delco electrical cranking, lighting and ignition system on the Cadillac cars, recently had an experience which demonstrated that the cranking device can sometimes be used for purposes other than that of simply starting the engine.

Kettering was driving from Dayton to Springfield and came to a stretch of road, about 100 yards in length, which was under water. He attempted to drive through, but when he had gone about half way he found the water deeper than he anticipated. It was so deep in fact that the carburetor was submerged and, of course, the engine stopped. Kettering found himself marooned, so to speak, in a miniature lake.

But this did not worry him. He threw the electrical cranking device into action and engaged the clutch. The car moved as though under its normal power, and backed to safety.

BEST OF FOREIGN MECHANICS HERE

American Manufacturer Tells of Emigration of European Auto Builders.

Clement Studebaker, Jr., vice-president of the Studebaker Corporation, was amused the other day when a friend remarked that the quality of labor gathered in American automobile factories could never compare with that available in similar enterprises, located in Europe. "That idea has been current so many years that I suppose it has come to be a sort of fetish," said Studebaker. "As a matter of fact, however, American automobile factories can boast, with perfect justice, a higher grade of European labor than the European factories themselves."

"The growth of the American automobile industry has proven a boon for the European mechanic. It has enabled him to emigrate with a certainty of work at once as more than double his old wages. The pick of the foreign labor is now in America, as a result."

"Of course, this element is really of minor importance in our factories. America has developed its own style of automobile making, and a far superior style it is. As a matter of fact, American methods of machine manufacture are far more accurate than the most painstaking sort of handwork. The machine cannot make a mistake; each of its movements is limited to a very definite range; each operation is a perfect repetition of the one that has taken place in the corresponding cycle before."

"Even the novice at motoring knows that the American built '20-M-P' or '20' is nearer perfect accuracy than is possible for its European rival in the world's market."

"But there remains a few departments of even an American factory where hand labor is still employed. In the building of tools and experimental parts, and in the delicate operations of fitting motor bearings, there exists a demand for the most skilled hand labor in the world. In these departments of our Detroit plants, mechanics of European birth are greatly in the majority. There are now in our employ scores of men who have worked in the shops of the European manufacturers. Germans from the Benz, Italians from the Fiat, Belgians from the Minerva, Frenchmen from the Darracq and Britons from the Rolls-Royce and British Daimler, work side by side with Swedes, Austrians, Scotch and the other races of men who have learned to accomplish by patience and painstaking, a mechanical art that even the versatile American machinery has not wholly usurped."

SLEEVE VALVE TO FEATURE IN RACE

New Type Will Be Seen in the Grand Prix Event for First Time.

For the first time in the history of the Grand Prix, Europe's most strenuous automobile race, a sleeve-valve motor will be pitted against the poppet valve type of racing cars. Information was received in San Francisco yesterday by General Manager Maslin of the Standard Motor Co. from Charles Y. Knight, inventor of the Silent-Knight sleeve-valve engine, that the Swiss makers of the S. I. G. N. A. Knight car had nominated a machine for the great race.

"Some criticism has been made in the United States," said Knight, "over the fact that Knight sleeve-valve engines were not part of the equipment of racing cars. The Knight-Daimler, Knight-Panhard, Knight-Mercedes and other cars using this sleeve-valve type of engine have not been named for racing anywhere until this season, the Grand Prix being the single exception. There is no doubt, in the minds of the makers of the reliability of the sleeve-valve type of engine will be proved to the satisfaction of every follower of racing in the coming Grand Prix."

Although the Knight motor cars have never before made a bid for honors on the track, perhaps because the licensees have been so busy turning out cars to give this feature of motoring attention, it has figured conspicuously in tests and reliability events. News has just reached Mr. Knight of the achievement of a Minerva-Knight in New Zealand.

CHASES DOG THAT ATTACKED SON

Man, Armed With Club, Runs Canine for Ten Miles.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—The story of a chase after a mad dog that covered probably ten miles of city streets was told yesterday, when Louis Gevers, 12 years old, appeared at the City Hospital to undergo the second treatment in the Pasteur course for the prevention of rabies.

The object of the chase was a cur dog that bit Louis on the arms and legs as he was emerging from the Broadway entrance to Bellefontaine Cemetery Sunday morning. The pursuer was the boy's father, William Gevers, who chased the dog from a point near his home at 5855A Florissant avenue through the central portion of the city and out into St. Louis county beyond Wellston before it finally was brained with a club by a policeman.

Louis was on the way from his home to the Evangelical Lutheran Sunday School Sunday morning, and had taken a short cut through the cemetery. When he got to the Broadway gate the keeper called to him to drive out a dog that had trotted into the cemetery. In attempting to comply with the keeper's request Louis was attacked and bitten severely.

He ran to the home of a neighbor, who called Louis' father. The boy was taken to the office of Dr. R. R. Metcalf, 2855 Geraldine avenue, where his wounds were cauterized. Dr. Metcalf told the father the dog ought not to be allowed to escape, and Gevers set out after it.

As nearly as Gevers could remember Wednesday, the route he covered in the chase led him down Florissant avenue to Grand, across Grand to Natural Bridge road, west on Natural Bridge to Vandeventer avenue, south on Vandeventer to Easton avenue, and west on Easton to Wellston.

Though Gevers was armed with a club, he did not succeed in getting close enough to the dog to strike it. He says he met two policemen at Taylor and Easton avenues and asked them to shoot the animal, but that while they were telephoning for instructions it continued to run west.

At Wellston, however, Gevers found Patrolmen Reagan and Hishon. They helped him chase the animal into the county, where one of the policemen caught up with it and brained it with a club after vainly trying to capture it alive by lassoing it with a rope.

The body of the animal was taken to the City Hospital, where its brain was examined by Dr. Downey L. Harris, city bacteriologist, who pronounced the animal suffering from rabies and ordered that Louis be given the Pasteur treatment.

The chase, according to Gevers, lasted from 10:30 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. The dog did not follow a direct route, but cut through yards and alleys, sometimes hiding successfully for a few moments. Gevers kept close behind it all the way.

VANDERBILT RACE NEAR MILWAUKEE

Wisconsin Autoists Making an Effort to Secure Event for Their State.

The most important event of the auto racing world is the Vanderbilt race. From its beginning, in 1906, up to and including 1911, it has been run on the Long Island course near Mineola. This event has brought together the most famous drivers in the world and scores of manufacturers, who participate in the racing game, have sought to win the coveted trophy.

While the cars in this race have rarely ever registered the fastest time for the distance, they have at least furnished some of the most exciting sport in the country. The course embraced several extremely dangerous turns and many a driver, in negotiating them, has had his nerve tested to the limit.

Serious and fatal accidents have marred several of these races. In 1910 several were killed and more than twenty injured. Spectators have figured among the fatalities and the problem of keeping

CRUSHED STONE ROAD HARMLESS

Care Will Prevent Injury to the Tires, Says Those Who Know.

Just at this season of the year when country road commissioners are repairing the highways with crushed stone, motorists find many stretches that look alarmingly harmful to their tires. A little care in driving over places where rutted and hollows have been filled with crushed stone will prevent injury to the tires, says the Mitchell man.

The best way to proceed when it is found impossible to avoid a short distance of stony road, is to take it at reduced speed after releasing the clutch. The distance should be estimated so that it will not be necessary to throw in the clutch in the middle of the stony part which would necessitate a fresh start while on the stones.

AUTOISTS PLAN MILEAGE CLUB

The Members Must Qualify by Recording Long Distance Runs.

So many owners of Maxwell cars have reported mileages in excess of 50,000 miles that it has been decided to form the 50,000 Mile Maxwell Motor Club for the purpose of encouraging long distance touring, and to properly reward Maxwell owners who qualify on a mileage basis.

Jonathan D. Maxwell, president of the Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Company, said yesterday that in addition to gold medals for Maxwell owners who have covered 50,000 miles, there would be also silver medals for those who have reached the 25,000 mile point in Maxwell cars.

Upon submitting proper proofs, the branch or dealer handling Maxwell cars, will arrange with the president of the 50,000 Mile Club, to see that these medals are supplied, and the statistics will be kept for future use.

NEW ROADWAYS WILL BE BUILT

Pennsylvania Governor Tells Automobile Men of State Highway Plans.

Many Meetings to Be Held to Boost for Referendum in Keystone State.

Governor Tener of Pennsylvania, whose advocacy of good roads is well established, pronounced the question of the future of the highway system in the Keystone State as one of the most important of the day.

"The question that now confronts us," said the Governor, "is shall we be content to apply from year to year such amount of the ordinary revenues of the State as can be spared for the purpose, and build and maintain a few miles at best annually, with only a future generation to enjoy them, or shall we provide as has been proposed, such an amount as will enable the State highway department to prosecute the work to the best advantage, and to the end that you of today, as well as those who come after, may enjoy improved roads, reaching into every county and into the remotest corners of our State."

When the proposition to provide sufficient money to carry on this great work comes before the people and our legislature, this organization can and I am certain will, prove a most potent force in its consummation. When it is understood by all our people that a single penny of tax created but not levied for State purposes, there will be no dissenting voices or votes.

Pennsylvania this fall will vote upon the $50,000,000 good roads referendum providing for a bond issue of this amount, to give the Keystone State a comprehensive system of highways and inter-related roads. In State Highway Commissioner Bigelow Pennsylvania has an indefatigable worker who predicts that the day is not far distant when it will be possible for one to breakfast in Pittsburgh and dine in Philadelphia on the same day, such a journey being comfortably made possible by the essential improvement of the cross State road connecting Pennsylvania's largest cities. The contention in Pennsylvania is similar to what was put forward previously in New York, which is that real improvement of the highway system is the future as well as the present generation, and in consequence...

GOOD ROADS MEETINGS. Throughout the entire country preparations are being made for annual good roads gatherings, one of the most important of which is that of the Inter-Mountain Good Roads Association, which includes in its membership Idaho, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, and Colorado.

In its official announcements these quotations are featured: "Between seed time and harvest let's discuss the good roads question." "Solely for the benefit of the States and the cities will make travel easy and trading profitable, will save many gray hairs and more horses," and finally, "National assistance for good roads in the Inter-Mountain States won't hurt the nation and will help everybody."

A subject which greatly interests the Inter-Mountain association is that of opening up Yellowstone park to automobile travel, and the Montana Good Roads Congress is likewise concerning itself in the same direction. Recently Senator Heyburn of Idaho, who frankly says he is in favor of Federal aid for the construction of interstate roads, introduced a resolution in the Senate calling upon the war department for information in regard to the probable expense of reconstructing the roads for the better accommodation of motor driven vehicles. It has been suggested that the presence of automobiles on the roads in the park would interfere seriously with horse drawn travel, and the highway commission is still employed by the state in having the park transportation concession.

TURF GOSSIP

Trainer Dan Donelson has arrived with a carload of horses from Sacramento. Among them is his sensational horse Sake, which won many races through the intermountain circuit last summer.

Robert Harris, accompanied by his big Mexican sombrero, is here with Flying Footsteps and Jockys. He will make the engagement for Jockey Taplin.

Billy Magrane, the veteran owner and trainer, appeared upon the scene at Alameda yesterday with Dorothy Ledgett.

Among the stars of Henry McDaniel's bunch of sprinters are Molar and Delaney. The former was the second best 2-year-old at Juarez last winter.

Never in the history of Spokane were there so many noted turkeys gathered at one time.

Trainer Billy Short, the noted Oakland horseman, has the following horses in training: Frank Mullens, Bella Kinney, Dennis Stafford, Round and Round, Balboa, Lady Macay, Lomond, Change of Air, Ben Ann and a good looking colt by Johnny Lyons and Bell Kinney.

Billy Clancy, who in his career as a steeplechase rider had more mishaps and bones broken than any timber pilot in this country, has a well equipped stable of runners at Alameda. Among them are such well known performers as Miss Sly, a full sister to Fire Ball, Little Jane, Fern L., Ben Stone, Gilmann and Rosamond.

John Ferris, the Nashville horseman, has a stable of runners at Alameda headed by Fort Johnson.

Wade McLemore, the noted Texas breeder and horseman, has arrived with his sensational mare Meadow, Lady Rankin and others.

A bunch of Butte, Montana, horse players arrived from the copper city late yesterday.

John Lowe, who is well known to race goers from San Francisco and Oakland, has the following noted runners in training: Doncaster, Ray Hinko, Americus, Sigurd, Gen. Marchmont, Florence Roberts, Mazy Gil, Sena, Jim Busby, Wentworth, and Del Fier. The above horses all but Del Fier are the property of C. B. Schreiber, the noted San Francisco horseman. The other half of Trainer Lowe's big heart are the horses of C. W. Clark, the Montana copper king. Among the speed marvels that will sport the Clark colors are Cluny, El Paloum, King Bright, Francine and others. Manager Boggs, who is in charge of Clark's string of thoroughbreds, has entered Cluny in the $5000 Cœur d'Alene Derby.

SMALLEST WIRELESS YE TMADE FOR ARMY. WASHINGTON, May 4.—Probably the smallest wireless telegraph set ever made has just been perfected by the officers in the army signal corps laboratory, and has been sent to New York for the aeronautical show to be held there next month. The receiving and transmitting apparatus weighs only 25½ pounds, and is contained within a box 15 inches square and 18 inches deep. The generator from which the apparatus derives its power adds an additional 25 pounds.

The machine is the result of the efforts of the army signal officers, under direction of Major Charles McK. Saltzman, to perfect the lightest machine possible for use in the "Fifth military arm," or the aeronautical division. This particular set will be installed on one of the aeroplanes at the show, and afterward will be returned to the army aerodrome at College Park, Md., for some practical experiments. It is declared to have a sending radius of 25 miles on land and 60 miles at sea, but the officers have yet no data to show its carrying force when being used on an aeroplane in the air.

NEW LEAGUE BEGINS ITS SEASON THIS AFTERNOON

Former Coast Leaguers and Bushers Make Up Teams
That Will Play.

The newly organized State League of ball players will inaugurate its first season this afternoon with games at Sacramento, Stockton and Modesto. President George Fraser of San Francisco has arranged all details. Only Sunday games will be played and San Francisco and Salt Lake will be the traveling teams. Games will be played every Sunday at Stockton and Modesto, and when the Sacramento Coast League team is at home, Charles Doyle will go on the road, Oakland being the likely town to see State League ball. Negotiations are going on now for games to be played Sunday afternoons at the Coast League grounds at Fremont's park.

COAST LEAGERS IN LINE-UP. Quite a number of former Coast League stars are included in the line-up of the six teams in the pennant race. Bert Delmas, the former Los Angeles star, will guide the Modesto team; George Harper, an old-time pitcher, will manage Stockton; Ben Burke will look after the San Francisco team; Charles Doyle, the former Coast player, will be in Sacramento; William McMenomy will handle the Oakland team; and Pat Bohen and a Coast League battery, has been secured for Packer O'Rourke has already sent Pitcher Thomas and Catcher Price to Sacramento to work in tomorrow's game. Oakland will rely on Fred Browne and Moulton will do the honors for Modesto.

OAKLAND TO HAVE FAST TEAM. Oakland will put a strong team in the field and Oakland will carry the pick of the local semi-pros on the trip. Francisco plays, Cal at Sacramento and Oakland at Modesto the first Sunday, and a regular schedule will be adopted next week when it is settled if it is a part of the season.

Friday afternoon President Fraser of the new organization along with George Harper had a conference with President Al Baum and J. Cal. Dwyer of the Coast League and it was agreed that Stockton would not play Don Moskoff or Bush Franks until such time as they were declared free agents.

Right off the bat this looks like discrimination on the part of the coasters against certain players. Doc Moskoff in one sense of the word is a free agent for he is not under contract to any team in the league. But he is not under contract to Louisville. At that though they want him to pay a fine of $100 that the National Commission levied on the player some time ago.

Franks is a contract jumper that is true and is in the same class as is Ben Delmas in one sense of the word for Delmas refuses to report to the Oakland team and his name appears as being a suspended player by the secretary of the National Association. Yet his name appears in the Modesto line-up and no mention is being made of him as being barred from taking part in today's game. Funny are the laws of baseball.

DETROIT, May 4.—Today's game, which St. Louis won by a score of 10 to 3, was a timely one for the Tigers on both sides. The Car With a Conscience

Model 45—7-Passenger Touring Car $2350

HERE is a car of beauty, strength and power. It has created a new standard in motor car values. By comparison, higher-priced seven-passenger cars are found wanting and those of equal cost measure far below the pace set by this model.

The individual design—the harmonious body lines—the graceful sweep—the roomy tonneau—the inside drive—the exclusiveness of the upholstery are all in keeping with its unusual dignity and exceptional quietness.

This car represents more than mere beauty, too. It represents a sound mechanical standard and the highest development of simplicity, reliability and accessibility.

OTHER OAKLAND MODELS

Model "40"—Five-Passenger Touring Car at $1650. In this model there is brought out for the first time a car of superior design and construction, with sufficient power at a medium price.

Model "40"—"Sociable" Roadster, $1650. Entirely different from any motor car ever offered before, in that it seats three persons, side by side, and allows the driver to give equal attention to his two guests.

Model "30"—Five-Passenger Touring Car, $1400. A car built to answer a large demand for a medium-priced machine, having sufficient power to take a party of five anywhere.

Oakland "Oriole," $1250—The smartest 30-horsepower Runabout on the market. Belongs in the garage where two or more cars are kept. Equipped with a 30-gallon gasoline tank.

The Oakland Company's business purpose is to give better service and to sell more cars. It will do its best to do both—they go hand in hand.

TELLS OF GENERAL MOTORS COMPANY

Comptroller Charles A. Magee
Here on Visit and Talks of Concern's Affairs.

Charles A. Magee, the comptroller of the General Motors Company, is paying San Francisco a visit. He has come west to look over the motor car situation. Magee, in speaking of the general outlook, says: "It is not the policy of the General Motors Company's officers to tell about what the company is going to do. In fact, all statements for publication are usually prepared by the president, Thomas Neal, who is a fine example of the conservative, yet progressive safe, sane and successful business man. This policy of great care in making promises is the result of our firm determination to be very sure we are right before talking about our achievements. We consider this the proper course in view of the strong financial standing of our company."

"The General Motors Co. itself does not manufacture automobiles. It owns the properties of the various companies that do, and stands back of them with millions of dollars of capital and with a strong corps of experts in every department of business, advising and suggesting, testing and selecting, constantly on the lookout for better methods, better material, better designs. Its physical laboratories will be when completed, in the first rank and the result will be reflected in the output of every company connected with it. Each one of these companies is operated separately, having no connection with one another, each competing with all others each having its own engineers, designers and business organization. Thus we have in the entire combination all the progress resulting from healthy, friendly rivalry, backed by resources practically unlimited, wisely and prudently administered for the permanent upbuilding of a great business institution in a new industry."

AUTOMOBILE SUPPLY HOUSE TO ENLARGE

Owing to the fact that the automobile necessary demands have become so great, J. P. Jones of the Jones Auto company has discontinued the handling of automobiles and has decided to devote his entire time and energy to the supply and accessory business.

Within the course of about thirty days, Jones states that his two stores will be connected into one of the most complete and up to date accessory houses in Oakland.

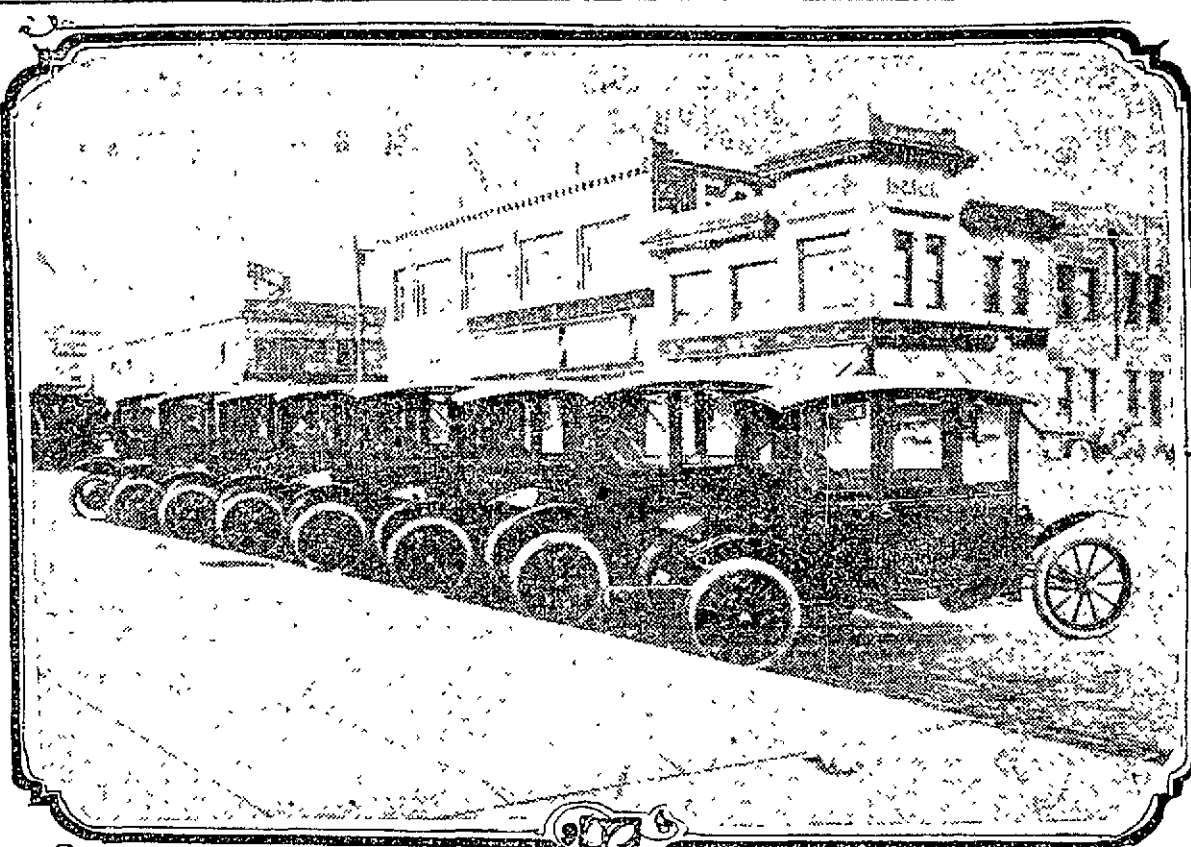

"We have just received," he says, "a shipment of our new 1912 catalogs on all parts and novelties, which we are mailing out upon request to all automobile enthusiasts."

DIAMOND LURE FOR THE ELUSIVE TROUT

TACOMA, Wash., May 4.—In the stomach of a speckled trout, cut open to determine what sort of bait was advisable, Henry P. Foster, Homer Mueser and Hugo Hillis of Bellingham found a one-carat diamond of the finest water.

The three men had fished for a couple of days on the banks of the Cowlitz river, and a three-pound trout soon floundered on the lure of the bait. One of the party suggested cutting open the fish's stomach to discover what sort of food the fish were taking and the gem rolled out.

'THE GOODRICH' LATEST MAGAZINE

Work Tells of Good Roads and Is a Boon to the Motorists.

"The Goodrich," the official magazine of the Goodrich Rubber Company, famous tire manufacturers and makers of all manner of goods from this material, is off the press and is attracting considerable interest among automobile owners.

The magazine is devoted to the discussion of automobile tire topics, and contains, besides valuable hints, many discussions of good roads movements, descriptions of new cars and tire models, information regarding repairs and care of equipment and other matter of interest. The booklet is not in the nature of a trade journal, but a motorist's magazine, written and edited for the consumer, and not the distributor. It is published monthly for the customers of the Goodrich firm.

Among the valuable articles in the latest number is a discussion of the relation of motor vehicles to better roads, written by Logan Waller Page, director of the office of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. The writer goes into the improvements already made in the United States and those necessary to the motorists of the country. Treatment of earth roads, proper paving, rolling and road processes, the durability of different types and other topics of a like nature, are taken up in Waller's article.

Sign posting and its advantages are also discussed in an article in the magazine and descriptions of the roadways of famous parks occupy space in the book. The magazine is well illustrated. Accounts of long runs and their effects on tires, illustrated with photographs, touring conditions in this country and other articles are also contained.

The booklet is to be found at the Goodrich branches in the leading cities of the world, including Oakland. It is distributed by the agents for the Goodrich tires.

KEATON AND SWINEHART TIRES HAVE AGENCY HERE

Keaton, of Non-Skid Tire fame, whose principal place of business is in San Francisco, is to be represented in Alameda county by Freyer & Mauser, who have opened a salesroom on Twelfth street, near Alice. A line of Swinehart tires will also be carried and the interests of both companies aggressively represented. Both boys know the business thoroughly and while new to this field they are rapidly getting acquainted.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10" Oversize

Used on 200,000 Cars

This new-type tire—the sensation of Tiredom—now far outsells every other tire.

Some 200,000 separate users have proved them the most economical tire.

The present demand—which results from these tests—is three times larger than one year ago.

The 13-Year Tire

No-Rim-Cut tires are the final result of 13 years spent in tire making.

This saves the blow-outs due to overloading.

In formula and fabric, in materials and making, they represent the ultimate in tires. In our opinion—based on 13 years' experience—tires can never be built much better.

Save 48 Per Cent

Statistics show that 23 per cent of ruined old-type tires are rim-cut. This patent tire saves that 23 per cent.

Experience shows that 10 per cent oversize, under average conditions, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

These two features together mean an average saving of 48 per cent.

Yet No-Rim-Cut tires now cost no more than other standard tires. They used to cost one-fifth extra.

That's why 200,000 users have come to Goodyear tires.

The Patent Tire

These tires are made so they can't rim-cut. The method of making is controlled by the Goodyear patents.

Other devices for making tires of this type have proved unsatisfactory. That is why this flood-like demand for tires that can't rim-cut centers on Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

These tires are also made 10 per cent over the rated size.

This is done to give an over-tired car. It means 10 per cent more air—10 per cent added carrying capacity.

REGAL MOTOR CAR COMPANY
Detroit, Michigan

HUGE INCREASE IN TIRE TRADE

About $120,000,000 Will Be Spent on Goods This Year, Say Factories.

Men in close touch with the automobile tire industry predict that during 1912 the volume of pneumatic tire sales will amount to more than $120,000,000. They base this estimate upon the number of cars in use and the probable tire requirements of each car.

There are somewhere near 600,000 machines in operation in the United States at the present time. Figuring six tires to a car for twelve months of service (this is the manufacturers' basis of estimation) it will be seen that the motorists of this country will require approximately 4,000,000 tires this year.

Putting these down at an average cost of $30 each, an aggregate of $120,000,000 is shown.

"These figures are not far from correct," says J. M. Gilbert, General Manager of the United States Tire Company. "But 1912 will be a year of record for the tire industry. The spring rush is now in full swing. Dealers everywhere are stocking up for the season, and the United States Tire Company does only a wholesale business and is therefore in close touch with dealers throughout the country. We are commencing to get a definite line on the year's output of tires. It will be tremendous, much greater than ever before because of the thousands of new cars which have been purchased."

GIVE GOOD ADVICE TO KANSAS CITY YOUTHS

Studebaker Automobiles

Two Models

If You Were an Expert, What Car Would You Buy?

The time has passed when automobiles can be sold to you on their appearances or claims. This is a day when you and every purchaser must be shown what the car for which you pay your money will actually perform; what it will do. Beware of an automobile salesman who attempts to beguile you with a pleasing story. Tell him to show the goods and prove to you that his cars are worth the money. Find out whether his car is a real car or only an assembled automobile built to sell.

You have a right to your money's worth, but it is up to you to see that you get it. Deeper than all appearances, there are a few expert tests which ought to be applied to every car.

Who makes the car? Is it an assembled car or made from top to bottom by one manufacturer? What kind of a guarantee is on it? Does the manufacturer respect his own product with a real guarantee, or does he want you to take the chance? What do parts cost you and how conveniently can you get them? How many cars of this make are in service and how many are giving satisfaction? Questions like these go deep into the heart of the case, and if you put them rigorously upon any car you will find out with a certainty whether or not that car is worth its price.

We are selling Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars because we know that, dollar for dollar, their equal is not sold in the market today. The records of many thousands of cars in all kinds of service have convinced us absolutely. Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are built to run, and because they run they sell. If we cannot prove to you under the most searching test that Studebaker cars are absolutely the best automobile values in the market, we do not want your business; but we can prove it, and your neighbors who drive these cars will tell you the same thing.

Be an expert when it comes to buying a car. You can, by getting from us some further ideas on real tests of an automobile. Clip the attached coupon and send it to us now because we have something new to tell you which you ought to know, whatever car you have in mind.

ENGINEER NAMED FOR BIG BRIDGE

Ralph Modjeski to Supervise
Columbia River Span Construction.

Ralph Modjeski, a civil engineer of national reputation as a bridge builder, has been selected to prepare permanent plans and estimates for the Pacific Highway bridge across the Columbia river, connecting Portland and Vancouver.

This action was decided upon by a joint committee of citizens, representing the Portland and Vancouver Commercial Clubs for the matter in charge. The committee was fortunate in that it had applications from most of the prominent engineers in the country and Mr. Modjeski's selection was made after considering all of them. He has already been notified of his appointment, and will arrive in Portland soon to confer with Frank B. Riley, vice-president of the Pacific Highway Association for Oregon, as to details that have already been worked out.

In commenting upon the expense attached to such a bridge Riley said, "The cost of the bridge is not expected to exceed the cost of other bridges across great rivers like the Missouri and the type of bridge selected, but it seems that nothing less than a series of spans, providing for all kinds of traffic, will be selected."

HAS NATIONAL ATTENTION.

National attention has been called to this bridge and also the Pacific Highway bridge across the Colorado river at Yuma through the sub-committee of the House of Representatives that favorably considered the Underwood Resolution for the appointment of a federal committee to recommend the construction of certain post roads and bridges necessary for the completion of these highways.

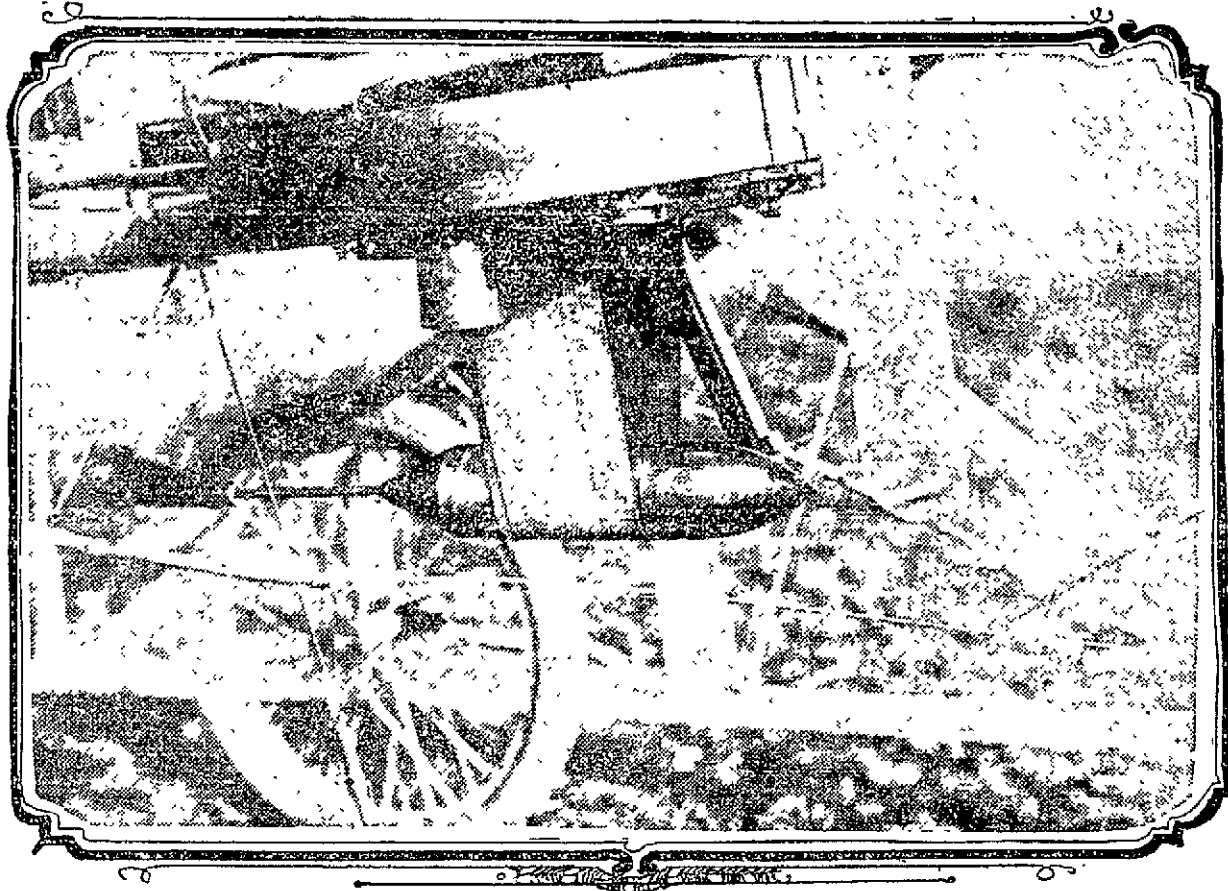

The Underwood Resolution will undoubtedly pass the House within a few days and it has been said that it has a good chance to be acted upon favorably by the Senate.

With the completion of these two bridges projects, all the important rivers on the Pacific Highway route will be spanned with permanent steel structures. The other big bridge is the one already completed across the Fraser River at New Westminster, B. C. This bridge was built by the provincial government for the joint use of all kinds of traffic, including steam and electric railways.

GIRL DRAGGED AFTER FALL FROM HORSE

PORTERVILLE, May 4.—Josephine, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Noe of the Pine district, fell from a horse at her home and her feet became entangled in a portion of the harness, and she was dragged for some distance and quite seriously hurt. She was riding the family horse from the house to the barn, the animal being still harnessed. Something startled the animal and as the horse shied the girl was thrown from his back. Her foot became entangled in one of the buckles and she fell headlong, dangling from the horse's side. She was dragged on her face for several rods before her terrified parents could bring the horse to a stop. Brought to this city, the girl was taken to the offices of Dr. Miller and Dr. Barber, where it was found the gashes in her face were to such an extent that she was placed under an anesthetic while the repair work was done. The child's nose was almost destroyed and she will doubtless carry the scars for life.

DEATH MAY BE FLUNG FROM AIR IN SHAPE OF AERO BOMB

DOG HAS VERY HUMAN LIKING FOR FAIR SEX

PASADENA, May 4.—A dog belonging to J. W. Dees of 76 Palmetto drive, is fond of girls, and is gentle as a kitten whenever they are around, offering no objection to the manner in which they treat him, whether the treatment is good or bad. He is also fond of boys, but in a different way, for he sometimes chews them up instead of playing with them.

The canine, which is a cross between a bulldog and a Newfoundland, attacked Merritt Lancaster, seven-year-old son of Mrs. Cora Lancaster, 115 Palmetto drive, when the lad bothered him by trying to lie down on his back while he was in the yard of the Dees home.

The dog turned suddenly and leaped at the boy, knocking him over on his back and then biting him in the face and under the left jaw. A long gash was cut in the lad's forehead and under the jaw besides smaller bites. Dees forced the dog back. He declares Merritt had been warned to keep away from it. The dog will be killed. The boy is recovering nicely from his wounds, which bled freely.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Lieutenant Scott of the United States Army has invented an aero bomb, which is at present the subject of experiment in France.

The bomb is suspended below the aviator, and is released by the pulling of a trigger. There is a propeller-like arrangement attached to the end that causes it to fall nose-down and to explode as it strikes the earth.

VISITOR IN PULPIT.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Rev. G. Davis Acheson, Ph. D. of Tacoma, will fill the pulpit of the Howard Presbyterian church tomorrow morning. In the evening the Hon. J. L. McNamee will speak on "The Glories of Biblical Oratory." At the meeting of the Men's Club on Tuesday evening "My Favorite Candidate for President" will be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dees say the canine has had no use for boys since he was teased by them while a puppy, but that he is very friendly to girls of his age. He tolerates anything the fair sex may do, but doesn't want even to be in the same yard with a boy.

TEACHERS TO BE GIVEN NOVEL TEST IN SOUTH

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Educational Los Angeles is thrilled with something very like terror over the report that Supt. of Schools Francis will go before the board of education with a recommendation that every teacher in the service, man or woman, be forced to take leave of absence for one year of a specified term, probably five or seven years, during which they must earn their own living at some other calling, without touching their savings.

If they can not prove that they have accomplished this, at the expiration of the twelve months they are not again to be employed, according to the rumor.

The 1800 city teachers are stunned. Superintendent Francis did not unqualifiedly confirm the report, but admitted that it has a basis in theory and will likely come about. He insists that a teacher should try himself or herself out at something else at least one year out of six, and said that those who do so and succeed will not only find their positions awaiting them, but promotions as well.

WORLD RENOWNED AND DISTINGUISHED MEN!

THE FOO AND WING HERB CO. OF CALIFORNIA

THE GREATEST COMBINATION OF ORIENTAL HERBALISTS IN THE WORLD

Some Statements of Who They Are and What They Do!

years of marked success in a new field he has now come to a home in the city where its founders commenced their work among the American people.

THE BEST QUALIFIED OF ALL.

No other Chinese have ever been so well equipped to understand the cure of diseases of the American people as is T. Foo Yuen, the president of this corporation. He is a graduate of the Imperial Medical College, Peking, China, and was thoroughly versed in the medical science of his own country before coming to America.

Although debarred by law from the privileges of American citizenship, he has adopted this country as his permanent home. His family is here, and his children are being educated in American schools. One of these is a graduate of the Boston High School. He is very proficient in mathematics, and next fall will enter the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as a student of electrical and mechanical engineering. These facts are stated to show that they have become to all intents and purposes Americans.

THE ELEMENTS OF SUPERIORITY.

In this connection the question naturally occurs to every American who gives this subject any attention, "Are these remedies really better than our own, and, if so, why are they better?" In answer to this it may be said that the Chinese are the cleverest pharmacists in the world, that they have the most elaborate methods of preparing their remedies, that time, effort and expense are of no moment to them, if only they accomplish results.

Only the purest and best of herbs, roots, seeds, berries and flowers are used in these remedies. Some of these are very expensive. In all, more than a thousand different varieties are used. The formulas are trade secrets handed down from generation to generation in the same families for centuries. No poisonous drugs whatever, no narcotics, no powerful tonics and no mineral substances are used. In fact, these remedies are such that they leave no bad after effects.

The method of pulse diagnosis employed by this skilled herbalist gives wonderfully complete results. By this method he can determine the condition of each of the vital organs and can prescribe the proper remedy to build up those that need assistance.

We Americans are looking constantly for something new in medicine. The latest fad always takes our fancy, although it may be no better than its predecessors. The Chinese, on the contrary, keep the best of what has come to them through the ages, and yet are constantly trying to improve the old ways without departing from them.

Under the laws of the State of California, in order to secure a license to practice medicine, a person must take an examination in certain specified subjects IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. The great Dr. Lorenz, who operated upon the child of Mr. Armour, and who is reputed to have received $50,000.00 therefor, being a German, not speaking English, could not have done that for Mr. Armour's child in California unless he took an examination before the State Board of Medicine, in the English language. Shall we lose our families on account of language?

THE TRUE PHYSICIAN AND THE FALSE.

In China the profession of medicine is hereditary and is considered very honorable. The educated Chinese physician is proud of the distinction that attaches to his profession. But China is a vast empire with a crowded population, and there are never enough educated doctors to supply the wants of the people. Their services are reserved for the rich and influential. There must be unusual merit and vitality in any system of medical practice which can succeed and make a record such as this company has, for it numbers among its thousands of patients in Southern California business men, artists, teachers, lawyers and even physicians, men and women of experience in the ways of the world, who could not easily be deceived. They have made a study of this system of medicine, they believe in it and recommend it to their friends. For many years this company has been in the same location, at 903 South Olive street, Los Angeles. Its business has steadily and naturally grown as a result of the cures that it has made and of the efforts of the friends whom the cures have brought to it.

Foo Yuen, the eminent herbalist, has published a most interesting book, which treats in a thoroughly comprehensive manner upon the science of Oriental Medicine, Diet and Hygiene. This is a well written and well printed book, illustrated, a model of its class. It sets forth the principles and methods of this system in plain and concise language. It has chapters on diet and hygiene that would do credit to any publication of the sort; it contains historical chapters of great interest, and it sets forth medical theories that may seem startling at first, but impress themselves the more forcibly the more carefully they are studied. There is nothing in this volume to offend even the fastidious. There is much of interest to the well and of incalculable value to the sick.

A GIFT TO THE PUBLIC.

This book is well printed and bound and as large as many books that sell in the stores for 50 cents each, but is given Free to any calling at their offices or sending 5 cents in postage stamps to 926 Fillmore street.

ALL DISEASES CURED

It would be useless to attempt in the first place to name all the diseases that are helped or cured by these remedies that are prepared and sold by this company. Acute disorders, such as colds and fevers, yield very quickly to these remedies if they are taken in time. Naturally, however, the physicians of this country treat many more cases of chronic and obscure disorders than are those that are acute, for most of their patients come to them only after they have tried various other promises of relief usually in vain. No person, no matter how long he has been afflicted, nor how severe his trouble may be, need despair of relief. There is still hope for him if he is willing to investigate this system of healing with a mind free from prejudice and ready to act upon his own convictions after conclusive proof has been presented.

TESTIMONIALS

Many of the cures that we have made are unknown to the general public. Although we know that those who have been cured are very grateful to us, a few have been so remarkable, so absolutely unprecedented, that we have felt justified in placing the details before the public.

Oakland, Oct. 1, 1910.

T. Foo Yuen, "I take great pleasure in being able to give a testimony for you for the great and successful treatment you have rendered me. I took ill on December 15, 1908, and secured some of the best medical aid, who treated me for some diseased condition of the pupil of the eye. Four months later I got another specialist, who treated me for trachoma. I was treated by him for four more months, and I grew worse under his treatment, so I had two more, and was told by the last that I was incurable, that I could never use my eyesight again. I did believe it, as the medicines which were put in my eyes were bad enough to kill any sight. My eyes were inflamed and very red for over one year, and I have suffered with terrible pains in the eyes and head, day and night; the doctor could not relieve the pain.

On the 28th day of December, 1909, I was advised to go and see T. Foo Yuen, and I began to take his treatment from the 29th of December, 1909. I will not say that I was relieved of my pain and misery at once; it took about three months until the pain left me, and my eyes began to clear, and today I am able to use them again except reading very small print and looking into the sunlight, this and yet, but can answer that I could not and believe me, which was put in my eyes for almost one year, had not injured the optic nerves that I will have perfect sight again. I have followed strictly T. Foo Yuen's instructions, and by so doing I am glad to say that I have helped him in his great success. Not only has he given me back my sight, but also saved my life. I am getting stronger every day and think before the year is over I'll be as strong and well again as I ever was. I will gladly answer any questions addressed to me. That this testimony is true and T. Foo Yuen is a successful healer I can prove by many people. Many thanks to him and best wishes for his success.

VICTOR F. URBAN,
Old address, Oakland; new, Camp Meeker, Cal.

T. Foo Yuen, "Dear Sir:—I feel it as my duty as a parent to voice my praise of your skill in mastering a very bad case of my daughter, Catherine.

About three years ago she complained of two lumps that started on the left side of her face, just below the ear. I thought at the time it was only a little swelling of the lymphatic glands. We gave her remedies customary in those cases, but they did her no good; the lumps began to grow larger each day. I became alarmed about the matter, and I consulted a physician. He said that the only way to get rid of them was to have an operation. I was about to give in and was making all preparations to take her to a hospital. In the meantime my wife had a friend call on her who took the treatment from T. Foo Yuen when he was in Los Angeles and was cured of a sickness of long standing. The great recommendation the lady gave us of T. Foo Yuen's skill decided us to give him a chance, so I brought my daughter to him to see if he could do anything for her. After he had given a pulse examination he not only told me he would take the large lump off her face, but also made a strong, well girl of her. In the course of six months, through the herb remedies and plasters he not only took the lumps away and never left a mark, where the lumps were, but made her a strong, well girl, and through his skillful treatment she gained over twenty pounds. Hoping these lines will reach some poor sufferer who needs a skilled physician to cure them, I heartily recommend T. FOO YUEN.

JOHN W. COOTA,
472 Twenty-seventh Street.

T. Foo Yuen, the most noted man of his time, is now with you, and anxious to meet all those who need service or advice.

He will give you a pulse diagnosis and consultation free. English speaking attendants are always at hand to receive visitors and answer questions. Every reader of this article is invited to call at the above address and receive, if he desires, a free illustration of diagnosis by the pulse, in his person, and to learn something more about that system of healing which is at once the most ancient and the most modern known to man.

Combination of Oriental Herbalists in the World

The Foo and Wing Herb Company is a corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of California.

For the past sixteen years its principal place of business has been in Los Angeles. It has now made Oakland its headquarters, retaining branch offices at Los Angeles and in other cities. It is engaged in the manufacture and sale of proprietary remedies prepared after the most approved Oriental formulas, and its remarkable success in this field makes it the greatest organization of its kind in the world.

HOW THIS COMPANY CAME INTO EXISTENCE.

Many of the older residents of Oakland will remember the famous Chinese physician, Dr. Li Po Tai, who practiced his profession among the white residents of San Francisco for nearly half a century, and died in the city in 1903. He had a reputation for the successful treatment of obscure and chronic diseases of which any physician of any time or country might well be proud. He numbered his patients by the thousand, and they came to him from all parts of the United States and even from abroad. Scores of wealthy and influential citizens of San Francisco were his personal friends. Senator Leland Stanford was for many years among the most conspicuous of these. Dr. T. Foo Yuen, a nephew of Li Po Tai, was living with him and assisting him in his work at the time of his death. On afterward the former removed to Los Angeles and entered upon a career similar to that of his illustrious uncle. And after many

BUREAU TO ISSUE A NEW CIRCULAR

Standards and Tests Subject of New Work Now in the Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—A circular by the National Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce and Labor on the measurements of length and area including thermal expansion is in press. It supersedes a similar circular issued July 1, 1909. The new regulations and fees will go into effect May 1 next.

The bureau gives notice that it will be glad to co-operate with investigators, manufacturers and others not only in executing tests of the highest precision but also on request in furnishing and information at its disposal concerning methods of measurement, the relations among and the legal status of units, the requirements that accurate standards should fulfill and the design and construction of special apparatus.

The bureau will not accept for tests standards and apparatus likely to change excessively or that can be checked with ordinary facilities, such as poorly divided scales or scales graduated on wood, celluloid or paper. A certain minimum of quality will be insisted upon to admit to test.

The circular defines the conditions influencing the dimensions of bodies and also describes the fundamental unit of length. It refers to the interrelation of secondary and special units of length and area, with tables of equivalents added and also devotes some space to a description of national prototype meters of which it has accurate copies.

For the routine work of testing use is made of secondary or working standards whose values are carefully determined by comparison with the bureau's prototype meter from time to time to detect any possible changes. These working standards include multiples and sub-multiples of the meter and of the yard.

Methods of comparison of length standards are outlined and the classification and nature of tests are defined. The circular concludes with general instructions to applicants for tests and gives the schedule of fees for reference standards, working standards, commercial standards, metal tapes, contact standards, precision screws and calipers, area and area measuring instruments and thermal expansion of materials. For educational and scientific institutions and societies a discount of 50 per cent will be allowed on all tests under the schedules stated.

OLD CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS GATHER

The Advance Guard Arrives at Macon for Annual Reunion.

MACON, Ga., May 4.—The advance guard of the United Confederate Veterans, who are to hold their annual reunion in this city May 6 to 9 of next week, made their appearance this morning the early train bringing into town William G. Pritchard, commander-in-chief, J. B. Elyman, general secretary, Nathan Bedford Forrest, adjutant general, and Sandy I. Figgatt, inspector general. The veterans immediately repaired to their hotels, where they took up the work of reviewing the program for the four-day reunion.

Every effort will be made by the officers of Macon to provide comfort and pleasure to the visitors. Thousands of homes will be thrown open to them during their stay in the city; the local southern patriotic organizations will offer extensive entertainment programs and the best rooms in all the leading hotels will be reserved for the old soldiers, none of whom is now less than 55 years of age.

The influx of veterans will be further augmented by a camp of the Sons of the Veterans, and it is expected that the coming meeting will be the largest ever held, for the first time they will be largely accompanied by their sons, daughters, friends and relatives.

The chief feature of the four-day reunion will be the parade of the veterans and their sons. To obviate the discomfort attendant upon the march, a change has been made in the usual program, which will render the parade more short and more effective.

In speaking of the parade, Commander-in-Chief William G. Pritchard said today:

"The veterans are old men—the average age is over 70 and there is none under 60—a change therefore, in the long and arduous march is a greatly to be wished for innovation. With this end in view, we have completed a program that will make the parade more effective than ever and cut the distance to be marched nearly in half.

"It is proposed to line up the veterans to the right of the reviewing stand. All veteran commands will make their initial formation exactly on their place in line, thus saving any preliminary marching.

"The marching column, composed of the National Guards, veteran cavalry, mounted as usual, and the sons will pass before the veterans and the reviewing general, thus paying honor to the old soldiers.

"Then veterans will face to the right and by a counter march, pass each other and the reviewing general marching a total distance of about 12 blocks."

EXHIBIT TO TELL HISTORY OF FLIGHT

Display of Aeroplanes in New York Will Be Complete in Every Detail.

NEW YORK, May 4.—An exhibition of aeroplanes, showing their progress from inception to the present day, will be held here in the New Grand Central Palace, May 9 to 13. The exhibition will include every historic and scientific aspect of aeronautics and will be the first international exposition ever held in this country.

Those in charge of the venture have arranged to show every phase of the manufacture of airplanes, from the early dirigible of years ago, to the latest style hydroplane, which at present gives promise of supplanting motor boating as the popular sport in this last respect the population of the airplane pontoon, from the floats first fastened to a biplane by Glenn Curtiss in 1910 to the present day air and water craft with its safety device, will be shown in detail. The Wright brothers will also exhibit their latest hydroplane, a six cylinder affair with a new attachment for the wings.

In addition to this phase of aerial navigation many of the machines that have made history will be shown in the auditorium. The first machine to win the Gordon-Bennett cup, the little biplane flown by Curtiss at Rheims, in 1908, will be seen with the original motor.

The Bion, the first American hydroplane, will also be shown. Then there will be the Burgess Flying Fish, the early Canute Gundersen, the Wright Gliders and some of the foreign motorless planes. Among the foreign motorless planes will be the Morane machine in which Vedrines first flew from Paris to Madrid last year.

Another feature of the exhibit will include the Nieuport, Bleriot, Deperdussin, Farman and Antoinette aeroplanes in which great flights have been made in Europe and elsewhere. These machines will be placed in such a position that they may be examined in detail.

Beside the aeroplanes there will also be a large exhibit of balloons, and much of the historical and present day apparatus used by the United States weather bureau.

The different exhibits will be explained through lectures delivered by eminent and practical men in the field of aviation. The talks will be supplemented by stereoscopic views and moving pictures.

MAY BUILD CHANNELS FROM REDWOOD CITY

REDWOOD CITY, May 4.—At a meeting of the board of governors of the San Mateo County Development Association, Wednesday, a resolution was unanimously adopted favoring the project of building a system of channels at San Carlos, between Redwood City and Belmont, for the purpose of opening manufacturing and warehousing space in the local area. The association also sent a memorial to Congress asking the Government to dredge a channel in San Francisco harbor to connect with the proposed channels here. At the same time committee members were appointed to assist the promoters in getting the support of the people of this country to the project. The board of governors also discussed the matter of establishing a minor fleet between San Francisco and peninsula points. This fleet is now being carried on experimentally, but provision will be made to increase the scope of its work as soon as the boulevard down the peninsula is constructed.

The most notable step taken this year in the general advancement of Oakland was the passing of resolutions by the city council last Wednesday directing the commissioner of public works to make requisition on the city architect to prepare plans for the $500,000 municipal auditorium.

One of the most important movements of the municipality in the interest of the East Oakland annexed district is the order by the city council to widen and open a number of streets in that section. The improvements were recommended by the United Improvement Clubs. Among the thoroughfares to be improved are Twenty-ninth street, East Oakland; Southern Pacific light of way; Market street, south of First street; Milton street, East Oakland annex; Lynde street, East Oakland annex; Hollywood boulevard, East Oakland annex; East Oakland annex; Twenty-ninth street, East Oakland annex; Twenty-ninth street, East Oakland annex; Suter street, East Oakland annex; sewer right

With the onset of the summer vacation at the University of California, local real estate dealers are looking forward to securing a number of the rentals for the coming season. The local real estate market is very active and the demand. Several houses are also expected to be presented for sale. These, with others, are homes that are rapidly being erected in the tract properties, it is hoped will help to bring about a more normal market.

Postmaster Clarence S. Merrill expects to see any moment from Washington the notification that work is to proceed at the new building. The building is to be on Myrtle and Milva streets. This structure, located on the southeast corner, is estimated to cost $150,000, the site having been secured by the government from the Shattuck estate.

The new federal building will be another chapter in the evolution of Alhambra as one of the chief business thoroughfares of the city. The beautiful new Federal building, designed by the architect, John H. Johnson, of New York City, is already under the construction.

The delightful homesites in and about Oaklands are being developed ever so fast, as the water certificate for irrigation of the water of the creek runs forward. The new districts are now forming.

One of the most important events of the week in Oakland last estate circles was the automobile trip taken by Aahmud Temple of the Mystic Shrine through the foothills of Oakland yesterday. Two hundred Oakland delegates left the city at Sixteenth and Broadway, going to the top of the Union Savings Bank building on through Adams Point, the Coast Tract, Piedmont, Rock Ridge and Claremont. The trip to Los Angeles, combined with this ride over the Oakland foothills gave 200 of the most prominent men of Oakland a splendid knowledge of the Bay City of the future. It was a trip full of inspiration and suggestion and undoubtedly result in a strong determination to make Oakland immediately what she by natural advantages is destined to be, and ultimately must be—a strong commercial city with a magnificent waterfront and a foothill residence property that is unequalled anywhere.

The climate, the soil, the topography of the district, the spirit and determination of the residents all work together to make Oakland a delightful place for home building and for realizing to the fullest extent the opportunities for making the most desirable home sites that are found on earth.

DISTRICT TO EAST IMPORTANT.
Even in talking to an investor of downtown property it is a vital talking point at this time to mention the fact that the district is not only a link to the east of Oakland is really only beginning to contribute to our merchants compared with the business that would come from the west. The new Electric lines are now rushing down through the valley and across upon acres of the best soil imaginable will soon be making it possible to develop the valley markets. It would open the eyes of the most pessimistic individual in Oakland. He would be taking a trip of my one hundred miles in the valley and see the main highway. I doubt if there is one man in the city today who realizes what the laying of this world of property will mean to the city.

Oakland is taking big strides as a industrial center and the valley building Oakland is essentially a home city, a city of real homes, not merely houses and grounds that are correct and pleasing examples of the talent of architect, landscape gardener and decorator.

The climate lends itself to the luxuriant growth of plants that adorn the surroundings of a home, and the same climate is friendly to the development of the physical and mental health of the inmates of these homes.

residence districts. Stroats and car lines have been extended into the hitherto all but inaccessible hill regions. Almost everywhere as one journeys through the city as if conjured up by the magician's wand, there have sprung up the new residence districts on the same of modern architecture and modern conveniences. A large portion made living there practicable. The business man, the retired capitalist, the farmer, the city dweller, the man from the farms of the interior and the mountains, the Sierra, from Alaska and the main from the South, have sought a friendly climate and pleasant surroundings in which to pass the years of ease after a life of activity, at once away from the possibilities of this hill region. The result has been that large gardeners found here the opportunities to give them the results for the work of their hands and brains. The result has been the development of a residence district that is without parallel in this city. It has been demonstrated that the man will not amount to much if he does not have something to which to expend on building and grounds. The man who has a home that is an integral part of his surroundings.

Not to the millionaires alone belong the money with a claim that attaches the name of a city. The man who is attached to the grass covered flower decked slopes and vales. The hearts of the residents, like oak trees, are firmly Within easy reach of the business center of Oakland, country homes are being built in almost all of the localities. Many of the new home owners are learning the delights of life in this ideal region. Districts that one year ago were the last of the line are now the preferred localities for home makers. The steady march of the improvement of electric roads by bonds and paved streets gives assurance that still other new districts are to be brought into the home-land limits. This gives the opportunity for the careful investor who looks ahead, to buy his land and get it cheap, and in a few years to see his investment surrounded by beautiful neighbors and handsome residences.

RICHMOND, OUR YOUNG AND VIGOROUS SISTER CITY, IS GROWING RAPIDLY

AN INDUSTRIAL AND HOME CENTER

Large Volume of Money Circulated by Local Factory Payrolls Stimulates Business Remarkably.

Real Estate Is Low in Price and Finds Ready Buyers.

RICHMOND, May 4.—With a number of factories commencing to erect their buildings, others having purchased land for sites and still others negotiating for locations, the industrial situation in this city can truthfully be said to be in a healthful condition. These factories all increase the monthly payroll, which has already reached the half million dollar a month mark, payable every two weeks, and as it is all new money which comes in from all parts of the world it keeps local conditions constantly stimulated. On pay nights the banks keep open until 7 and 8 o'clock to pay the checks, and strings of men wait in line half a block in length outside for their turn at the windows of the cashiers.

The two parts of the city are soon to grow together, as July 1 is the day set for the government to establish its free mail delivery and abolish all postoffices here, of which there are now three, except the one main office of Richmond, with a sub-station on the west side. This will help materially toward cementing the east and west sides of the city.

The coming of the Southern Pacific electric line down Cutting boulevard for a distance of over two miles and to the west side and the fact that every lot on Cutting boulevard has been sold and is going to be built upon is another great factor toward bringing the two sections of the city into one. And back of all that is the great inner harbor to be established and constructed just back of Cutting boulevard. The government engineers under Colonel William Rees are now ready to report to the War Department favorably upon this project, and the people of Richmond are ready to vote half a million in bonds to make up the million necessary for the best land-locked harbor on the Pacific Coast. The father of this immense project for industrial and shipping progress is Mayor J. C. Owens, who has worked tirelessly in season and out upon all the details, securing the cooperation of Congressman Knowland in it and through him the War Department of the Federal Government. The government appropriation of half a million is practically sure, provided their engineers report favorably, and those engineers announced a few days ago that the feasibility of it is unquestioned.

RICHMOND'S HUSTLING MAYOR.

MAYOR J. C. OWENS.

MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION.

The new Castro Point railroad is rapidly assuming form under the supervision of Superintendent H. G. Biggs of the San Francisco Quarries Company, and that means upon completion a connection with the Marin county shore by ferry and with the new electric road from Santa Rosa to San Quentin. It also means the building of the wharf and buildings of the Royal Mail Steamship Company of England, which demanded such a railroad connection with the Belt Line and the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific before purchasing its waterfront interests here.

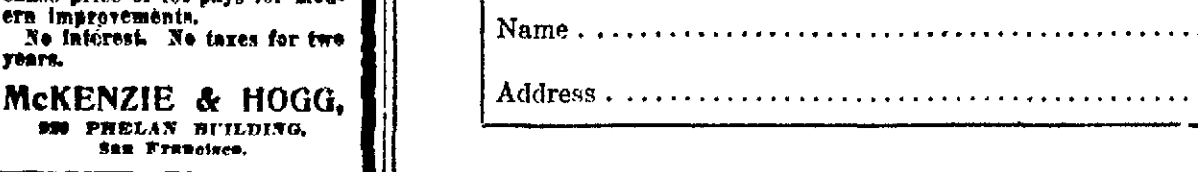

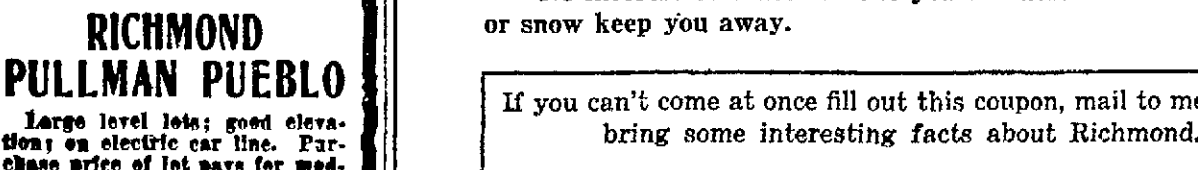

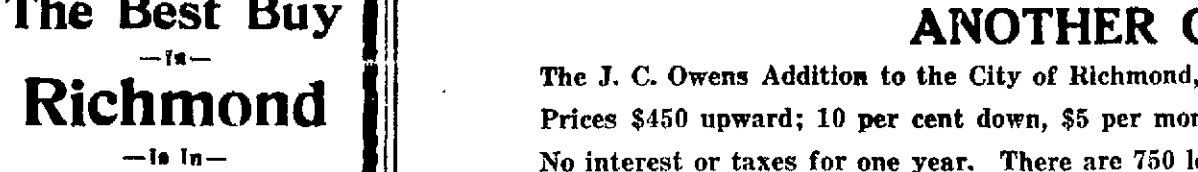

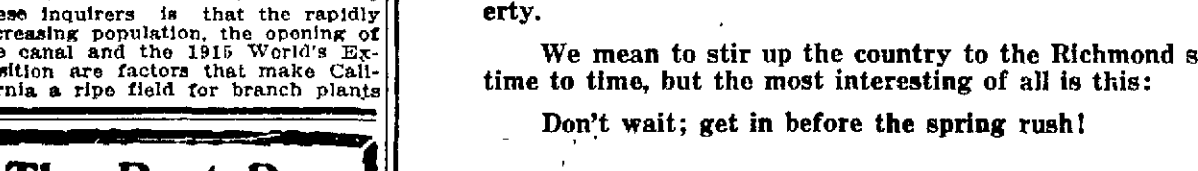

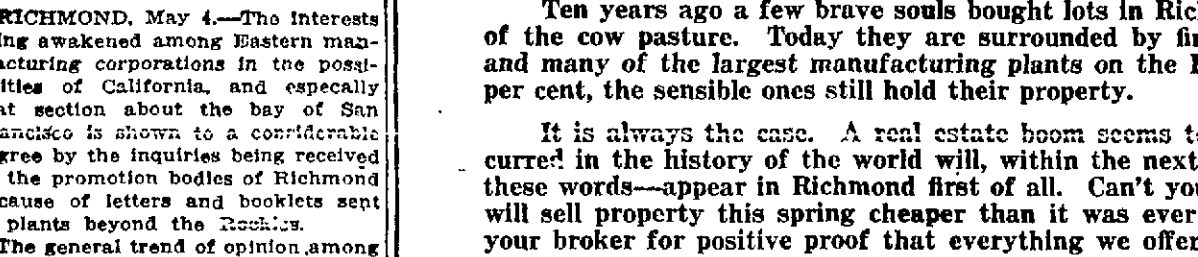

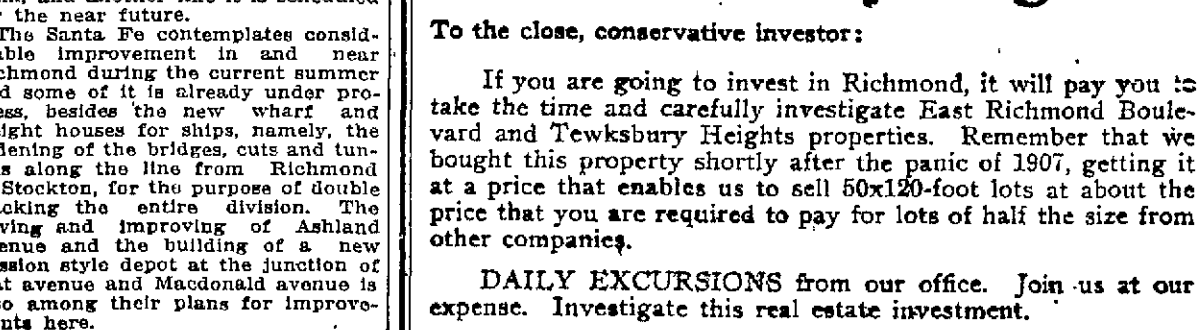

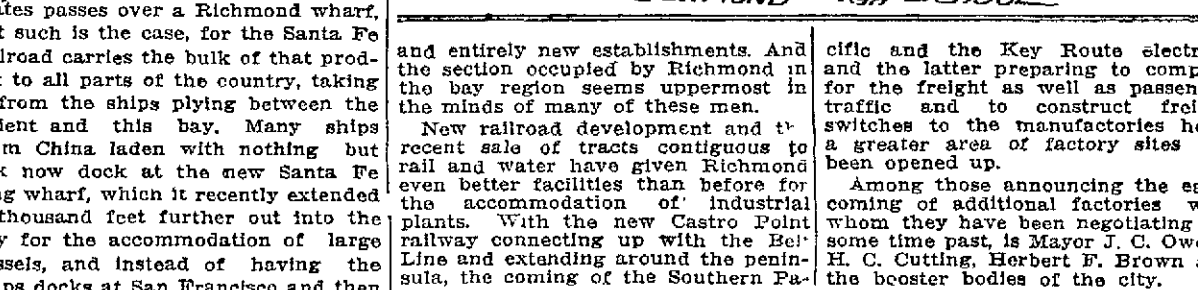

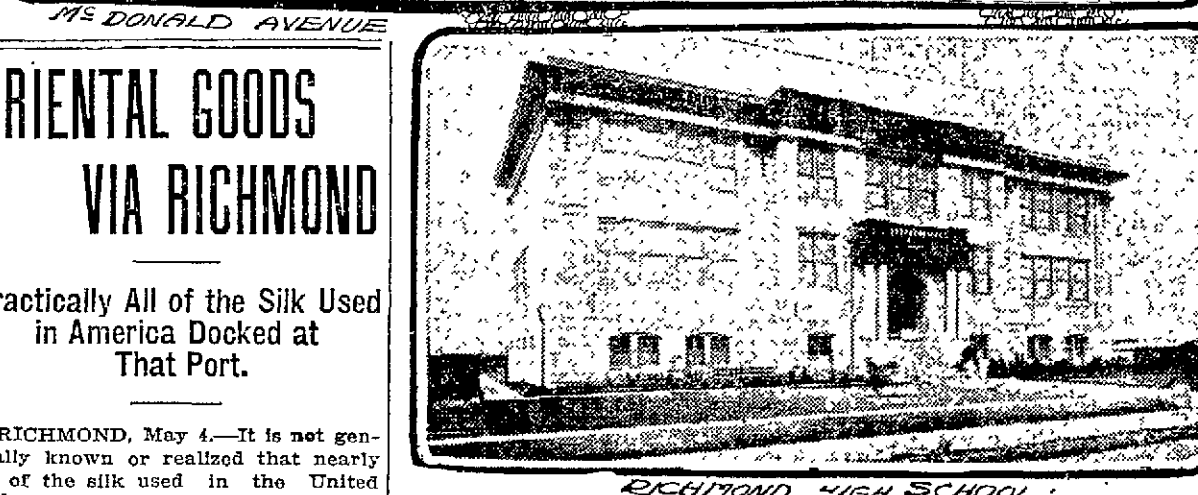

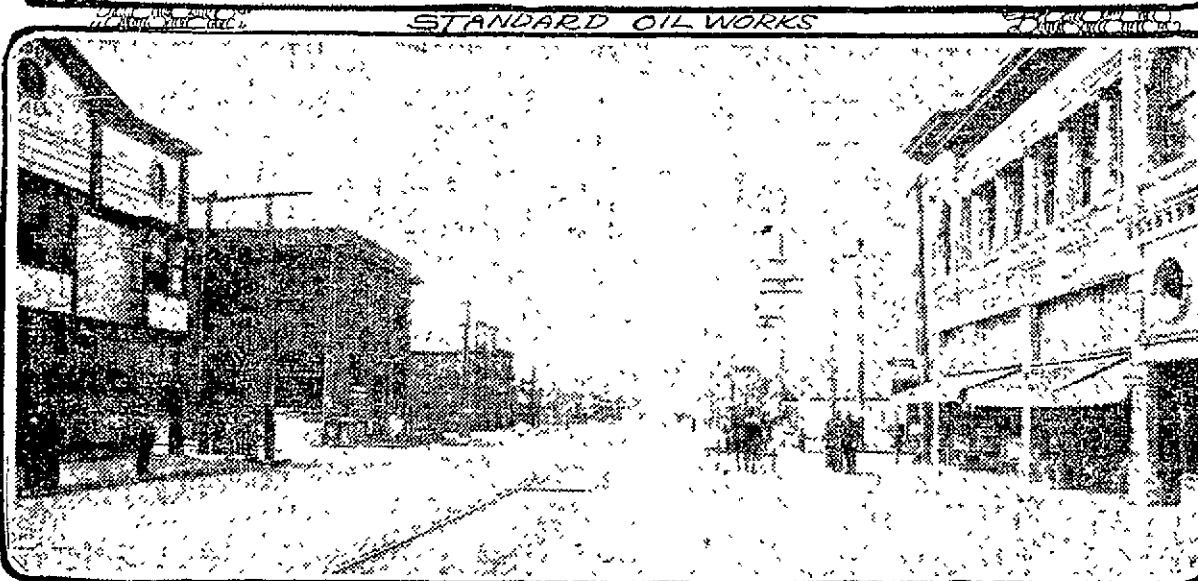

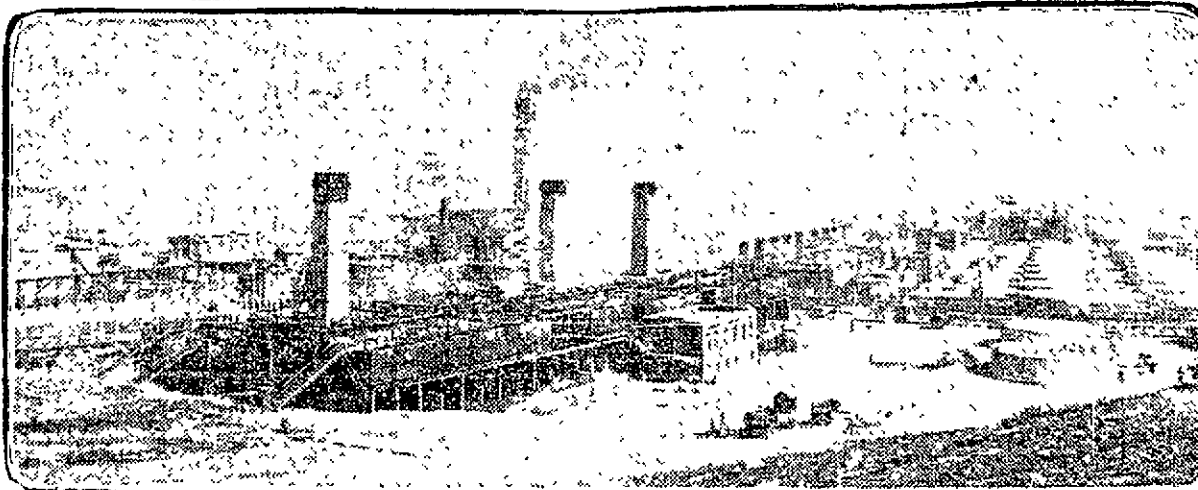

Captain Lauritzen's new ferry service started up this week and is now plying between San Francisco and Richmond, doing a good business every day.

The Standard Oil work continues its immense new construction work, has its third pipe line to the southern part of the state nearly completed, is dotting the surrounding country with new steel oil tanks and maintains a small army of workmen on brick and carpenter work for new buildings and new branches of its gigantic business. It intends to make the Richmond refinery the largest in the world, and its payroll, embracing 1600 men, is constantly on the increase.

Mayor Owens announces the opening of a high-class residence tract in the southeast section of the city on land owned by him, and a number of other tracts are being placed upon the market.

DR. AKED'S SUBJECTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Rev. Dr. Aked will preach tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the First Congregational church on "The New Emancipation." At 8 p. m. his topic will be "Old Friends Visited; No. 2 'Tito Melema.' George Elliot's 'Romola' and 'Brand' Ibsen—The Tragedy of Noble Failure." Tomorrow Samuel D. Mayer will celebrate his fortieth anniversary as organist of the First Congregational Church.

NO ANNEXATION FOR RICHMOND

The Factory City Thinks San Francisco's Ambition a Joke.

RICHMOND, May 4.—Richmond's Industrial Commission, its Board of Trade and its greatest business interests and citizens generally are highly amused at San Francisco's high ambition, not to say monumental gall, in wanting to annex Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond and everything else on the east side of the bay, and as far as Richmond is concerned it will have none of it, and considers it a huge joke. The industrial and business interests of Oakland and Richmond, it is considered here, are identical, and the belief is firm that in the not very distant future one vast city will stretch out its arteries and arms of commerce and trade clear from Richmond to Hayward, with Oakland as the hub and commercial center and Richmond the manufacturing end of the big combination, attaining its ambition to become in reality "The Pittsburgh of the West."

In discussing this at a recent meeting the Board of Trade expressed its satisfaction at the bay metropolis growing bigger and greater, and that for it to go down the peninsula and take in San Mateo, Burlingame and even Palo Alto, or San Jose if it wants to, but to come clear across the bay and swallow Oakland and Richmond caused an audible smile to go around the audience.

Richmond expects to be a city of 60,000 in less than ten years, and half that size before the 1915 World's Exposition is over, and its growth to 12,000 from a wheat field in the last very few years and present firm foothold justifies that belief. Out of its half a million dollar a month payroll it is willing to spend a liberal share with its sister city, Oakland, but when it comes to being gobbled by anything across the San Francisco bay it proposes to object with the strenuousness of which it is justly famous.

WALL'S SECOND ADDITION TO RICHMOND

New Richmond Land Company Acquires Choice Tract and Will Put It on Market With Best of Improvements

We Have Already Located a Large Concern in This New Tract That Will Employ a Great Many Men

The New Richmond Land Company bears the enviable reputation of having done more intrinsic good for the "Factory City of California" than any other realty firm in the Bay Counties. Its achievements cover the time since Richmond was first acknowledged an ideal factory site, and manufacturers flocked in to erect gigantic plants.

Today that city is in the heyday of its prosperity. It is no longer an unknown and struggling community, but one of California's most favored districts, with an ever-increasing population of thousands. The unceasing efforts of Mr. Wall's whose close association with railroad magnates and noted financiers has made it possible for him to negotiate with the most representative manufacturers of the United States.

Transportation to the north part of Richmond is well established by the existence of the Sixth Street and Twenty-third Avenue car line and an extension through on Eighth Street north of the existing car line has been arranged for. This extension will serve the San Pablo vicinity as well as providing a belt street railway around the north end of the city. The Medina Tract has been subdivided into lots and is now being put on the market.

There will be spent in this splendidly located tract some $65,000.00 for improvements, and buyers who purchase this property will not have to worry about street work and other assessments. In laying out this beautiful tract of land the company had in mind the many industries that will make Richmond their future home and have reserved many splendid factory sites located on three railroads and within easy reach of deep water facilities.

The company is now negotiating with a number of other large manufacturing concerns, and no doubt arrangements will soon be completed for these plants to commence the erection of their factories in this new tract of land, which is called Wall's Second Addition to the City of Richmond, with offices in the Monadnock Building, San Francisco.

A Cow Pasture and What Became of It

Ten years ago a few brave souls bought lots in Richmond for $200 and upwards. They were then in the midst of the cow pasture. Today they are surrounded by fine business establishments, most beautifully designed homes and many of the largest manufacturing plants on the Pacific Coast. Many buyers sold and realized 300, 400 and 500 per cent, the sensible ones still hold their property.

It is always the case. A real estate boom seems to carry a veil in front of it. The biggest boom that ever occurred in the history of the world will, within the next ten years, take place in California real estate—and mark these words—appear in Richmond first of all. Can't you see it coming? Will you come in with us at the start? We will sell property this spring cheaper than it was ever offered before, value considered. You need only to consult your broker for positive proof that everything we offer is far below the market prices for equally attractive property.

We mean to stir up the country to the Richmond situation. We will have some interesting things to say from time to time, but the most interesting of all is this:

Don't wait; get in before the spring rush!

Down Town Snap

Pair of fine modern flats on William St. (or 19th), between San Pablo and Telegraph avenues. This is close-in downtown business property, and is bound to advance in value rapidly. I advise the purchase of this property either for a home and income as it stands, or for improvement with store in the near future. The demand for desirable inside property and the number of substantial sales is by far in excess of the great market of the year 1906.

$62,500 Corner

I have the best close-in corner on Telegraph avenue in the active district for sale at any price, and corresponding in quality with the Butters' corner on San Pablo avenue and 16th street; the Ball corner on Clay and 16th streets, both of which have been sold within the past few days; frame improvements; choice location; bound to enhance in value rapidly.

Store and Flat

On 7th street; downstairs store and living rooms; upstairs, 8-room flat; out-of-town owner will sacrifice for a quick sale; price $3000. This street has been blighted from one end to the other in first-class manner by the S. P. Co. As a small business speculation this buy cannot be equalled in the Oakland market today.

$35 a Foot on 7th Street

East of Alameda street, I have a place of vacant land that I can sell for $35 a foot. This property is adjoining the tract of land on which is to be built immediately the $500,000 auditorium, and which, in addition thereto, will be permanently used as a public park.

Pair of Flats

Sunny corner on 13th street, in West Oakland, all occupied; price $3500. You ought to see this property. Not only is this property well situated in good condition, but the building alone would cost almost as much as the entire property is selling for. This is bound to be a business corner some day at no great distant future, according to the extensive West Oakland waterfront improvements near completion.

Two Cheap Homes

One on Third street, near Adeline street, I can sell for $1200; and on Adeline street, south on 7th street, I have a 5-room cottage, lot 25x30, that I can sell for $1500, and easy terms if you wish.

$15 a Foot

In Fruitvale, close to car line, and near the Key Route right-of-way, I have several good building lots that I can sell for $15 a foot.

A Big Bargain

Near 55th street and Shattuck avenue, I have a 6-room cottage, lot 50x140, that I can sell for $250 down, the balance like rent.

Only $100 Down

In North Oakland I have a 6-room cottage, lot 30x100; and in East Oakland I have a new 6-room bungalow; $100 down, and the balance like rent, will buy either of these homes.

$300 a Foot

19th and San Pablo

Within a few feet of San Pablo avenue, on 19th street, I have a place of property, 95 feet front. Present improvements bring $50 a month. This will make an excellent location for a good building for apartments and stores. A large apartment house will be under construction in a few days adjoining this property.

And then there is that 160-acre irrigated farm in grain and timothy hay, etc. It's a peach. Could all be put in alfalfa. Fine buildings. All the water wanted free; $12,000. Will take part cash or trade and give long time on balance.

We have a full acre of ground right in Fruitvale that would make a fine little chicken ranch and could be cut up any time into town lots at double its present cost. Ask us about this. Good cottage, windmill, etc. Only $500 down, balance easy.

For $2000 we can give you 10 acres near Hayward.

Patterson, Stanislaus County, Cal.

The nearest irrigated ranches from the Bay of the Bay Cities; the best system of irrigation in the state; the land buyers own the irrigation plant.

Seven crops of alfalfa cut each year, 10 tons to the acre; sold in stack at $10 per ton; one seeding lasts 20 years on this soil, with its kind of irrigation. Is there money in this?

Stanislaus is the banner dairy county of California; one acre will feed two cows; butter fat from each cow worth $7 to $8 per month by shipping cream; feed the skim milk to porkers, and get rich.

Strawberries ripe there now; they will ripen all summer on this soil, with this climate, and its irrigation water. Great raspberry and loganberry growth, all you can eat and plenty to market.

Several hundred acres of following fruit now planted: oranges, lemons, olives, figs, dates, peaches, pears, apricots, cherries, plums, and many others. You can plant all your needs with fruit and berries.

Sweet potatoes produce enormously, peanuts do fine, splendid melon soil, and great potato land; all top or root vegetables, peas and beans, several crops each year; one acre produces as much as 3 to 7 acres elsewhere; the land is the cheapest obtainable when you compare results.

English walnuts, large plantings already made; this soil and this water raises the growth of matured walnut trees worth $1500 to $2000 per acre, because of annual profit; plant walnut trees around the outer edge of 20-acre irrigated farm, and you have as many trees as five acres of walnuts contain; this lets you use your land for other crops that immediately produce. For the sake of a little, see what it will do for you.

Can get fine drinking water by sinking well 45 to 50 feet.

Rapid transportation to the big markets of the Bay Cities; also near the Stockton, Sacramento and Fresno markets; main line of Southern Pacific; three hours to Oakland, also San Joaquin river boats direct to San Francisco.

The soil is dark sandy loam of from 2 to 6 feet depth, with a 30-foot porous sub-soil, and a first gravel at about 25 feet, with a 20-foot slope to the mile, on a three-mile slope to the river. Ask anybody who is familiar with the land what means when irrigated.

No alkali, no doby, no hard-pan, no rocks, no stumps, no swamps, no malaria.

A $250,000 irrigating system with four pumping plants, capacity 50,000 gallons a minute; a guarantee of 24 inches of water for every acre, aside from the rainfall; water laterals in face of every acre, including water gates, valves, and pipes; water per year not to exceed $2.00; proof on a visit to the land; it is now and paid for by the water; not a dollar of lien against the land, either.

There is one seven-mile 60-foot boulevard running the full length of the tract, with a row of shade trees and a row of palms planted on each side, from one end to the other, besides circle parks with shade trees, palms and roses every one mile on this grand boulevard; also four cross boulevards with palm and shade trees, planted in two rows the entire length; this is real city-like farming; nothing else like it in California.

A magnificent 400-acre public park of grand old oaks on the San Joaquin river bank, three miles from the town of Patterson, on a splendid boulevard drive.

The town of Patterson, less than 3 years old, has 20,000 people, a fine 2000-acre old, 2000-acre concrete hotel, large mercantile houses, a $25,000 school building, $30,000 bank building, electric light plant, water works and a large school to be built; has fine park and destined to become the most classy and largest town in the San Joaquin valley; no alkali permitted; the town and lands are the life monument of the original owner, W. W. Patterson, a monument of progression, that is revolutionizing a large territory.

Farming on this land is not the old farming, it is the new farming, the new farming is the new farming in production is professional rather than old-time farming; demonstrations of how and what to do is given; for a crop of person will qualify in production with the most up-to-date farmer in the world; get out of the flat; get away from the expensive valley; you support, and get a home in these lands of peace and health and plenty; in a home that will support you at home, surrounded by a thousand close farmer neighbors like yourself; your widow and your children will be absolutely protected for if you die with or without inheritance of a home here; is there any satisfaction in this? HOUSE JUDICIARY
TO PROBE CHARGEPresident Taft Sends Message to House in the Archibald Matter.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Taft, in a message to the House in response to the Norris resolution asking for the papers in the case of Judge Robert W. Archibald of the Commerce Court, charged with having used his office to procure favors from railroads, said it was not compatible with the public interest to make all the papers public at this time. He said they had been sent to the judiciary committee of the House for such further investigation as it might desire to make. It will rest with this committee whether or not impeachment proceedings shall be begun.

One of the specific allegations made against Judge Archibald, it is said, is that he was interested in the proposed purchase of cull banks owned by a coal company controlled by the Erie railroad. It is asserted that these piles of refuse coal were to be bought for a comparatively small sum and sold at a profit of $25,000 to $40,000, of which, it is charged, Judge Archibald would receive one-third.

CHARGES PREFERRED.
The charges, it is said, were preferred in connection with an interstate commerce case by William Boland of Scranton, Pa. Because of their seriousness, involving Judge Archibald's relations with railroads on these operations it is his duty as a member of the Commerce Court to pass legal judgment, President Taft instructed Attorney-General Wickersham to investigate and report to the House judiciary committee.

This committee is charged with the responsibility of investigating such matters, with a view to determining whether a prima facie case justifying impeachment proceedings is presented. The House impeaches and the Senate is trial court for a Federal official. The judiciary committee, it is believed, will begin an inquiry at once.

The charges were made last February. The department of justice has had an inquiry, sending a representative to Pennsylvania, where the deals were supposed to have been made. Judge Archibald has not yet been heard in the matter, but probably will be called early to offer his explanations.

Judge Archibald is from Pennsylvania and was appointed to the Commerce Court by President Taft January 31, 1911. He is a circuit judge and his tenure in the Commerce Court will be four years, after which he returns to the Third Circuit.

She fell in love with the tutor of her brother, who is a cavalry lieutenant, and holds the title of Count. He is a son of Maximilian Prince of Waldeburg. The betrothal has just been celebrated and the Emperor was present at the ceremony.

CLAIM NEVADATaft and Roosevelt Supporters Are Evenly Divided, Is the Claim.

FALCON, Nev., May 4.—With both the Taft and Roosevelt supporters registering claims of future victory today, politicians predict that the Republican State Convention, which convenes here on Monday, May 6, will be the scene of a bitter fight for Nevada's six delegates to the Republican National Convention in Chicago, with a strong possibility of a split.

Both the partisans of Roosevelt and Taft have been active since the Republican State Central Committee adjourned without passing resolutions committing itself to the candidacy of either man, and, though a Roosevelt sentiment is conceded, it is claimed by Taft's backers that Tasker L. Odell's action in switching to Roosevelt, after pledging his support to Taft, has created a strong counter-sentiment in favor of the present incumbent of the White House. In consideration of these claims, the Roosevelt men assert that Nevada will send a solid Roosevelt delegation to Chicago.

FRAUD CHARGED TO LITHOGRAPH MENGot $100,000 for "Fake" Process, Say Company Officials.

LONDON, May 4.—Clark A. Miller and Alfred E. Motley, formerly of New York, were arraigned in the Bow street police court on a charge of grand larceny. Motley and Miller are charged with having swindled William Ottman, John Ottman and James M. Hutton, officers of the United States Lithograph company, of New York, out of $100,000.

Both of these men until recently had an office in New York, where they interested Ottman in an alleged secret process to turn out perfect lithographs at one-tenth the cost of the old system. The secret process, they said, would also make a lithograph in an hour that it would take days to perfect by the old method.

Ottman alleges that Motley and Miller represented other large firms as bidders for an interest in the process, and after a course of practical demonstrations of their ability to turn out the largest sheet posters, as well as the smallest lithograph, in an incredibly short time, induced him and his associates to put up $100,000 for the privilege of using the process in this country. Later, on being convinced that they could print lithographs on canvas, as well as on paper, the Ottman crowd claim to have put up another $50,000.

These demonstrations, Ottman alleges, were false, and the effect obtained was the result of sleight of hand methods, the lithographs being prepared beforehand and "planted" for the Ottman clique.

Both Motley and Miller denied these charges when arrested in London and each of them supplied bail to the amount of $50,000 for his appearance today.
